Cpl. Gordon Chammen said vehicles on an undivided highway are required by law to stop whether approaching or coming from the rear.

He said he is considering supplying the bus drivers with pre-printed forms on which they could fill in information on vehicles and drivers that pass illegally.

If this procedure is used, Chammen said in a case where the driver couldn't be identified the registered owner would be charged.

Mayor McGee may attend conference

Mayor Tom McGee says he will look at the possibility of attending the International Privatization Congress in Saskatoon next May.

The original invitation was sent to former mayor Bob Mayhew last month.

The world class event to be held May 13-16 is expected to attract 2,000 delegates from 50 nations.

Mayhew was one of two Canadian speakers invited to attend the congress to present the privatization story in Drayton Valley.

Road numbers given to rural MD

The Municipal District of Brazeau has recently been implementing a rural road numbering system east of the North Saskatchewan River, the same as was already in place on the west side of the river.

Municipal manager John Eriksson said the system will make the municipality consistent.

It will enable emergency services and the general public to locate and give directions for roads within the municipal district.

The system is much like street numbers or names in towns or cities. Range road numbers have been assigned to all north/south roads, and township numbers to east/west roads. Those that do not follow the standard grid system have been assigned a formal name.

Meat care should carry into winter

Summer barbecues may have ended for 1989, but the caution backyard chefs used to thoroughly cook their meats shouldn't stop when they move back into their kitchens says an Alberta Agriculture specialist.

"Following standard and common sense safety procedures can prevent the type of food poisoning commonly referred to as hamburger disease or barbecue syndrome," says Aileen Whitmore, provincial food and nutrition specialist. Under-cooked meat is the prime culprit in the disease caused most commonly by E coli bacteria. The bacteria produces a poison or toxin that damages the lining of the intestine and results in hemorrhagic colitis.

Most people recover from the infection within two weeks. In a very small number of cases, the E coli toxin results in a serious, sometimes fatal complication, hemolytic uremic syndrome (HUS). This illness affects kidneys and blood and is especially dangerous to young children and the elderly.

"As with most bacterial contamination of meat, it is almost exclusively the surfaces of raw meat that may harbor the bacteria," says Whitmore. "Through the grinding process surface contaminants spread throughout uncooked ground meat — that makes hamburger a likely candidate for the bacteria."

Cooking, pasteurization and safe food preparation destroys the E coli bacteria, so one of the important ways to avoid the disease is by cooking all meats thoroughly. "Thorough cooking of hamburgers means the centre of hamburger patties are brown and juices are clear," she says.

Meats should be refrigerated or frozen as soon as possible after they are purchased. Frozen meats should be thawed in the refrigerator, not at room temperature.

Quality feed means profit

Knowing feed quality is particularly important to livestock producers this year because poor harvesting conditions have resulted in reduced feed quality.

By assessing the quality of the feed they have for their livestock, producers can make adjustments so their stock gets the right rations to withstand winter and to be in good condition.

Feed quality affects the animal's nourishment. Adequate nourishment helps animals resist disease and metabolic disorders. For livestock producers, adequate nourishment also means making a profit.

A key part of a good sample is getting a truly representative sample of the entire lot of feed being evaluated. At least 20 sub-samples should be combined to make up the sample sent to a feed testing laboratory.

Grab samples of grain are acceptable as long as weed seeds or light kernels are not lost in the process, but using a grain probe is probably better for stored grain. Grab samples of chopped forage or silage are also acceptable. Baled forage should never be sampled without using a core sampler. Core samplers are available from Alberta Agriculture district offices.

Feed testing services are available at several locations around the province.

For more information about testing feed and grain quality, contact your nearest Alberta Agriculture district agriculturist or regional livestock specialist.

Improved weather conditions helps road projects

Much improved weather has allowed the Municipal District of Brazeau to "catch up a little" on road construction projects, according to director of public works Richard Tatro.

"We are on our last designated mile (a new road near Violet Grove) to finish," said Tatro.

A one-mile stretch by the airport won't be started until next year in case weather causes work to cease and the road to be closed for the winter season.

Tatro also said people that require private driveways to be cleared of snow during the winter season must sign an agreement with the MD this year.

"We won't do it without an agreement," Tatro said. "It saves us liability problems."

Thank You Drayton Valley!

Your confidence in me is greatly appreciated.

I will do my best to live up to your expectations.

Jean Saunders

On behalf of myself and the many people who worked long and hard on my campaign, I would like to thank the residents of the Town of Drayton Valley for their support in last week's election. It is gratifying to see that so many residents care enough about their community to get out and exercise their right to vote for who they want to represent them in the decisions that directly affect them.

I would like to point out that even though you have voted for a change for the future, we must not forget the past. Bob Mayhew worked hard for the Town of Drayton Valley during his nine years as Mayor, and his efforts were instrumental in making the Town what it is today. This should never be forgotten by the citizens of Drayton Valley.

You have voted for change and the change is going to come. However, I cannot bring about this change without your help. I urge everyone to keep the lines of communication open and let me know what your concerns are. My door is always open so feel free to call me anytime.

Again, thank you Drayton Valley! I will look forward to meeting all of you during my term as Mayor.

Mayor Tom McGee

Lindale only Twin Rivers school with teacher effectiveness

By Shaun Polzer

There is a school in the Drayton Valley area that is taking a different tack in trying to improve the quality of education in the schools.

Rather than crack down on students to study harder, the Lindale school is making its teachers study harder to try and achieve the effect of raising the overall performance of everyone in the school — teachers and students alike.

It is called the Teacher Effectiveness Program, and Lindale is the only school in the Twin Rivers school division to use it on a full-time basis.

Teacher effectiveness is not a new idea. Many educators from around the province have participated in teacher effectiveness seminars in the past few years, but no school has taken to the program on a full-time basis the way Lindale has.

This is the first year it has been implemented through the school.

Principal Dennis Harris says the program is an ongoing service plan for teachers to polish up their lesson presentations.

In seminar fashion, basic areas of the learning process are targeted and illuminated to enhance an overall teaching technique. It is kind of a class for teachers.

"It's an excellent program," says Harris, "everyone gets a lot out of it."

He explained it is a non-judgemental plan, and that teachers are not graded by how well they do with the ideas the way students are.

Teachers are, however, observed to see how well they employ the material that is given to them.

The end result is two-fold.

The first goal is to produce better teachers to complement the second goal, which is to produce better pupils.

Whether those goals have been met adequately will be determined with the final report card in the spring.

"I'm quite confident we will be able to really notice the difference by the end of the year," said Harris, referring to the final marks.

He added however, that he didn't think Lindale was a model for other schools in the area.

Lindale Big People/Little People was a happy accident - teacher

Big people and little people eating lunch at Lindale school. Kindergarten teacher Gail Reles says the club was a happy accident.

The Big People/Little People club at the Lindale school started off as an accident, says kindergarten teacher Gail Reles.

"The club started with a request for some students to help out with the younger kids," said Reles, "I never anticipated the response."

In all, 14 members of the grades 7,8, and 9 classes come to the kindergarten room Tuesdays and Thursdays in teams of two to help with some of the chores.

Their duties include helping with shoelaces, jackets and mitts, which Reles says is very important with children this age, snack preparation, and classroom cleanup.

The club has worked out very well because, as Reles puts it, "The little guys like the big guys, which makes the big guys feel important."

Permanent Cover Program

The Permanent Cover Program is a component of the three-year $34.8 million Canada-Alberta Soil Conservation Initiative.

The purpose of the program is to reduce soil deterioration on high risk lands presently in annual cultivation.

Under Option 1 of the program farmers receive $20 per acre as a one-time payment for seeding perennial forages on eligible land. Although under no legal obligation, farmers are encouraged to keep these lands under forage.

Under Option 2, eligible landowners receive the $20 per acre payment under Option 1 plus a one-time per acre bid payment. The bid payment is for entering into a 10 or 21 year agreement to keep lands under permanent cover.

Producers wishing to enter into Option 2 contracts must apply prior to December 1, 1989. Those who wish to seed forage this fall (Option 1) are urged to apply immediately.

Application forms are available from Municipal Offices, Alberta Agriculture District Offices and PFRA District Offices. Completed applications must be returned to your local Municipal Office.

TO PLACE YOUR CLASSIFIED AD

TIPS ON HOW TO RUN AN EFFECTIVE CLASSIFIED AD:

*Be specific

Yes, put in your asking price. Mention the facts that pertain to the item. The more useful information you give the reader, the more serious buyers you'll talk to...and the less you'll be annoyed by people calling to ask you the questions you should have answered in your ad.

*Stay away from abbreviations

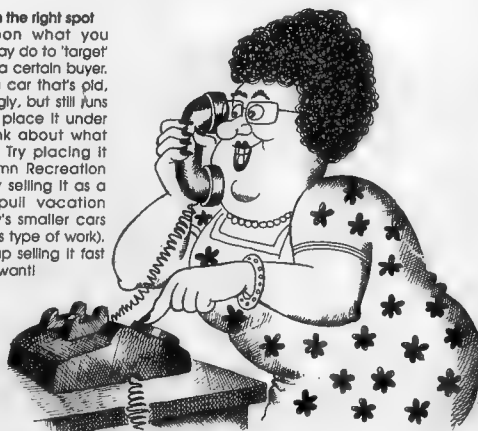

Unless they're universally known, abbreviations of words or phrases can be confusing, or worse, misconstrued. Talk to our classified ad-visor when composing your ad to be sure the abbreviations you use are acceptable.

*Specify hours with your phone number

Make it easy for the caller to connect with you (they may not call again) and easy for you to live your life without a barrage of disruptive phone calls. When potential customers know when and where to reach you...they will.

*Place your ad in the right spot

Depending upon what you have to sell, it may do to 'target' your ad toward a certain buyer. Say you have a car that's old, oversized and ugly, but still runs well. You could place it under 'Autos', but think about what else it can do. Try placing it under the column Recreation Vehicles and try selling it as a good car to pull vacation vehicles. (Today's smaller cars aren't built for this type of work). You might end up selling it fast for the price you want!

Harvest yield and grades poor-average

About 95 per cent of combining was completed across the province by the Thanksgiving weekend, signalling near completion of another harvest season.

"Three weeks of good weather in late September and early October allowed farmers in most parts of the province to finish their harvesting operations by Thanksgiving," says Michelle Timko, Alberta Agriculture's crop statistician.

The exceptions are in some areas west of Edmonton and in the Peace region where fields remain too wet for equipment. "Some farmers in those wet areas may have to wait until the ground freezes before they can get at their crops," she says.

Timko says yields and grades are lower than initially anticipated. "In general, cereal yields are estimated at average, but grades are generally poor. There also appears to be little malt quality barley. Cereal bushel weights are light too, particularly for barley," she says.

Better news is that fall field work and winter crop seeding is well under way. Reports are that emerged winter crops look excellent," Timko adds.

Glad gliders

Drayton Valley and Evansburg Air Cadets were recently provided with an exceptional opportunity to go up in gliders at CFB Nambo near Edmonton.

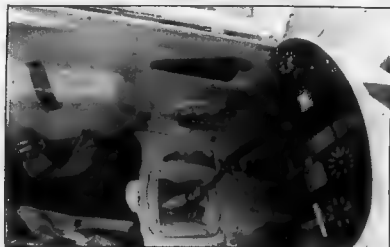

The purpose of the trip was to familiarize the cadets with the gliders. About 21 cadets were lucky enough to be along for the experience.

Scouts launch membership drive

By Shaun Polczer
The Boy Scout movement will be mounting an extensive membership campaign in the coming year.

Northern region chairman Denny May said the membership drive was the main priority to come out of the regional meetings held in Drayton Valley Oct. 13-15.

Delegates from all the areas north of Edmonton from Lloydminster to Tete Jaune Cache, B.C. were in town for annual administrative meetings to appoint a new executive and to talk business.

"Our main goal will be to get the message of scouting out to the public and to recruit new members and volunteers," said May.

There will be a high profile national ad campaign to help spread that message.

He explained the scouting movement was especially strong in countries such as the United States and Great Britain, where there are over one million Boy Scouts alone.

"These are the kinds of goals the Canadian scouting movement will be shooting for."

"A lot of good things have come out of the Boy Scouts," said May, indicating the citizenship aspect of the boys' program itself, as well as the volunteerism that has allowed the movement to exist and operate for 81 years now.

The son of Alberta aviation pioneer Wop May, Denny May has been involved with Boy Scouts for 45 years.

Poet enjoys convention

Breton News

By Shelli Carson

The Washington Hilton Towers (Washington, D.C.) played host to more than 3,700 poets from all over the world Sept. 1-3.

Gwen Hooks, Golden Poet award winner and husband Mark, were the only ones to represent Alberta at the fifth annual convention of the World of Poetry.

Gwen says a highlight of the weekend was the 'Balloons for Peace'. All of the poets wrote poems of peace, tied them on helium balloons and released them over Washington, resulting in thousands of balloons floating over the capital, all in the quest for peace. Each balloon had a prayer and a return address on it, in hopes that some would be returned.

During the awards, the poets were divided into groups of 200 where the winning poems were read and the writers received their awards — a proud moment for Gwen.

Entertainment was provided by several celebrities: Gaylords' composer Larry Manigilla, pianist Mike Garson, Donale O'Conner, Mickey Rooney, Bob Hope, and others.

A tour of Washington after dark was also included in the weekend. All the embassies, Kennedy Memorial, Vietnam Memorial, Lincoln Memorial, the Capital and the Washington Monument were visited. Gwen says a sad contrast was to see homeless people sleeping on the street across from the White House.

Gwen found the convention a wonderful experience and hopes to return next year.

Dressing should complement salad — not overwhelm

By Samia Valleand
Consumers' Association

Historians may well remember the 1980s as the decade of the salad.

Gone are the vapid white chunks of watery iceberg lettuce. Instead, marbled red radicchio jostles with pale golden endive, dark green spinach tosses with curly escarole, creamy sweet butterhead teams up with the new, old standby, robust romaine.

But no matter how exotic the greens, reds or golds, an undressed salad is still little more than rabbit food.

We add zest by whipping up our own dressings or choosing one of so many from the supermarket. The variety is almost endless. Creamy styles compete with more traditional oil and vinegar types. Fresh, refrigerated dressings vie with packets of herbs and seasonings to be mixed at home.

These tasty dressings may really make your salad appealing, but they can also strip it of some of its virtue. The lab at Canadian Consumer Magazine examined 36 brands of dressings that ranged from four to 90 calories per serving. Worse, some of those calories came from fat. The low-cal brands were certainly winners nutritionally but were a taste disappointment.

Unfortunately, none of the tested dressings were clear-cut winners in terms of offering both taste and nutrition. A salad dressing should complement the vegetables it accompanies without overwhelming them.

Tastes are highly individual, but most people would agree they should not be too sour, oily, salty or sweet.

The cost per serving is also important to most consumers. CAC-Alberta can give you more information on this and how the dressings were rated for nutrition and taste. Just phone 420-0747 between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. on weekdays.

A wetter summer than usual

According to statistics released by the Atmospheric Environment Services of Environment Canada, severe summer weather events (95) increased this year over last (83), but were less than the 1987 season (105), when the extremely severe tornado hit Edmonton.

Severe weather is broken down into four categories: tornado, hail, heavy rain and strong winds. The total number of confirmed tornadoes (22) is down slightly from the previous two years; 26 in 1988 and 24 in 1987.

The 1989 summer severe weather season was notable for a small tornado which touched down in Edmonton July 27. Other small tornadoes touched down in Nordegg (July 15), Thorild (May 10) and Mulhurst (Aug. 2). The most active tornado period occurred Aug. 16 and 17, when a series of seven tornadoes touched down in central and northern Alberta.

Average daily temperatures over the four-month period (May, June, July, August) ranged from normal across the south to over one degree warmer in the northern part of the province.

With the exception of Calgary and High Level, most localities experienced a wetter than usual summer. Rainfall was heaviest over west-central Alberta and northwest in the Peace region. Both Grande Prairie and Peace River accumulated nearly twice their average rainfall for the season.

Halloween treats potential for choking

The frightful spooks and spirits of Halloween long ago have all but vanished. Today, Halloween brings to life cartoon heroes and villains, movie monsters and maidens, and numerous inanimate objects.

To children, Halloween is a magical time filled with the treats they dream about year-round.

Amid all this fun and food, there still lurks a sinister danger, one that is often forgotten in Halloween safety talks. St. John Ambulance reminds you to beware of the potential for choking.

Hard candies, pieces of fruit, small toys, coins and other Halloween treats can become lodged in the throat, blocking the airway. If air is prevented from reaching the lungs, the person will become unconscious. First aid must be started immediately or cardiac arrest and death will follow.

When a child begins to choke, he or she will cough forcefully in an attempt to clear the airway. Do not interfere at this point, but stand by to help.

When the airway becomes completely obstructed, the child will be unable to breathe, cough or speak. He or she will show signs of distress and clutch at the throat. Now is the time to act.

Step 1: Have someone call for an ambulance;

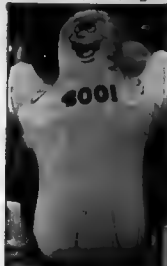

Step 2: Stand or kneel behind the child. Reach around and make a fist with one hand just above the navel and well below the breastbone. Grasp the fist with your other hand and pull upward quickly and forcefully;

Step 3: Repeat abdominal thrusts until successful.

The abdominal thrust, or Heimlich manoeuvre, creates an artificial cough, that forces air out of the lungs to dislodge whatever is blocking the airway.

This procedure can be used on almost all ages, including toddlers. However, a series of back blows and chest thrusts are generally used on infants.

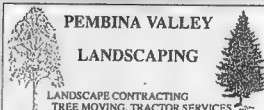

This Halloween, give yourself and your children a special "treat." For more information on first aid training, call the St. John Ambulance office nearest you.

Hoo?

Just another Halloween ghost with pre-spook-night greetings.

ATA president keynote speaker at seminar

About 150 teachers are expected to attend the day-long instructional improvement day in Drayton Valley next Monday.

It's one of three such days set up for the teachers during the current school term.

The sessions, to be held at Frank Maddock high school and Evergreen elementary will attract teachers from ATA (Alberta Teachers Association) Local 82. This includes Twin Rivers and teachers from the separate school.

"People want us to stay current so we're not teaching outdated facts," says Steve Hall, a teacher at FMHS and one of the improvement day organizers.

Teachers have to be in attendance. It's not optional. It's a paid teaching day," Hall added.

Brandon Dunphy, ATA president, will be the keynote speaker at a 9:15 a.m. session.

Some of the sessions planned for the day include global and special education, social studies general principals, student stress, learning styles, achievement testing and diploma exams, computers and an important presentation on effective schools to be presented by Dr. Al Anderson, superintendent of the Twin Rivers school division.

Dr. Martin from Bishop Carroll high school in Calgary will do a session on learning styles.

Those in attendance will also view a number of educational displays throughout the day.

To a 't'

Volunteers prepare to start putting up cross pieces for the t-bar at the Drayton Valley ski hill at the ski club's work bee held recently. The club is working to expand the hill to include tobogganing and sno-bording.

Unicef will be calling

Children in grades 3, 4 and 5 will be collecting donations for UNICEF Halloween night.

Last year children in Drayton Valley raised $1,967 on Halloween night.

In 1988, children across Canada raised over $3 million by carrying their orange UNICEF boxes on Halloween night.

"This is quite an achievement when you consider it was collecting pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters," Jenny Harris, coordinator of this year's campaign says.

Your world can be dominated/powered by good news

By Rev. Barry Parker
BY All Saints
Anglican Church

As we all know, watching or reading the news can be a distressing event.

So often, perhaps most often, the news is not 'good'. Whether it be plane crashes, the death of an environment, the election loss of a favorite candidate, AIDS or the economy — the news often seems anything but good.

Even with all of the developments on the world stage concerning peace and stability that are happening, we hear of all the things that aren't happening. This depressing list could continue ad infinitum.

I say it could continue, but it also can be changed. Your view of the world, even with too much bad news, can change. Your world, at least as you know it, now can become a world dominated and powered by good news. Your life right now, for all its ups and downs, can be a life that has purpose and meaning. You do not have to live in fear of what might happen. You can live in certainty of what has happened.

What is this shift, this change?

Why, it is not good news for a change — it is the good news of Jesus Christ that changes you.

God gave each and every one of us the opportunity to respond to Him through His Son. That is God freely giving us His good news.

If you want to know more, if you want to find a place of good news instead of the depressing litany of the evening news — then go and look for the source of the good news. Go back to your church; ask and listen.

"Where is the good news?" If you don't have a connection to any church, pick any church on this page — call them — ask them directly: "What is the good news? Where do I find it? How do I find it?"

Don't stop asking until you have found and met the source of all good news — Jesus Christ Himself!

Rancher loses cow to poachers

There will not be a 4-H clothing club at Moon Lake this year, but the girls and mothers will meet once a month for a get-together.

Norm and Alma Johnson attended an old-fashioned threshing demonstration at Lloydminster during the Thanksgiving weekend. They also visited with Ralph and Colleen Johnson and family. Bernis, Oliven, Chester and Debbie Town spent the Thanksgiving weekend in the foothills.

Leo and Laura Jackson of Dawson Creek, B.C. were overnight visitors at the home of Dick and Zea MacRae recently.

Laura Woods and son Dan of Victoria, B.C. visited her parents, the Dick MacRaes on the Thanksgiving weekend.

HATS OFF TO OUR HEROS

Lynn Kasper appreciates the cooperation of his employer when the fire department pager goes off.

"It's never suggested that we shouldn't go if there's an emergency call. They're very supportive that way," he says.

He's been with the Drayton Valley fire department for over two years and says he joined because, "I just had to come down and try it out. It's very often fun and it's very often not the least bit fun."

The hardest to take is death, Kasper says. "A house burning down is a minor inconvenience in comparison."

But there are rewards, he insists. "When you go someplace and do something and you have a positive impact...to go to a house fire and catch it in the early stages."

Alberta Sheep Symposium MacEwan featured speaker

The registration deadline for this year's Alberta Sheep Symposium is Oct. 31. The three-day symposium runs from Nov. 30 through Dec. 2.

Symposium topics include: animal behavior, disease management, guard animals, marketing, finance, grading, range management and a review of new production technology. Speakers are recognized authorities in their respective fields in both Canada and the United States.

Grant MacEwan will be the featured speaker at the Friday evening banquet.

For registration or other information about the symposium, contact Wray Whitmore at 427-5083.

Olds College Seed technology workshop

Olds College is offering a three-day seed technology workshop Nov. 14-16.

The workshop takes a look at some of the latest information in the industry as well as giving participants a chance to discuss their expertise and concerns.

Two tours are part of the workshop program. The first goes to Kaun Seed Farms to look at state-of-the-art seed cleaning and treating facilities. The other is an informal tour of Graham Seeds Farms, a pedigree seed farm.

Final registration deadline is Oct. 31. For more information contact Jennifer O'Halloran, Olds College extension services at 556-8344.

An offer for fledgling writers

Are you a "closet writer" who needs encouragement, feedback or constructive criticism?

Would you like to attend workshops on techniques of writing and marketing your work?

Would you simply like to get together with other fledgling writers for support and discussion?

If you answered yes to any of these questions, you apparently have company in our community. In discussion with Jim Wolff of FMHS, I learned of a special project two senior high school students are beginning - a children's storybook.

Are there others out there in our community who, like the students, would benefit from the formation of a writers' guild in Drayton Valley? If you are interested, please fill out a questionnaire sheet available at the library front desk.

An Outreach volunteer is needed to act as a library delivery service to shut-ins in Drayton Valley. This would involve about four hours per month. Contact Doreen Ellery, coordinator of volunteer services.

Patron membership records are being updated for entering into the computer. Next time you are at the library, please give the staff any changes in your membership.

Students/parents beware: Report cards coming soon

Eldorado
The Eldorado soup program will begin Nov. 6. Soup tickets are currently available in lots of 10, 20, 30 or 40. Proceeds go to the Parent's Association.

Individual pictures will be taken Oct. 26.
The first report card goes out Nov. 10, so be prepared! Also, the new parking lot and bus lane will be fully operational this week, after crews hook up the last electrical outlets.

School staff would like to remind the kids to dress warm in the mornings — winter's almost here!

Evergreen
The school's fundraising was successful. Orders were wrapped up last Friday and deliveries will be made sometime toward the end of November.

Nuwcomb (sounds like nuke'em) house leagues will start this week at lunch.

The school would like to congratulate the 128 students that ran in the Lindale run.

Finally, grades 4 and 5 will be collecting for Unicef this Halloween, so watch for them.

H.W. Pickup
The school is still looking for a few parent volunteers to help with its canteen. These parents would work in the kitchen to help prepare and serve hot food to students on those cold days that are not too far away.

On Oct. 26, Quintessence, a five-piece orchestra, will perform for the kids at the school, and on Oct. 27, there will be a Halloween dress-up day and a dance in the afternoon.

St. Anthony
A Unicef worker will be at the school sometime during the week to explain the program and what is involved for students collecting on behalf of the organization Halloween night.

Tomahawk
The MS Readathon is currently underway and will run until Nov. 3. Sponsors are still needed.

Also, the preschool flouride program will be at the school on the afternoon of Oct. 27 where a hygienist will be checking on the kids. Any parents requesting more information can call the health unit at 963-2206.

Frank Maddock
Report cards go out Oct. 27, followed by parent-teacher interviews Nov. 9 and 10.

Parents need not worry about never seeing their kids' reports — additional copies suitable for framing will be mailed home.

Oct. 27 and 28 the boys and girls senior teams will host an invitational volleyball tournament at the school.

The Drayton Valley and District

Anyone wanting to make a nomination can pick up the information at the Chamber of Commerce office in the mornings.

Deadline for nominations is November 15.

Getting involved in club can be challenging

By Bev Brooks
District Home Economist
Community organizations and 4-H clubs are reorganizing for the fall and winter. Now is the time to give your involvement some thought.

Becoming involved in the executive of your club can be challenging. A big challenge that a lot of clubs face is keeping members interested. Running an effective meeting will go a long way toward keeping their interest. Here are some tips to help your club.

Agendas are a very useful tool. They let everyone know what will be happening and gives them a chance to come to the meeting prepared to give their input.

If your club already uses an agenda, you may want to look at its effectiveness. Is it clear or can it easily be misinterpreted? Is it arranged in a logical order? If it isn't, you may spend a good portion of your club's time doing unnecessary work or discussing items that are not an issue.

Try to get the agenda to your members as much before the meetings as possible. If you can, prepare an agenda for the entire year. Amendments or additions to the agenda can still be made, but it gives you a good base to work from.

Start your meetings on time. It takes no longer to run the meeting if it starts on time than if it starts a half-hour late. If it starts on time, you won't feel you've wasted your time as well as your members'. Late-comers will soon learn the meeting will start, with or without them.

Quickly go over your agenda. Add or delete items and get a consensus of priorities. This prevents important new information being brought up just before the scheduled adjournment.

Use firmness and diplomacy to keep things under control. Keep an eye on the clock to help keep yourself on schedule. When discussion is necessary, don't let it go on too long or get off track.

Summarizing is a good way to bring your members' attention back to the business at hand. Before adjourning a meeting, recap important decisions and mention all jobs you've delegated.

Running a good meeting takes practice, but it is well worth the time and effort. You may find your members becoming more active because of your efforts to make their commitment worthwhile.

Intensive workshop set

A four-day hands-on intensive tree-climbing workshop for arborists is being conducted in Edmonton Oct. 30-Nov. 2.

The workshop will provide participants with introductory principles and theories about tree climbing and safe mobility within a tree without the use of spurs or aerial lift devices.

Participants must have post-secondary horticulture training or three years pruning experience to be eligible for the course. As tree climbing is physically demanding, participants should also consult a physician prior to registration.

For more information about the workshop, contact Olds College extension services at 556-8344.

Joe Miller presents Spiker with his caliper.

Top marks earns reward

Highest marks in 1988 for fourth-year machinist at NAIT went to a local man, Kevin Spiker.

The machine shop supervisor, Joe Miller, at Ganske Welding where Spiker is employed, presented him with a digital caliper (measuring instrument) in recognition of his accomplishment.

Spiker jokingly said his future plans are "to keep working here until they fire me."

"Well, then, you'll be an old, old man, I tell you," laughed owner Howard Ganske.

Agriculture Minister Ernie Isley will be the featured luncheon speaker Nov. 23. Dick Dawson, senior vice-president of Cargill, will be the banquet speaker.

Extradition for accused sex-slayer

By Susan Mosicki
Minister of Justice and Attorney General Doug Lewis signed a warrant last week directing that Charles Ng be surrendered to U.S. authorities.

"If it were generally anticipated that by fleeing to Canada, a person accused of capital murder could escape exposure to the death penalty, I think it is foreseeable that Canada would become a safe haven for such criminals," Lewis stated in a letter addressed to Ne's lawyer.

'Exposed to death penalty'

"The bottom line is that the minister (Lewis) said Ng will be surrendered to the U.S. unconditionally," Assistant Deputy Minister Bruce MacFarlane told The Western Review. "He'll be exposed to the death penalty."

Local hero aids in American earthquake disaster

By Paul Cudla
Does it pay to be a hero? After returning from a San Francisco earthquake rescue mission $400 poorer, you might expect a negative answer from Drayton Valley resident Keith Greenhalgh.

But as a member of the Canadian International Rescue Team, he feels a sense of duty and satisfaction in helping out, even if it does cost him $400.

"When things like earthquakes take place we feel that it's our responsibility to help out people when they need help instead of sitting back and expecting other people to do it," Greenhalgh said.

The Canadian Rescue Team received free flights to San Francisco and back home but had to pay for their own meals and rental cars.

"I don't think we have enough money in the bank to draw interest, but when we're needed we go no matter what we have in the bank," Greenhalgh said.

The Canadian Rescue Team is a certified charity organization and is on the U.N. list of accredited rescue services.

Canadian team headed down on their own initiative

After the San Francisco earthquake occurred, the Canadian team headed down on their own initiative. The team targeted the earthquake epicentre, Santa Cruz, as their destination.

Immediately, the team was given the task of looking for AIDS activist Robin Ortiz. Ortiz was buried inside a coffee shop which was engulfed by a collapsed three-storey building.

"People felt they shouldn't have called off the search (for Ortiz)."

"The area commander felt the building wasn't safe enough; it was getting pretty political down there.

Keith Greenhalgh

"Because of our work in other areas they felt comfortable we could find her in the building."

The Canadian team had helped in rescue efforts in the Armenian and Mexican earthquakes.

Using search dogs and chainsaws to cut away unsteady beams, the Canadian team narrowed in on Ortiz. Three hours later the team found Ortiz's body buried under seven feet (five tonnes) of rubble.

"After we brought Robin's body out, all of Robin's family came out and thanked us; it was an emotional moment."

Later on in the evening, the rescue team was called to a scene a half-block away from the coffee shop where dogs had picked up a scent.

After digging through rubble for five hours the Canadian team pulled out the body of a dead rat.

"We ended up being called the 'Canadian Rat Pack' after that."

Greenhalgh has been a Drayton Valley resident for six years and a member of the rescue team for one. He serves as the executive director of the Western branch.

The team has 50 members from across Canada and was started by Montrealer George Foster after the Armenian earthquake two years ago.

Greenhalgh says the Canadian team has established itself as leaders in rescue situations.

"We've always gone inside"

"When you compare what we have (equipment-wise) with other countries, we have about one-eighth of what other countries have."

"The way we work and the respect we have makes up for the other seven-eighths."

"Nobody can say the Canadian team never went inside. We've always gone inside; the Canadian team would always be the first ones in."

Local News Briefs

Renovations are under way at the Meraw building on the west side of town.

The building, that housed the Pembina Educational Consortium, was rocked by an explosion last June.

Thirty people who were attending classes and one man working in the shop at the rear of the building, escaped without any serious injuries.

The chamber's tourist booth registered 2,733 people this summer compared to 1,152 the previous year.

The 2,733 ranked eighth on the Battle River Tourist Association's list of 17 booths.

While the Drayton Valley total was up, the overall figures in Battle River were down.

The 17 booths registered 39,493 people compared to 42,561 two years ago.

A fire erupted in one of the large outdoor garages at the H.W. Pickup school last Wednesday.

It was put out by school staff.

Drayton Valley will host their first-ever Battle River Tourist Association month meeting in July 1990.

Betty Bouck of Drayton Valley has received a poet of merit award from the American Poetry Association.

She received the award at the association's convention held recently in San Francisco.

Town council held a committee meeting last Thursday. One of the items on the agenda was appointments to various committees.

The new council will hold its first meeting Nov. 2.

The local RCMP said they would be more than happy to tour individuals or groups through their facility during Crime Prevention Week (Oct. 29-Nov. 4). If possible, one-day notice would be appreciated.

Two injured in wreck

By Susan Moscicki

Two people were injured and extensive damage caused to a vehicle that rear-ended a parked freight liner on 50th Ave. early last Wednesday morning.

RCMP Staff Sgt. Jim Humphrey said driver Leni Johnson, 22, and her passenger were taken to hospital, but their injuries were not life-threatening.

The 1987 Dodge Duster was proceeding east on 50 Ave., about 150 metres west of 50 St., and drove into the rear of the legally parked Nip'N Tuck Trucking vehicle.

Firemen were called to the scene to extricate the passenger from the vehicle with the aid of the Jaws of Life (an extrication tool).

"It wasn't a matter of life and death," said Fire Chief Sheldon Fuson. "It was a matter of convenience getting the passenger out."

Humphrey said the incident is still under investigation.

The car spun around after rear-ending the truck.

Some elated, some just fed up after hearings

By Susan Moscicki

Buck Lake resident Dorothy Willows believes the Local Authorities Board decision to deny annexation was based on plebiscites that did not truly represent the wishes of the people.

"I don't feel it was very democratic because I thought the feeling was the majority of the people were in favor (of annexation)."

Willows said, "It isn't fair to go on plebiscite votes."

She said the reason the plebiscites were not accurate representation of the preferences of the people was "because at one point we were asked to vote and at one point we got new hope for a centralized school."

"I'm sure it (the plebiscite) was clouded because of the hope of a centralized school."

"They've (County of Wetaskiwin) been talking centralized school for about eight years. The issue has been used. I hope it isn't being used again."

Willows said she will sit back for a while to see what happens. "You get fed up after a while."

"I think for those that were in favor of the school issue was the big thing," said Buck Lake resident Jim Guard.

"I was sort of pleased that they didn't take our corner of the woods. I didn't see any advantage for me. It probably would have put our taxes up."

"We were hoping to be the new kids on the block," said Alder Flats resident Garth 'Bear' Weschler. "But we're big enough and grown-up enough to know that life goes on."

He said however they are not going to play dead. "The people here are just waiting to see what our civic government (County of Wetaskiwin) will do, at which time they'll either be delighted or elated or on the war-path again."

Bob Shave, one of two Leduc property owners who wanted to be annexed into the MD Brazeau, said, "I wanted it to happen but I am satisfied with (the County of) Leduc. I'm not going to cry about it."

Moon Lake resident Clint Schwalbe said he was surprised more than anything.

"To tell you the truth it's not what we wanted. I felt we had a pretty strong case and the people from Alder Flats had a strong case. I thought it was going."

"(The County of) Wetaskiwin had 40 to 50 people speaking for joining the MD and they didn't get anything."

Schwalbe said one of the reasons he wanted to join was because "I live right on the borderline. The neighbor across the road is in the MD."

"We weren't ready for this kind of decision," said Eugene Poholka, a South Moose hill area resident. "We didn't think we'd have to think what next?"

"Our reasons (for wanting annexation) have been that geographically we are out off from the rest of the County of Wetaskiwin."

"I, myself, find it hard to believe someone undertaking a study of that kind could not understand how illogical it is for us to stay in the County of Wetaskiwin."

Joan Elmont, who spoke at the hearings on behalf of residents of the MD Clearwater, said she was very glad the Clearwater area was not annexed. "It was simply a tax grab."

She said there has to be someplace left as a wilderness.

Extradition continued

He will have the ability to challenge the decision in court, MacFarlane said, and his lawyer has indicated he will attempt to challenge the decision, but if he intends to, it had better be very quickly.

If challenged, MacFarlane said, "We would expect that the courts would move quickly."

Organizer of a 7,000-name petition from the Drayton Valley area, Don Regenwetter said he was pleased with the decision if "they expedite this thing so the man goes back where he belongs."

"If they say he's got a right to another appeal then I'm going to urge anyone that can write to write to their MP (member of parliament)."

"The squeaky wheel gets the grease," Regenwetter said.

If Ng is returned he will be facing 12 charges of murder, one count of attempted murder, two counts of conspiracy to murder, one burglary charge and three counts of kidnapping, according to Lewis's letter.

Making Halloween a safe time

When your witches and batmen leave home to 'trick-or-treat' tonight (Tuesday), can you rest assured you are supplying them with all the safety information that can be brewed up?

RCMP Staff Sgt. Jim Humphrey said it is very important to ensure children avoid the use of costumes that obstruct vision, and wear bright, reflective clothing.

"Enlarge holes in masks and preferably use make-up instead," was sound advice given by Britton RCMP Const. Steven Shamber. "And don't put anything on the ears so hearing won't be impaired."

Younger children should be accompanied by an adult or older sibling, the officers agreed.

Alberta Motor Association also stresses to keep track of homes visited, guide the youngsters across the street, and to be sure they don't wander from the immediate neighborhood.

"Treats should be looked over by mom or dad," Humphrey said. There haven't been any past problems in Drayton Valley, he assured, but he suggested it was better to play it safe.

Because of the increased possibility of motor vehicle accidents involving young pedestrians, Humphrey urged drivers to beware.

"Be conscious. They're (children) going to be all over town, running between parked cars, not obeying crosswalks, etc."

AMA stresses being extra observant when pulling into or out of driveways, limiting speeds, having clean headlights in use, and exercising caution when turning right at a red light. Enthusiastic trick-or-treaters may dash out unexpectedly.

Safety rules put into practice will assure children's Halloween dreams, not their nightmares, come true.

Local educators face severe lack of funding

The provincial government certainly seems to have its priorities all mixed up when it comes to education.

Westerra Institute in Stony Plain has a $5-million-yearly operating budget. Last year they had 1,968 students.

The Pembina Educational Consortium, with offices in Rocky Mountain House, Whitecourt and Drayton Valley functions on a shoe-string $350,000 operating budget for 2,500-plus students.

It's not that the provincial government isn't aware of the situation. The consortiums, which often are left waiting until mid-August for their money, have been telling the government about their money shortages for years. But their pleas have gone unnoticed.

Now, local educators are faced with another major problem.

The Breton high school, which the Twin Rivers school division inherited from the county of Leduc, is in dire need of repair.

When parents talk of ceiling tiles falling in on top of the students and cracks in the music room wall so ~~will~~ one can see daylight, maybe repair is out of the question.

Whatever has to be done, money ~~is~~ once again the issue.

Twin Rivers has sent a list of school construction priorities to the province. They listed Eldorado, Lindale and Breton in that order, as needing immediate modernization.

The province will make a decision on its 1990 capital spending in the next week to 10 days. But there's no guarantee there will be money for Breton high. If that happens, it will be most unfortunate.

How will new councillors act in months to come?

We will be watching our new town council with great anticipation in the months ahead.

How will they act after a hectic month of campaigning? A campaign that included some strong comments, especially at the public forum.

Questions like:

How long will it take Howard Olsen and Mayor Tom McGee to come out fighting after their heated debate at the end of the public forum?

Will the returning four incumbents — Jean Saunders, Alex Salfi, Charlie Miner and Olsen, who worked under Mayhew, support our new mayor? Or, will they make life as mayor difficult for him?

Frankly Speaking

By Frank Ryan

What will Saunders' success at the polls (she led all councillors) mean in the next three years?

Will some of the candidates patch up their differences with the chamber and get on with the job of promoting our town?

Will Tom McGee start making use of the office space in the Civic Centre set aside for the mayor?

Will council continue to have their private meetings the night before the regular council meetings?

Will the new mayor and council take a serious look at their committee structure, that limited the members to an advisory role? And, as a result, reduce the public interest in serving on these committees.

Will the newspaper and the public be allowed back into the recreation board meetings?

Will council consider holding at least one meeting in the evening so more of the working public can attend?

Town manager adjusts to newly elected mayor

By Frank Ryan

Manny Deol has faced many hurdles in his eight years as town manager.

But it's the first time he's had to get adjusted to working with a new mayor.

Deol, who was the town engineer from 1973-80 was appointed manager by council when Bob Mayhew was mayor.

"I keep looking over at his (the mayor's office) and think he's (Mayhew) on holidays," Deol said last week.

Mayhew's old office in the civic centre will be occupied for the next three years by Tom McGee.

Deol has been spending a lot of time reading a manual entitled Effective Local Government Manager.

"It answers just about everything," the town manager says.

Deol feels his job will be a little easier with four incumbents returning on council along with McGee, who was a councillor for six years.

Newcomers Natalie Gibson and Moe Hamdon have already received between 300 and 400 pages of information pertaining to such things as municipal organization and budgets.

Council held its first committee meeting last Thursday and will hold its first council meeting this Thursday.

Deol has met with McGee on a number of occasions but admits, "It will take a while to build a relationship."

Deol admits the six years McGee spent as a councillor and three more as chairman of the recreation board will help.

However, Deol admits he will have mixed emotions for a while, at least until things get rolling.

Lindale school pleased with coverage

Dear Editor,

Last week The Western Review provided some much needed exposure to our Lindale school. The students, staff and parents of Lindale have worked very hard to attain an effective educational climate.

As a result it felt very satisfying to read about some of our accomplishments: the Big People/Little People club, the Eagle-Eye Press, the cross-country run and finally the teacher effectiveness project.

Although it felt very satisfying a point of clarification is required. Almost all the schools in the Twin Rivers school division are offering a teacher effectiveness project or equivalent to some of their staff. We, however, are offering this as an all-year inservice to all of our staff. (This is one of the advantages of being small.) Lindale is very proud to be a part of the Twin Rivers school division because we feel all of the schools in our division have achieved many educational successes and have served their communities of Breton, Lindale and Drayton Valley very well.

Mayhew will attend

Dear Editor,

I would like to reply to the article on page 16 of our Oct. 24 Western Review: Mayor McGee may attend conference.

When I received the invitation (dated Sept. 12) inviting me to participate at the 1990 International Privatization Congress in Saskatoon, I wrote to the director explaining we were in the midst of a municipal election, and that I may not hold the office of mayor after that time.

On Oct. 16 I received the following faxed letter:

"Please note that our invitation is still in effect regardless of your status within the community. The fact that you were present when the privatization took place would effectively make you the individual authority on this subject. Your experience would be most beneficial to delegates at our congress..." — W.H. Blaisdell, Executive Director, Institute for Saskatchewan Enterprise, Inc.

I am the one who has been invited and have notified them that I will be there.

No bones about it, skate boarders dominate

By Paul Cadia
The Drayton Valley election of Oct. 16 will go down in local history as the rising of one of the most powerful lobby groups known to this area...the skateboarders.

Previously powerless, unnoticed, and aimless, the hapless skateboarders received an unexpected injection of political support from the candidate's election forum.

Incumbent mayoralty candidate Bob Mayhew listed his personal intention to "investigate and if financially possible, to build a skateboard (park). There are kids around town with skateboards every place you go; they have no place to use it. I'd like to build one."

Although the 'kids' with skateboards can't vote,

Activity picking up in oil patch

Activity is picking up in the oil patch.

Some of the equipment stored over the summer on a lot south of town on 50th Street (along Highway 22) was moved last weekend.

Jim Reid, area supervisor at the Energy Resources Conservation Board (ERCB) in Drayton Valley reports the number of licences issued is on the increase.

However, Reid says that's typical for this time of the year with winter approaching.

Reid says one reason for the increased activity could be a provincial government incentive program that expires today (Tuesday).

Just because some of the equipment is moving here, Reid says it could be going out of the area. He says there's a lot of activity in the Edson/Tinton area with sour gas wells.

Mayhew's political platform most likely was aimed at parents who would joyously sacrifice one vote in an effort to get their thrash-happy youths off the streets.

Buoyed by some fresh political clout the skateboarders mobilized (literally).

When the skateboarders' candidate Bob Mayhew was defeated by Tom McGee, they took their cause to the new man on the scene.

Swarms (two or three), of thrashers approached McGee demanding action on a park. The new mayor rebutted the park-thirsty hoarders by proposing organization, cost studies and council discussion.

Alas, the movement is on. Skate-park or bust!

We've all seen them on the streets. This subversive underground subculture which often uses the strength-in-numbers theory to obtain power.

Comment

Vaulting off store-front steps, salomong down sidewalks, and wreaking havoc on motorists. They're out there...and now they're organizing.

Organized anarchy in Drayton Valley?

But what if this political jousting backfires, and the 'boarders grow exponentially to one day assume a stronghold on the town. What if the skateboarders align themselves so strategically that they upset the balance of power in their favor!

Imagine, 1994...Drayton Valley is laden with convenience stores, and album outlets which serve as power-cores for young political independents. The town theme song is 'Police Truck' by the Dead Kennedys. All modes of transportation other than skateboards are abolished as the entire town simply consists of flat, smooth pavement (and ramps).

It's up to town establishment to curb this movement of thrashers before it's too late and the revolution takes hold.

Beware Drayton Valley, anarchy is just one 'skateboard' (park) away.

(Author's note: this is a satirical depiction of the political upheaval facing the 'comfortable' town of Drayton Valley).

Serious parking problem solved

A serious parking problem near the Valley Inn Motel has been solved.

Dave Turner, bylaw enforcement officer for the town said he handed out 16 warning tickets to motorists who had left their vehicles parked along the side of the road.

Later Turner issued four $30 tickets.

And, no parking signs were put up.

Adequate parking space for the vehicles has been found across Highway 22 near the new Jehovah's Witnesses Church.

The vehicles are owned by workers being transported by charter bus to Texaco's expansion in the Cynthia area.

The Valley Inn is one of three locations in town where workers at the Texaco gas plant expansion are picked up. The other two pickup points are the Black Gold and the Elks hall parking lot.

For several weeks now, the charter buses used to transport the workers between Drayton Valley and the job site, have parked near the Elks hall on weekends.

McGee admits to busy first week in office as town mayor

By Frank Ryan
Tom McGee admits his first week as mayor was a busy one.

Following his victory in the Oct. 16 municipal election McGee says he was the recipient of congratulations, flowers and shook a lot of hands.

Because of the added responsibilities of moving up from councillor to mayor, McGee will have to make some minor changes at his business.

One of these will include Anderson staying by telephone

Al Anderson is staying by his phone.

The superintendent for the Twin Rivers school division is anxiously waiting for a call from the department of education on funds to upgrade three schools.

The province reportedly has applications worth $320 million and only $85 million to spend.

Anderson says Twin Rivers would be happy with $5 million.

That would allow the school division to upgrade Lindale school and Breton high school and add four portables at Eldorado.

putting in a second phone line.

He also plans to make use of the mayor's office in the civic centre.

McGee admits that realization of his success in the recent municipal election came during the official swearing-in ceremonies when he sat in the mayor's chair.

The long-time resident of Drayton Valley said he went into the election against incumbent Bob Mayhew feeling it would be a close race.

He didn't think the end result (1,604 to 675) would be that dramatic.

"If I got 2,000 people out to the polls, I thought it would be in my favor," he admitted last week.

Being one of Drayton Valley's youngest mayors doesn't concern McGee.

"The majority of the population is my age," he explained.

In reference to Councillor Howard Olsen's comment in last week's Western Review, that McGee isn't the man for the job, the new mayor replied, "I think I will prove them wrong. I will prove that I can do the job."

McGee hopes to see the public take more of an interest in local politics. He hopes to see 10 or 15 people at every council meeting.

One immediate change McGee will be pushing for is to stop the Wednesday night meetings, that were always held in the past, the night before the regular council meetings.

"My feeling is and I hope council agrees, that they are not necessary," he explained during an interview following his success at the polls.

Eaters make junk food of GST

A local fast food outlet has conducted a survey of customers which questions the fairness of the GST to food service industries.

The proposed GST will tax service industry foods nine per cent while leaving supermarket foods untaxed.

"Why should they (consumers) be penalized for eating out?" Olga Meadows, A&W manager, said.

The survey question reads: "Is it fair that food purchased in supermarkets and food stores is tax free while food sold in fast food restaurants, office cafeterias, tableservice restaurants, and snack bars is taxed at an additional 9 per cent?"

Approximately 400 customers responded to the Restaurant employees let a sign do their talking.

survey and an overwhelming 96 per cent said no, three per cent said yes, and one per cent were undecided. The survey was completed Oct. 22.

"The important thing is to get those comments through to Clark," Meadows said.

The survey is being conducted by A&W restaurants throughout Canada with results intended to be delivered to local MPs.

An economic study performed by Woods Gordon, projected that food service sales would decrease by five to seven-and-a-half per cent in 1991 if the nine per cent tax was implemented.

According to A&W Canada, 39 cents out of every dollar spent on food in Canada is spent on food service industries.

Saunders surprised at success

By Frank Ryan

Jean Saunders admits she was a bit surprised at her success in the recent municipal election.

Saunders led all nine councillors with 1,625. Her closest competitor was newcomer Natalie Gibson with 1,368 votes.

In 1986 Saunders finished second in the councillor race. That was her first attempt at local politics.

Saunders says she went into the Oct. 16 election feeling she would do reasonably well.

However, she says it's gratifying to see the support.

During the election campaign Saunders says some of the issues that came to her attention included FCS, a second indoor arena, more recreation facilities and the mill.

Saunders didn't put any special emphasis on the fact that two women led the polls.

"A certain part of the population will always vote for the women and some vote for the men," she explained.

Saunders, who is the administrative assistant at the Pembina Educational Consortium, says she gave a lot of thought to seeking re-election this year.

"I didn't want to take on the job if I didn't feel I could do a good job," she says.

Alder Flats full of surprises at tourney

By Frank Ryan

Volleyball teams from Alder Flats had to settle for the bridesmaid's roles last Saturday but they certainly made their opponents sit up and take notice.

Both girls and boys teams from Alder Flats' 145-student population school placed second in the Frank Maddock high school two-day tourney.

A flip of the coin helped the Alder Flats girls into the final while the boys' march into the final was never in doubt.

The girls finished the round robin with a 4-2 win-loss record, the same as Rocky Mountain House and Jasper.

A flip of the coin gave Alder Flats a bye into the final while Rocky sidelined Jasper in a one-game sudden-death semi-final.

A weary Alder Flats squad, with just one reserve on the bench, fell behind 11-1 to Rocky in the opening game of their best-of-three final. But Alder Flats, the school many of the teams in the tournament had never heard of, roared back.

They dropped the match by a 15-13 count but won the praise of their opponents from Rocky Mountain House and the applause of the crowd.

The late surge that came up short told its tale in the girls as Rocky marched off with a 15-8 victory to sweep the girls final.

The rookie laden FMHS Amazons had a frustrating tournament, losing all six of their matches.

Like the girls, the Alder Flats boys also tasted defeat in the final, after a valiant effort.

Westlock, representing a student population numbering 700, swept through their six matches undefeated.

Alder Flats, sparked by the play of Clayton Skinner and Mike Glasel, two former FMHS Warriors, placed second with an impressive five and one record. Their only loss came at the hands of Westlock, a match that required three games.

Showing no signs of weakening, Westlock rolled up 15-10 and 15-12 decisions over a stubborn Alder Flats team to claim the boys title.

The FMHS Warriors almost created a three-way tie for first place in the boys tournament. They had a chance in the final round robin match of the day with Westlock, only to drop a thrilling but frustrating 17-15 decision and then bowed out with a 15-5 loss in the second game. They Action at FMHS was furious in weekend tournament action.

Finished the tourney with a four-and-two record.

While they didn't win the tournament, the Alder Flats boys were the only team to hand Westlock a defeat, a 15-11 decision in the first game of their best-of-three set. Westlock won the next two 15-5 and 15-7.

Local Oil Caps drop season home openers

By Frank Ryan

Grant MacDonald was like any rookie coach.

Hoping for a win in his first game.

However, his team, the Drayton Valley Oil Caps, came up short as they dropped a 9-7 decision to the Olds Diplomats last Friday night.

Then, he decided a split in their first two league games on home ice would be his second wish.

That didn't happen either as the Caps dropped a 7-3 decision to visiting Carstairs Colts on Saturday.

However, MacDonald, who is calling the shots behind the bench for the first-year Oil Caps, wasn't about to get down on his troops.

He saw a lot of good things as they roared back from a 9-3 deficit to throw a scare into Olds with four goals in less than five minutes.

A goal post in the final minute, a missed opportunity on a rare penalty shot and a disallowed goal led MacDonald to believe that his team had a chance to win their Heritage Junior Hockey League opener.

The Caps played catch-up hockey all night against Olds as they trailed 3-0 by the 7:20 mark of the opening period.

Add to that a four-goal night by the Diplomats' captain Doug Newton.

Trevor Fedorus, with two goals late in the third period in a 40-second span and two more by hard working Robert Nein kept the Drayton Valley hopes alive. Mark Waldron, Jason Tranchuk and Todd Bevan had singles.

Coach MacDonald singled out Fedorus, with his two goals and four assists and Roland Polsfut for their excellent play.

"The game showed me we can play with anybody," MacDonald said.

The win by Carstairs was a come-from-behind effort as the Caps led 2-1 after the first. But it was all down hill after that as they trailed 5-2 after 40 minutes.

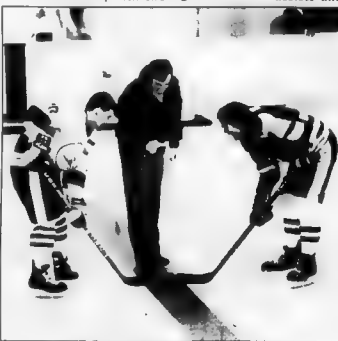

Dwayne Lyda, Sheldon Sullivan and Polsfut had the Caps goals.

MacDonald attributed one of his team's major problems to the fact they only played 15 or 20 minutes in either game.

"We got up 2-0 Saturday and then decided to sit and watch and the next thing you know were down by two," he said in a frustrated tone.

The Caps' power play wasn't working against Carstairs. That was evident during a five-minute advantage in the third when they failed to score.

Ice Chips - Jason Kipling, who missed the penalty shot will be lost to the Caps for two weeks with torn knee ligaments suffered in the Olds game.

Mayor Tom McGee drops the first puck.

Oilers still undefeated

The Norette Oilers extended their undefeated record in league play with a 6-3 win in Mayerthorpe Sunday afternoon.

Shelby Jorgensen led the bantam Oilers on the scoresheet with a pair of goals. Daryl Winter, Chris Enyedy, Ken Hutchinson and Shane Mortenson added singles.

The Oilers led 3-0 after the first and 4-1 after 40 minutes.

They host Edson on Saturday and Morinville next Monday night.

The Oilers dropped a 7-3 exhibition loss to Devon in bantam action Saturday. Trevor DePatie, Bryson Kusk and Greg Thompson scored for the Oilers.

Club taking in tourney

By Paul Cudla

Nel's Tae Kwon Do Club of Drayton Valley will be competing in its first international competition Nov. 11.

The competition will feature a team from Mexico and teams from San Diego, Wabumun, Stony Plain, Leduc, St. Albert and Calgary. The tournament will be held at Buxton Park school in Spruce Grove.

"The Mexicans are one of the top five teams in the world," Master Tiger Nels, a fourth degree black belt, said.

The tournament will consist of full contact bouts in all six weight categories. Bouts are three rounds, three minutes per round.

Deryk Hamilton, a black belt, is looking forward to competing against international fighters. He will be fighting in the welter weight division (70 to 76 kgs).

"I think it's going to be a great experience.

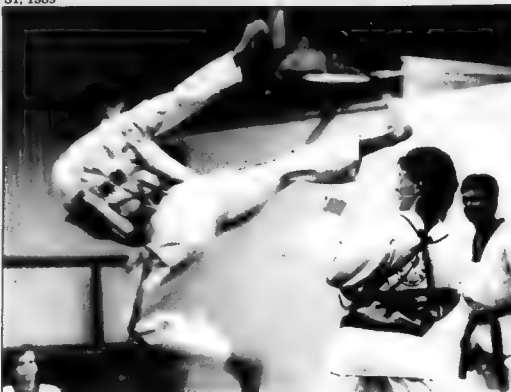

"It will rate me compared to other fighters more on a national and international level," Hamilton said.

Hamilton, 17, added the tournament will help him in reaching his goal of fighting in the 1992 Olympics.

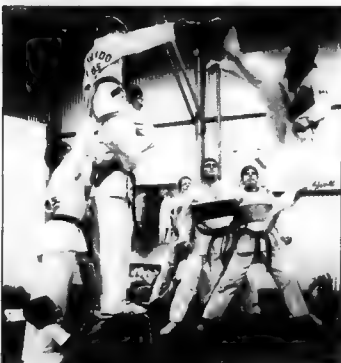

Mike Lingard, 15, a black belt who will be fighting in the bantam weight (54 to 59 kgs), feels the tournament means more than just competition.

"It's not just a tournament, it's a learning experience," Lingard said.

The international tae kwon do tournament is being stressed as an educational competition with all colored belts getting the opportunity to fight.

Deryk Hamilton displays form on a flying kick.

Master Tiger Nels shows his students how it's done.

Lees returning coaching favor

By Paul Cudla
Rhonda Lees played volleyball for 10 years and is now returning the favor given to her by coaches she played under.

"I spent 10 years playing volleyball, when people gave their time to coach me. Looking back on it now I can see that they put themselves out," Lees says.

"I'm just doing my part now."

Lees is currently in her fourth year as senior girls coach at Frank Maddock high school. Previously, Lees has played volleyball at the high school level, and at college for the Brier Crest Bible College, and Wascana College. She is a native of Strsburg, Sask.

"I really like the game of volleyball. It helped me develop athletically, but more importantly it helps you develop personal discipline."

In-appreciation
Volunteer coach
Rhonda Lees

"I think it is a sport that combines athletic ability and strategy."

Most of the FMHS senior volleyball team graduated last season leaving Lees with a team consisting mostly of grade 10s and 11s.

"I think our greatest strength is that it's a young team. We're kind of starting over this year."

"The girls are eager to learn."

Lees' approach to coaching has been adapted over her years as a student of the game.

"My most positive experience was my coach in high school. He always treated me as a player who had a lot of potential. He believed in me so that I could believe in myself."

Lees feels it is important to stress not only the athletic, but the psychological aspects of volleyball.

"An athlete not only has the manual dexterity, but has the mental control to keep their cool."

Brazeau skiers set to go

The Brazeau ski team is set to launch its initial competitive ski season.

The ski team held advanced registration last spring and now has 88 children registered from ages five to 13.

"We're just getting under way," Maxine Henry, fund-raising chairperson and team coach said.

Guiding the team in its first season will be 20 coaches. The Brazeau ski team will compete in the Nancy Green Ski League.

"The nice thing about it is the emphasis is not on racing it's learning to ski properly," Henry said.

The Brazeau team will start dryland training in November, and will hit the rabbit hill as soon as the snow falls. Competitive racing will continue into early March.

The Alberta Junior Olympics at Marmot Basin March 3-4 are being set as a team goal.

Local cowboys joining pro circuit

By Paul Cudla
Local cowboys Travis Sekura and Roger Lacasse are set to turn themselves loose on the pro-rodeo circuit next season.

Sekura captured the Wildrose circuit saddlebronc championship by taking a first in Barrhead Sept. 15-16. The win entitles Sekura to claim a pro-card.

"I think I'm ready for it," Sekura said, "I think I've matured in my riding."

In three previous years — 1984, '85, '88 — Sekura won the right to turn pro but declined the opportunity.

"I was young and I didn't feel I was ready."

In Barrhead, Sekura captured one first and three seconds in four rides to beat Loren Christianson by five points overall.

"It was kind of a bad year at first but the finals were really good."

"I won that saddle for my daughter Cassie."

Sekura said he looks forward to the new challenge of the pro circuit, tougher broncs, and tougher competition...and more prize money.

"Hopefully I'll be there at Calgary for the big one."

Lacasse has been riding bareback since 1985, and won the Lakeland final this season to become eligible for the pro-circuit.

The Lakeland finals were held in St. Paul Aug. 31 to Sept. 2.

Lacasse overcame a separated shoulder he suffered a month before the Lakeland finals.

"I want to be number one," Lacasse said, then quickly correcting himself he stated, "No, I don't want to make the Canadian Finals, I will be at the Canadian Finals."

Club president pleased with membership reaction

By Frank Ryan
The executive of the Drayton Valley golf club has received overwhelming support from its membership to increase membership and green fees.

There were no questions about the proposed increases at last Thursday's general meeting.

Club president Vi Helm was pleasantly surprised at the reaction of the membership.

"We're absolutely floored. We expected some flack," she told those in attendance at the meeting.

Memberships for 1990 at the Drayton Valley club will see adults pay $400. The new family rate is $850.

Seniors will be required to pay $200 while the new student rate is $150 and juniors will pay $100.

The new schedule for green fees will see golfers pay $12 for nine holes and $18 for 18 holes on weekdays. The weekend rate will be $14 for nine holes and $20 for 18.

The ladies will also see a change this year.

In the past, participants in the ladies league didn't have to be members. The club president says that will be changing and the ladies will have to take out a membership.

The executive is looking at a share structure to help them out of their present financial situation.

Alex Blais made the information presentation last Thursday.

It's based on a system used by the club in Lacombe, where shares would cost $1,500 and shareholders would get a $100 break on their membership fees.

No decision was made to proceed with the share structure.

Program promotes self-esteem, self awareness

By Shaun Polczer

Everyone knows there are only 24 hours in a day, and in a school day, there are even less.

To make the most of the time and to teach children a little something extra, St. Anthony school has come up with its lunchtime activities program.

Two days a week, Tuesdays and Thursdays, students gather at lunch for various extra-curricular activities ranging from running, computers, weightlifting, music, and math to arts and crafts.

Parent volunteers come in to arrange the activities and help the youngsters with whatever it is they are trying to do.

Last week, students from grades 4 to 9 gathered to learn some manicuring techniques.

Parent volunteer Cindy Duperron said the parents' association came up with the idea to coordinate the extra-curricular activities at the school into an organized program.

No injuries in truck roll-over

A 45-year-old man escaped without injuries Oct. 24, after his truck entered the ditch and rolled on Highway 620, five to six kilometres east of Lodgepole.

The 1981 Chev truck and camper, driven by John Garreck of Drayton Valley, suffered extensive damage.

She said the purpose of the program is "to promote self-esteem and self-awareness" among the students, and to "expose them to different experiences."

Through the winter, the students will learn a variety of new skills and hear from various guest speakers.

A similar program was initiated at the school about two years ago, but this is the first time it has been attempted on such a scale.

Duperron says she and other volunteers are willing to sacrifice their time because "kids are important, and they need to know they are."

As for the children, they have too much fun to know that what they don't know is good for them.

Cindy Duperron, a parent association volunteer, helps an aspiring manicurist with her crafts at St. A's noon-hour activity program.

Moms and dads share ideas on delicate subject

By Shaun Polczer
How do you talk to young children about sex?
This was the topic of a workshop on the subject held last Thursday evening at Frank Maddock high school. About 30 moms and dads showed up to listen and share ideas on how to handle a tricky subject.

Cindy Woronek, a speaker from the health unit in Drayton Valley, told the crowd that young children have sexual feelings even though they may not be conscious of them, or know how to express them.

Talk to children when they're young

Kids today are also exposed to sex through such media sources as television and commercial advertising more than they were in the past, and may not understand what they are seeing.

This is why it's important to begin talking to them while they're young, she said.

Awareness at early age

Children who begin to develop an awareness of sexuality at a young age are less likely to engage in premarital sex, contract sexually transmitted diseases, or develop unhealthy attitudes towards sexuality in general.

It is better that parents talk to their children instead of leaving it to the schools or the school yards because it gives them the opportunity to teach their own values about sex, which is very important.

A few tips to follow...

Woronek offered a few tips to parents when trying to deal with the subject:

Aim at their level of understanding.

Use educational materials such as books and pictures.

Teach values, because this teaches respect.

Ask them questions about what they are learning.

Always listen to what they have to say.

And most important, be honest with them.

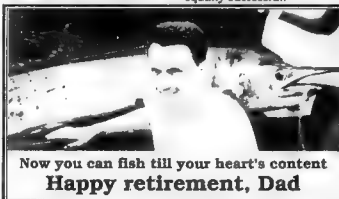

The workshop was organized and put on by Carol Anderson and Greta Falck, two kindergarten teachers at Eldorado school.

They plan to hold a series of workshops on different topics in the future.

Anderson said she was "very happy with the response," and feels that future workshops will be equally successful.

Moms and dads listen to Cindy Woronek explain the basics of talking to children about sex.

Hot soup a winter tradition

By Shaun Polczer

On those frosty winter mornings, everyone knows there is nothing heartier for the insides than a hot cup of soup.

With this in mind, Drayton Valley public schools are gearing up to get hot soup programs under way for another year starting Tuesday, Nov. 6.

All through the winter, students can come to school and pick up a cup of hot soup for 50 cents. Grilled cheese sandwiches, hot dogs, and hamburgers are also served on alternating days.

The program is run by parent volunteers who purchase, prepare, and serve the food to the youngsters.

After 10 years in operation, nobody is really sure exactly how the soup program got started.

The one thing they can agree on however, is that after 10 years, the program is becoming a genuine Drayton Valley winter tradition.

Evergreen school principal Chris Kelly says it has been too long to remember how, where, and why the soup program got started, but he suspects it started with a staff idea that was supported by parent volunteers.

Eventually all the public schools picked up on it.

"There are no profits," said Kelly, "the price is just to cover the cost."

The program will run at lunchtime in Evergreen, Eldorado,

WORKING FOR ALBERTA

No gap here

The generation gap, ironically, is felt less between seniors and toddlers than between teens and their parents.

The long wait is finally over for residents of the Tomahawk area who have been fighting to have Highway 759 paved.

The provincial government announced last week a $1,550,510 contract for paving the highway has been awarded to Jerry Gilfoil Holdings Ltd. of Edmonton.

The project involves base pavement construction on Secondary Highway 759 from the junction of Highway 624 (south of Tomahawk) north for 19.8 kilometres to Seba Beach.

Both Drayton Valley/Devon MLA Tom Thurber and

Whitecourt MLA Peter Tynchy were pushing to see this project completed.

Completion of the project is slated for next summer.

Concerned residents submitted two petitions and made numerous presentations to the County of Parkland, pushing for the 19.8 kilometres to be paved.

Beat the cold by joining winter

It seems the only way to beat winter in Canada is to join it!

Skiing, skating and tobogganing are all ways of beating the winter cold and enjoying the season. Warm clothing and a little safety awareness will help ensure your continued enjoyment this winter.

St. John Ambulance offers these simple safety precautions:

- Stay warm. Wear clothing that will maintain body heat without causing sweating. Several layers of light, loose-fitting clothing will trap air and have greater protective value than one layer of heavy clothing.

Cover your head to reduce heat loss. Avoid tight-fitting jewellery, shoes and clothing. Wear mittens rather than gloves for maximum finger warmth.

- Stay dry. Avoid wetness from sweating, rain or snow which contribute to loss of body heat.

- Stay safe. Limit the length of time you spend in extreme conditions and use the "buddy system" (checking one another for signs of frostbite or exhaustion).

- Avoid fatigue. Rest periodically in sheltered areas.

- Avoid tobacco in any form, because nicotine decreases blood flow and increases the possibility of cold injuries like frostbite and hypothermia.

Medical alert program announced

Details of the seniors' medical alert program, seniors' independent living program and home adaptation program have been announced by Municipal Affairs Minister Ray Speaker.

All three initiatives, which were unveiled by Premier Getty earlier this year, will come into effect Jan. 1.

The seniors' emergency medical alert program provides a grant of up to $700 to eligible senior renters to purchase an approved medical alert unit. A medical alert unit is part of an emergency response system. The grant may be used toward the purchase of a small portable transmitter and base station.

By simply pressing a button on the transmitter, a senior can call for help in times of medical emergency.

This program also provides grants of up to $20,000 each to existing or new non-profit groups to help them expand or establish emergency medical alert networks.

The seniors' independent living program provides grants up to $4,000 to eligible senior homemakers for approved repairs and improvements to the home.

Seniors who have previously received grants under former home improvement programs may be eligible for a minimum grant of $1,000. Five per cent of this money may be used toward maintenance such as window cleaning or snow shovelling for which receipts are not required.

Up to $700 of this grant money may be used for the purchase of an approved medical alert unit.

The home adaptation program has been enhanced to offer financial assistance to wheelchair users and those individuals whose disability will eventually necessitate the use of a wheelchair.

A grant of $5,000 may be used toward permanent modification to facilitate wheelchair access to the home or movement in the home.

Drivers no longer go to jail for traffic violations

It's going to get a whole lot tougher for traffic offenders to get away with not paying fines.

Chances are you're not one of these people. Nine out of 10 Albertans pay their traffic fines promptly. But one in 10 still tries to get away with not paying.

Using 1985 figures, the most recent available, the attorney general's department estimates there are 40,000 outstanding tickets worth a total of about $1.8 million in Alberta. The department predicts 90 per cent of these will be collected in the next year.

As of Nov. 1, when the new Provincial Offences Procedure Act comes into effect replacing the Summary Convictions Act, a new fines collection program will be in place for traffic tickets worth less than $400.

Instead of issuing warrants for unpaid fines, Motor Vehicles Services will Report from the Legislature

With Tom Thurber
MLA Drayton Valley

withhold vehicle registration, new licence plates, new driver's licence, registration of vehicles for the first time, and the transfer of vehicle registrations from one vehicle to another until all traffic tickets have been paid.

The primary advantage of the new system is that it will be a money-maker rather than an expense. Offenders will have to come to Motor Vehicles, rather than Motor Vehicles — or the courts or police — chasing after them.

The new system will also lessen the caseload of the courts. Currently, if you get a ticket and feel you are not guilty, you have to go to the provincial courthouse to enter a plea. As of Nov. 1 you can just mail your plea into the local court and notification of a trial date will be sent to you by mail.

The same avenue exists if you admit you are guilty of the offence, but are not legally at fault. For example, suppose you are pulled over for failing to stop at a stop sign. The officer is correct that you failed to stop, but the reason was that your car slid on the ice. You did everything possible to stop at the stop sign. You committed the offence, but are not legally guilty. Rather than having to appear before a court, you could again mail the dispute in, and then a date would be set for one to present your case before a judge.

If for any legitimate reason your plea or written dispute is delayed in the mail, or if you should fail to receive your notification of trial in the mail, allowances will be made under the act. If, however, you fail to receive the notification of trial because you have not updated the address on your licence — which you are legally required to do — and the notification goes to the wrong address, then you are guilty of failing to respond.

If a fine remains unpaid after the due date, a charge of $20 or 20 per cent of the fine, whichever is greater, is levied in addition to the fine.

By choosing to withhold Motor Vehicle services rather than imprisoning traffic offenders, not only are traffic offences decriminalized, but an effective means of collecting unpaid fines is established.

The message is clear

About 60 people from all the 4-H clubs in the area attended.

Eric Jones, farm safety specialist with Alberta Agriculture gave a presentation on safety and fire extinguishers. Everyone had a chance to set off a fire extinguisher. After a pot-luck lunch 4-H members, leaders and parents went bowling.

Thanks to district home economist Bev Brooks for arranging for Mr. Jones to come out and to all who prepared the delicious lunch.

New silverware line won't tarnish

A Canadian company has developed an easy care, non-tarnish line of silverware that eliminates any need for elbow grease. The silverware is the first of its kind in the world.

Called Carefree, the new line of non-tarnish silverware was developed by silverware manufacturer Levinter Industries Ltd. of Concord, Ont. It includes table settings, tea services, trays, cups, picture frames, baby cups and candlesticks. These products are unbreakable and can be washed in the sink or dishwasher.

The new process is one of the few major developments in the production of silverware since the early 1700s, when Sheffield silverware was first produced in England. The Sheffield process involved fusing fine sheets of silver over a copper core, which resulted in high-quality products at prices people other than kings could afford. (Since the early 19th century, electroplating has been used to layer the silver over the copper.)

Quintessence — music, comedy at its very best

By Susan Mosecicki
Combine five men in white tuxedos, two violins, a viola, a cello, two guitars and a banjo and you have the funniest, serious musicians you may ever have the occasion to feast your ears upon.

The 'quintessential' quintet from Toronto, Quintessence, conjured up two standing ovations at H.W. Pickup school last Thursday evening because of their delightful combination of humor and intoxicating music.

Several selections were played from what guitarist Bill Bridges called the Relative Suite, which, he explained, was because they were written by relatives of the musicians. "We kind of like to keep nepotism in the family," he said.

One selection from the Relative Suite was Northern Dancer, chosen for a television program called State of the Art. "It's kind of like our big hit," said Bridges. As a matter of fact, he said smirking, "It's our only hit."

"We've just signed a big contract to tour Europe," he told the crowd. A round of applause followed, after which he added, "Now we've got to get someone else to sign it."

The music the group plays, however, is no joke. Despite comical antics throughout the evening, Quintessence played supremely and professionally, drawing the people into the spirit of one piece and luring them successfully into the next.

When the E string on the jazz violinist's instrument broke, Bridges improvised

Quintessence — the quintessential quintet and played a romantic Spanish tune to allow time for the string to be changed. Even then the humor came through when he said the piece was for all the women in the audience. The tune played was Tsuch Me.

In an interview, Bridges said the unique style began when the group was starting out and played for school students. "We discovered very quickly that we had to do things to make them laugh and get them on our side. We just sort of carried it with us."

Group members boast such individual credits as playing for Anne Murray, Phantom of the Opera, conducting musicals, and all are involved in studio work and recording.

Bridges plays the classical guitar, electric guitar and the banjo and he also does most of the writing and arrangement of the pieces the group plays.

Quintessence is music at its very best, with a humorous twist. It's like love at first recital.

Gent's name stands for PC president

Wayne Gent is allowing his name to stand for president of the Drayton Valley/Devon Progressive Conservative Association.

The Tomahawk-area farmer lost out to MLA Tom Thurber in the PC nomination race earlier this year and recently finished second in the Division 7 County of Parkland elections.

The PC annual meeting will be held next month in Warburg.

Last Wednesday Gent accompanied Thurber to a policy meeting in Edmonton at which Premier Don Getty attended. The meeting was held to formulate policy for the PC convention Nov. 17-19 in Edmonton.

In deciding to let his name stand for president of the Drayton Valley/Devon constituency Gent says, "All we see are the negatives. We don't see the positives. The message isn't getting out."

Gent feels getting that message out would be one of his priorities.

Pesticide Container Collection and Disposal Program

AN INDEPENDENT BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY

At the request of Alberta Environment, The Alberta Special Waste Management Corporation has assumed responsibility for the collection and disposal of agricultural chemical containers, commencing with the 1989 crop year.

ASWMC proposes a comprehensive Pesticide Container Collection and Disposal Program to be undertaken in collaboration with approved private contractors.

This will involve the removal of some 500,000 containers from 110 storage sites in Alberta. These containers are made from various materials, including plastic, steel and aluminum.

The program calls for the containers to be collected, shredded; washed, and converted into recyclable raw materials. All residues from the containers and the washing and conversion process must be collected and treated in an approved manner.

The Corporation is also interested in proposals by which the raw materials - shredded plastic, or coned/shredded steel - can be safely reprocessed into viable products.

Interested parties are invited to register their interest with The Alberta Special Waste Management Corporation to receive the "Pre Tender Information Package". The deadline for registration is December 1, 1989.

MD tackles long-term plans

Long-range plans will be part of the MD Brazeau's menu for the upcoming year.

The first year was a year of organization," said Reeve Henry Rondeau. "Now we can tackle the more long-range plans we have to look at," he added.

Some of these include economic development, tourism, and the agricultural services board. "We'll take a broader look at agriculture in our area."

"We have to start looking at our office building," said Rondeau. "It's too small for a municipality our size."

He said the MD would look at possible renovations in the next couple of years. He also said the yard is not adequate.

Hiring staff, purchasing equipment to maintain the roads, settling with unions and division of assets kept the MD extremely busy throughout its first year of operation.

"It's been a tremendous year," Rondeau said. "What we've accomplished is far beyond our expectations. It's practically a miracle, really."

Did phantom locomotive revisit area in 1986?

By Shaun Polczer

There is a tale chaingang workers on the railway liked to tell about a stretch of track just west of here and of a phantom locomotive that haunted it.

The time was in the early 1900s. All the routes had been surveyed through the mountains and the track was being pushed west from Edmonton.

John Smith was as fine a locomotive engineer in the CNR as there ever was.

One cold autumn evening under a full moon, he was running a load of track and ties to the workcamps on the new line east of Edson.

He was coming up to one of the new curves on the track he had never driven through before, when he swore he saw the beam of a powerful lantern from around the corner of the bend.

One of the coal shovellers came up to the front of the engine and saw it too. Together they heard the shrill call of a train whistle and saw the menacing profile of another huge locomotive coming straight for them.

Smith knew this section of the line was not yet in service, and there should not have been another train on it.

There was only a single track in those days, and he knew the trains were too close to prevent a collision. In vain desperation Smith pulled the lever on the mighty steam brakes, squinted his eyes, and with the coal shoveller, braced himself for the impact and the pain that would surely follow after being thrown from the wreck.

To their surprise, the unknown locomotive passed right through theirs, the tortured wall of the whistle fading as it moved behind them.

Disbelieving, the engineer and the shoveller agreed not to tell anyone about what happened.

In spite of this, similar stories about this particular section of track began to spread as other engineers had similar experiences.

Soon the story of The Phantom Locomotive became widespread that locomotive engineers never even hit the brakes when they saw the beam of light around that corner, and heard the eerie call of the phantom whistle.

It was no surprise to John Smith then, when he heard there had been a terrible accident on that curve almost a year to the day after his strange experience.

It appears that two locomotives struck head-on at full speed after neither driver hit the brakes when they saw the other coming for them.

This was not the last accident along this stretch of track.

In fact, there was a terrible head-on collision east of Edson in 1986 that killed more than a 100 souls.

Was it the whistle of the Phantom Locomotive they thought they heard calling that fateful night?

Our contribution to the superstitions of Halloween

Witches, warlocks, kings and queens, run around on Halloween, crossing skeletons, the sign of death, with a sign of life... UNICEF. They fill their sacks with sticky treats, as they scamp along their neighborhood beats.

Mothers work for weeks on end, Sewing seams and mending hems. They, too, remember as they stitch, How fun it was to make the pitch: Trick or treat?

By Susan Mosicki

Halloween glows with excitement for ghosts and goblins with insatiable sacks.

Power of darkness a Halloween legend

So how did it all begin? How did our society come to the conclusion that 'dressing up' in costumes, and running around yelling 'trick or treat' was a fine source of entertainment for children?

The holiday name itself — 'Halloween' — is derived from 800 A.D. when English and Irish churches started an All Saint's Day on Nov. 1. The religious mass uttered on the day was titled Allhallowmas, thus the previous evening, Oct. 31, became Hallow e'en.

The spiritual aspect of Halloween comes from the ancient Celts who lived in the British Isles and northern France before the birth of Christ.

The Celts believed Oct. 31 represented the time when summer was devoured by the power of darkness. They feared the power of darkness would kill their sun god.

On the Halloween evening the power of darkness allowed the dead to return as witches, goblins, ghosts, and black cats.

In order to save the sun god, and to fend off evil spirits, the Celts made large sacrificial fires from their crops and animals in hopes of pleasing the evil powers.

Jack-o-lantern

Irish legend claims the lantern was named after a man named 'Jack' who was disallowed into heaven because he was a miser, and was refused entrance to hell because he had played jokes on the devil.

Therefore Jack had to walk the earth carrying a lantern until his Judgement Day.

Witches

The symbol of a witch riding a broomstick was derived from an ancient Scottish superstition. Scots believed that witches who had sold their souls to the devil would leave a double of themselves in bed. So when the devil came on Halloween to lay claim to his soul, the witches would make good their get-away by flying up the chimney on a broomstick...attended, of course, by black cats.

By Shaun Polczer

The early inhabitants of Alberta had their own ghost stories they loved to tell... and believe.

David Thompson, an early fur trade explorer, who travelled extensively along the North Saskatchewan, Thompson beats devil at his own game...

Athabasca, and Brazeau rivers into the Rockies, documented the beliefs of the early peoples in his diary Travels in Western North America.

The most common ghost story of the time was a tale about a huge creature called the Giant Mammoth, that supposedly inhabited the foothills and forests on this side of the Continental Divide, and would brutally kill any that came near.

Thompson wrote that nobody had ever seen the mighty beast, and none could show him any footprints or tracks it had made. In fact, none could even say exactly where it lived.

Belief in the creature was so strong, even among his own men who were Voyageurs, that Thompson could not persuade any the mammoth did not exist.

This may have been due to stories circulating among his men about a card game he had with the devil.

It happened on a trip to the mountains through central Alberta near Rocky Mountain House.

Thompson was enjoying a glass of rum when a stranger walked into the camp and challenged him to a game of poker.

When the time came to ante up, Thompson knew he was playing for his own soul. Gulping down hard on his glass, and drawing a huge puff from a pipeful of Indian tobacco he was smoking, the famous explorer laid his cards on the table — and won!

He never talked of it afterwards, and his Voyageurs said it was the reason why he never smoked, swore, or drank alcohol ever again.

Polish heritage spirit thrives at cultural evening

The Mazur dancers, aged 11-16

By Paul Cudla
The spirit of Polish heritage was alive in sights, sounds and tastes at the third annual Tomahawk cultural heritage evening.

"We bring something of our ethnic cultural heritage to the people. It presents a cultural activity to the group," Barb Zaniewicz, co-organizer of the event, says.

The heritage evening was held at the Tomahawk school Oct. 21, and featured the Polonez Polish Folk Arts Ensemble. All 150 available tickets for the event were sold.

A traditional Ukrainian meal and a slide-show on Greece were also part of the multicultural affair.

Zaniewicz and Sandy Semenyna have presented two previous heritage evenings which followed the themes of Bavarian and Ukrainian.

"I think it brings these kind of events closer to the people," Semenyna says, "it's a way of preserving the culture."

The Tomahawk heritage evening makes a cultural event easily accessible to the people of the town.

Promoting culture, heritage

The Polonez dancers performed three traditional Polish dances — the karakowiak, one of the oldest national dances in Poland; the rzeszow, a dance which portrays the working class; and the lowicz which is a slow, romantic dance including magic and symbolic elements.

Irena Myschchysyn, who led the Polonez group, says the dance ensemble's purpose is to share the rich wealth of dances in Poland.

"To promote the culture, the heritage, to keep up the traditions," Myschchysyn says.

The Polonez Ensemble is based in Edmonton and was established in 1982.

Myschchysyn says the preservation of Polish heritage does not detract from her Canadian identity.

"If somebody asks me what my nationality is, I say I am a Canadian with a Polish background."

Polonez dancer dress is authentic Polish garb, rich in heritage and culture.

HATS OFF TO OUR HEROS

Ivan Geddes has a long history of being involved in fire protection.

He has been with the Drayton Valley fire department for the last nine years, but for the last 21 years he has been heavily involved in airport crash rescue, oilfield firefighting, etc.

When he started, he says, "The firefighting end of it was a job requirement." But now it is more than that.

"There's a lot of friendship here," he says. "Everybody offers each other a helping hand and the department pulls together on the job."

"Each fire scene is different, no fire scenes are the same. When there's a fire, there's always a loss," Geddes says. "I'm just happy that we can limit the losses."

Shortage of booking times for Christmas parties

By Shaun Polczer

Many local residents and groups could be out in the cold this Christmas booking halls for their seasonal gatherings and not even know it.

Although Christmas may seem to be a long way off when it is still only Halloween, it may be too late to start making plans to book a Christmas party at any of the local halls.

A survey conducted by The Western Review of local hotels and community halls found that already, there is a shortage of premium times to book a Christmas party.

At the Black Gold Inn, there are only eight dates available before Christmas.

"It's going pretty good," said Doug Howell, "we're fairly full already."

He indicated a majority of the remaining dates were for the end of November, hardly a seasonal time for a festive gathering.

The survey found similar answers at other establishments in town.

In the community halls, the story was the same.

Connie Swap, who books parties for the Legion hall, said the Legion was "booked solid," and that there were only a few possible dates in November left.

Over at the Masonic hall, social coordinator Bill Wallace expected that hall would be booked up very soon.

"Response has been excellent, there are only one or two Saturdays in December left," said Wallace.

Crime prevention — a shared responsibility

As Terry Williams put her young daughter down for an afternoon nap, the new mother turned to the bedroom window to close the blinds. As she did, she saw a strange man, dressed in blue jeans and a denim jacket, glance quickly over his shoulder, before forcing open the front door of the Jones' home across the street.

Without hesitation, Terry reached for the telephone and called the police; within moments, the police arrived and arrested the burglar before he left the house with television and VCR in tow.

Though the young mother would never have thought about it in such terms, she was doing her part to prevent crime in her community, a role we all have to play, according to Allan Phibbs, acting regional director of the Ministry of the Solicitor General's regional office in Edmonton.

"Crime affects all of us and it's costly; when we can get neighbors, co-workers and classmates talking about crime and its consequence, we can then start talking about crime prevention. Preventing crime starts with our attitudes, having the 'mind set' that working together can make a difference and that personal involvement is a critical part of the process," he explains.

Preventing crime at both personal and community levels is the focus of National Crime Prevention Week, Oct.

29-Nov. 4. The theme of the week: Together...Families and Communities... is reflective of the high priority given to crime prevention initiatives in all sectors of society.

Phibbs says crime prevention is best described as "...neighbors working together to prevent break-ins, parents and teachers working together to reduce vandalism, educators working with the media to combat child abuse, women working with other women to prevent sexual abuse, probation and parole officers working with offenders, letter carriers keeping an eye out for seniors on their routes...in essence, it's people sharing the responsibility for making their community a safer place to live — for themselves, their families and their neighbors."

Clearly, the message is beginning to be heard. Today, more than 100,000 Albertans of all ages are actively involved in community-based crime prevention activities.

One of the most common and readily recognized programs is Block Parents; about 140 communities scattered throughout the province have volunteers providing safe havens for children in need of protection, from a real or imagined source, when parental assistance is not near at hand.

Community crime watch programs such as Neighborhood Watch, known in some areas of the province as Block Watch and Rural Crime Watch, have also achieved considerable success, with significant reductions in property crimes such as burglary, theft, motor vehicle theft and vandalism.

In recent years, there has been considerable emphasis put on the development of crime prevention programs aimed at young people as well as ex-offenders, in an attempt to reduce criminal activities through participation, interaction and educational programs aimed at both target groups.

Based on the premise the prevention of many crimes can be achieved through early educational programs, youth programs focus not only on preventative aspects of crime, but on intervention components aimed at young offenders who may have already experienced brushes with the law.

"We're not for an instant suggesting that starting and maintaining crime prevention programs at any level of the community is a simple matter," Phibbs concludes. "Nor are we asking anybody to do the work of the police in this province."

"We're asking people to recognize the reality that crime prevention is a shared responsibility between community members at all levels and their police department."

"Municipal police and RCMP across the province know how impactful crime prevention programs can be and so do community members who live in areas where crime prevention is at work."

*With the help of community crime watch programs, many would-be criminals are caught in the act.

Time or distance cannot destroy true friendship

By Pastor Bob Cochrane
Calvary Baptist Church

The Greeks had a phrase which speaks of "time which wipes all things out," as if the mind of man were a slate and time a sponge which passes across it and wipes it clean.

There are friendships which vanish with the years; there are people from whom we were once inseparable, with whom we would even find it difficult to make conversation today.

There are people and friendships from which we quite inevitably grow away. But the real friendships last over the years. You may not see a real friend for months or even years, but when at last you meet, you can take up the friendship just where you left it off.

From the

Time is the great destroyer but time cannot destroy the link which true friendship has forged. True friendship is independent of distance. There is a saying that "absence makes the heart grow fonder." But that is not necessarily true. It can be equally true that "out of sight, out of mind." But in true friendship there is something which can triumph over distance and separation.

The other day I read a story of a true friendship. In the 1914-18 World War there were two men who were close friends. One was left wounded in no-man's-land between the trenches. His friend waited until darkness came, and then at the peril of his life, crawled out to help him. The first words which the wounded man said were: "I knew you would come."

In all the ups and downs of life, in the chances and the changes, when the light shines and the shadows fall, true friendship remains the same.

The word of God says a wonderful thing: "There are friends who pretend to be friends, but there is a friend who sticks closer than a brother." (Proverbs 18:24)

How true!

'Perfect' costume too realistic for young trick-or-treater

By Chris Kreiser

Here it is midnight, the night before Halloween. I am sitting in front of my sewing machine hoping that through some miraculous process of osmosis I will not only know how to sew before dawn — but will create the perfect costume.

Truthfully, I'm still trying to decide what the kids' costumes should be. I'd given up being well prepared and left everything to the last minute. That's not as irresponsible as it sounds. I learned from past experience.

It seemed that Derek had the perfect costume last year.

Northlands Farmfair coming in November

The 1989 edition of Northlands Farmfair returns Nov. 2 through 11 in Edmonton.

One of Canada's largest livestock shows and sales, Farmfair includes dairy and beef cattle, sheep, swine, horses, calves, rabbits, pigeons, poultry and other types of fowl. Admission is free to the activities at the Northlands Agricom.

At the same time as the sixth annual Northlands Western art show and sale featuring oil, acrylic, pencil, bronze and clay works by Prairie artists runs Nov. 8-11. Canada's top cowboys will compete at the Canadian Finals rodeo also Nov. 8-11.

Because of my garage sale savvy I acquired a big black Dracula cape in July. By the time October rolled around Derek was convinced the idea of being Dracula had been his all along. Ah, motherhood strikes again. Dracula it was.

For the first time ever I knew more than 12 hours ahead of time what Derek would be for Halloween. I happily pressed his black pants and white shirt. I even splurged and bought a black velvet bowtie. To make things really perfect my artistic neighbor offered to paint Derek's face.

On the big day Derek was quite excited. He could hardly wait to see how much like Dracula he would look.

We went to Susan's so she could start putting the makeup on. First, the white all over his face and neck — just enough for that ghostly look. Then the black around his lips and eyebrows — very sinister looking.

He started to squirm after 15 minutes. He wanted to see. "Not yet," we told him. "It won't be much longer."

Next Sue put blue around his eyes. They looked so sunken and eerie it gave me the creeps. Derek impatiently listened to our groans of disgust and exclamations of how real it looked. He wanted to see. In a minute, in a minute.

For extra effect Sue slicked his hair down flat to his head. Then she applied the blood. It really did look like blood coming out of his mouth — too real.

Finally, Derek was allowed to look in the mirror. He was bursting with anticipation. Eagerly he raced down the hall to the mirror. I was standing behind him when his eyes met those in the mirror. He was not prepared for what he saw.

There was no moment of recognition there. Just fear. His eyes got wide and a sound escaped from his lips that was part gasp, part disbelief and total fright.

He turned and grabbed my legs and burst into tears.

We had a tough time convincing him to go trick-or-treating let alone putting in the fake fangs to complete his costume.

This year I'm less concerned with getting the perfect costume than I am with trying to create a costume he will actually wear.

The best laid plans...

In Memoriam

JORGENSEN - May
In memory of May Jorgensen who passed away November 1, 1987. It's been two years now, that you have been gone. Your shadow and influence still lingers on. As strong as if you were here, spreading your presence far and near. By your strength and vision. We will no longer be embraced, but our lives and memories can never be erased. No matter what life brings us through the years, a thought of you and our hearts shed their tears. Sadly Missed.

Three vehicle accidents on North Saskatchewan Bridge in one day

A three-vehicle collision on the North Saskatchewan bridge three kilometres east of Drayton Valley claimed the life of a Legal, AB resident.

Gerald Edward Neufeld, 38, was killed in the initial three-vehicle accident on Highway 22 at about 7 a.m. Nov. 2. A second driver was hospitalized with injuries.

Another three-vehicle pile-up occurred just moments after the first accident. No other serious injuries were reported.

Drayton Valley RCMP said the conditions on the deck of the North Saskatchewan bridge were very icy due to recent rainfall.

Later on in the afternoon, another accident occurred on the bridge involving a loaded gravel truck and a logging truck.

According to the RCMP, a loaded gravel truck rear-ended a logging truck which was making a quick stop for an unidentified vehicle.

Displaced logs from the logging truck struck a third vehicle. No serious injuries were incurred.

Diesel and oil fuel leakages were a result of the accident which caused a rescue crew to spread sand over the flammable fuels.

All three accidents are under RCMP investigation.

Buck Lake gets funds

By Susan Moscieli

Years of waiting and petitioning have paid off for residents of the Buck Lake/Alder Flats and Winfield areas hoping for a better environment for their high school students.

Money has been allotted by the government to modernize the Buck Lake school and add a library, three classrooms, an ancillary, a science room, gymnasium, storage area and non-instructional areas, according to MLA Tom Thurber.

County of Wetaskiwin superintendent of schools Bill McCarthy said, "We have no details ourselves. We don't know the dollar value."

McCarthy said the roles of the schools in the area will change. Winfield and Alder Flats schools will become elementary level schools (grades 1 to 6) and the Buck Lake school will become a combined junior/senior high for the three areas.

McCarthy said a building planning committee will be set up and he feels the change won't be made until September of 1991 to allow time for planning and construction.

"We believe it's going to be the best thing for the area for 25 to 30 years."

"This just puts the icing on the cake," he said.

"We realize there are a lot of disgruntled people out there."

He referred to the Buck Lake and Alder Flats areas trying to annex into the MD Brazeau in an attempt, partially, to improve the school situation.

"The county was able to prove to the Local Authorities Board there was no evidence the Alder Flats/Buck Lake areas had a lesser degree of service than was normal."

Indoor air survey part of solving problem

By Paul Cudla

Toxcon Consulting plans to begin a comprehensive analysis of air quality in Drayton Valley homes this week which will employ a state-of-the-art monitoring system.

Dr. Robert Rogers, Toxcon president, said the monitoring system is unique in North America.

"It is really on the leading edge," Rogers said.

"We will be doing a 24-hour sample and will be picking up readings every three seconds."

The air quality survey will be analyzing air for 10 different atmospheric elements, including carbon dioxide, particulates, sulfur dioxide, and formaldehyde. Instrumentation will measure levels inside four Drayton Valley homes from Nov. 6 to Nov. 27.

"People say they have a problem...want an answer"

"The whole area of indoor air quality is brand new."

"We're really pushing the limits of what has been designed and what has been known," Rogers said.

Toxcon Consulting has been commissioned by the Alberta government to conduct the study.

"The bottom line here is that people say they have a problem and they want an answer."

"But, you've got to have some numbers to figure out if there really is a problem."

Rogers added he expected the study to lead to a report which will likely be released in the new year.

The Pelican Steering Committee has been studying exterior air quality in four areas around town with high volume monitors for the past six weeks.

Howard Olsen, head of the steering committee, said the results of the indoor survey will be combined with the outdoor survey for a general analysis.

"It's all part and parcel of solving the problem — if there is a problem," Olsen said.

"We have never had one complaint; they (the public) have never, ever approached anyone on the committee with a complaint."

Local News Briefs

Jon Ackroyd has been appointed to the position of accountant with the Twin Rivers school division.

Sandra Lukach, a former town employee, was presented with a 10-year employee service plaque by Mayor Tom McGee last Thursday.

Lukach has taken a new job at the mill.

The Berrymoor 3B's are collecting care share seals off Palm milk. The seals can be left in the containers at Block's and NGA.

The town has been busy repairing some of the manhole covers in town.

The changes were made because the grader blades were hitting the part of the cover, sticking above the pavement.

The Park Valley indoor swimming pool will celebrate its fifth anniversary next February.

Representatives of town council, the village of Breton, Twin Rivers, the separate and rural Catholic school boards met last week.

Two of the items discussed included the FCSS and parking.

The five-year recreation master plan is expected to be ready this week.

Town manager Manny Deol says concept plans for a new tourist booth have been completed. However, he told council last Thursday that a location hasn't been selected.

Archie Hood, former president of Drayton Valley Golf Club, and his wife Shirley have bought a home and are moving back to Drayton Valley.

Archie recently retired from Amoco. He was formerly employed by Dome and had been transferred to Edmonton.

'Twin Rivers fortunate — Breton bitter'

By Susan Moscicki
Government funds for school modernization included absolutely nothing for Breton high this year, leaving parents and the school principal more than a little upset.

After waiting several years to become top on the list of priorities with the county of Leduc, Breton high wound up third and last on the list of priorities with Twin Rivers school division, so the money went to the top two priorities, Eldorado and Lindale schools.

"This is a very bitter experience," said principal Jim Musson. "We predicted it, we knew it, but we just had that one ounce of hope."

"What was done was wrong — just simply wrong. It certainly appears that we stand alone."

"I've never seen a worse facility. What are they doing to us? How can they defend this?" he asked.

"I welcome anybody to come through here. Anyone with eyes can see what a travesty it is."

"They're holding us down in the mire and then blaming us for being there"

Musson said ceiling tile has fallen on a teacher's head, the boiler in the school wasn't repaired until late September or early October, a student went to open a window and the frame and window came out in her hand, and during heavy rainfall water builds up on the roof and flows down the vents and comes up through the toilets and drinking fountains.

"They're holding us down in the mire and then blaming us for being there," he said.

Breton parents have rallied together and are sending a delegation to meet with Education Minister Jim Denning today (Nov. 7). They are hoping to convince the minister to allot some money to the school, although their spirits are low.

"I think it would be fair to say we are very disappointed and frustrated," said Charlene Frieson, one of the parents that will be meeting with the minister.

"We don't like to think of our students working in the conditions that they are and that nothing is going to immediately be done to correct it."

"All that we know is that we didn't get it (modernization) and we really felt that we needed it." The parents will be taking a list of about 20 concerns to bring to the minister's attention.

MLA Tom Thurber said, "Twin Rivers has actually been very fortunate. They got their two top priorities."

He will also be meeting with the parents and the minister today. He said it was unfortunate Breton was not allotted any money. "I tried to get that included."

Helm re-elected

Vi Helm has been re-elected chairman of the Twin Rivers school board.

She was officially sworn in at last Wednesday's board meeting.

"We've been at it nine months. We're just getting familiar with things," Helm explained. Jim Reid was also re-elected as vice-chairman.

Eldorado and Lindale get funds

By Frank Ryan
The Twin Rivers school division wanted to upgrade three schools.

But due to an announcement by Alberta Education last week, they will only be able to do two of the three.

Funds have been made available for a $1.4 million modernization and new construction at the Lindale school another $200,000 for four portables and washrooms at Eldorado elementary.

No funding was made available for some much needed repairs at the Breton high school.

"There's nothing we can do," Twin Rivers superintendent Al Anderson told The Western Review.

Anderson says some minor furnace maintenance work and painting has been done at Breton high, but there was a reluctance to do a lot of work, in anticipation of a major announcement down the road.

Anderson added it was most unfortunate that Breton didn't get the necessary funding.

He hinted that politics were involved. Anderson indicated it may have had something to do with annexation.

Meanwhile, Lindale principal Dennis Harris was extremely pleased that funds had been made available to upgrade their school.

The construction and modernization will see decent computer and library facilities, an additional classroom, shower facilities and a larger office and staff room.

Our need was there

Harris is hoping construction will get underway in the summer.

The Lindale principal felt confident the announcement would end any rumors or speculation the school would be closing.

"Our need was there. I'm thankful it was recognized," Harris explained.

The province handed out $85 million in school construction grants last week. They had to wrestle with applications totalling $330 million.

Remembrance Day schedule

This year's Remembrance Day parade will start at about 10:40 a.m. at the Legion Hall.

The parade will end at the cenotaph across from the Legion where services will be held.

The service will include the singing of O Canada, the Last Post, silence, reveille, Amazing Grace and the wreath laying.

Following the service, coffee and sandwiches will be served in the Legion hall.

One of nine

This Hodgson Sand & Gravel truck was one of nine vehicles involved in collisions on the North Saskatchewan Bridge last week. Firemen were busy stopping the fuel from leaking on to the bridge deck.

Seasonal loans offered to locals

In an effort to keep Christmas shoppers in Drayton Valley, the chamber, participating merchants, the Retail Merchants' Association and the Credit Union will be offering an interest-free loan to local consumers this season.

Loans for $300 to $1,500 can be obtained until Dec. 20, can be approved in as little as four hours and no collateral is required with a good credit rating.

The customer will have until Dec. 31 to spend the money borrowed and the first of six monthly payments will be due Jan. 15, 1990.

On approval of a loan, the customer will receive 'Christmas cheques' to spend at any participating business. This offer is not limited to Christmas items. Any purchase will qualify.

"The reason I'm so excited about this is that it applies to everyone," said coordinator Linda Bennett.

Bennett said the 'Christmas cheque' idea was borrowed from High River where they have a similar project in the works. The support for High River's program has been "phenomenal," she said.

Looking at ways to spend grant

Town council is exploring several ways to spend its community facilities enhancement grant.

Earlier this year council looked at the possibility of a major upgrading project at Rotary Park and the purchase of a new 120-ton ice plant for the sports centre.

Last Thursday, recreation director Paul Nielsen added another idea.

Nielsen informed council the Park Valley indoor swimming pool is in need of a major face lift.

The pool will be five years old in February.

According to a report submitted to council, the pool is showing signs of building fatigue such as peeling paint, cracked and broken tiles and an increasing number of mechanical failures.

Mayor Tom McGee wanted to know if a regular maintenance program was underway at the pool. Nielsen said that was being done, but that the budget doesn't cover the costs.

McGee also wanted to know if the present ice plant in the sports centre would be able to accommodate summer ice.

The recreation director said the existing plant is borderline, but he didn't expect it to be a problem.

Both minor hockey and figure skating have expressed an interest in summer skating schools next year.

Because the grant doesn't expire until 1991, council decided to send it on to administration for further study. Members of the recreation board will also be asked for some input.

Reform holds convention

Almost 1,000 people attended a Reform Party fall convention in Edmonton recently, including about 25 people representing the Yellowhead constituency.

Vice-president on the executive for the southern region of the Yellowhead constituency Mark Smith said there were three major themes at the convention: government spending and how to cut back, future of the party - branching out, and environmental policy.

Smith said the party is trying to find new ways of dealing with environmental issues through responsible use of products and trying to make them environmentally friendly.

In respect to government spending, Smith said, "We were essentially trying to find out if the party wanted to look at a flat tax rate and what kind of conditions the party should be putting on the government."

"It was a positive experience"

They have decided to "keep the door open and not spend a lot of money to expand," but Smith said the party would be more than willing to help if someone wants to start a new constituency.

"I think it was an exciting time for the Reform Party," he said. "A positive experience."

Breton ambulance to undergo change in the near future

Ambulance service in Breton will be undergoing some changes in the near future.

As of Jan. 1, Associated Ambulance Service (AAS) will be replacing Tri-County in the area.

Service will not be affected according to AAS general manager Terry Schueler.

In fact, he says, there will be "a bit of an advantage because there will be more ambulance units to respond."

This is because Drayton Valley's AAS units will respond as back-up when needed.

"We'll simply be providing a basic life support service (emergency medical technicians) with the availability of advanced life support (paramedics) as back-up."

Schueler said essentially the service is "not going to change a whole lot."

He is hoping the current ambulance attendants in Breton will agree to stay on when the change is made. "Naturally we gave them the opportunity to retain their jobs," he said.

Crowds fail to appear to support local talent

Crowds for the first two Drayton Valley Oil Capitals junior hockey games at home were very disappointing.

Club officials had been hoping for a full house. But that didn't happen. There were the traditional Halloween parties and the World Series, but isn't there always something else going on in town?

In the days of the Devils and Blades, the Friday night crowd was usually the largest of any.

It was a night the students got out and supported the local talent. It was treated as a great way to kick-off the weekend.

But that was missing for the Capitals' opening game, a night that saw this band of new players, coaches and sponsors, drop an exciting 9-7 decision. The next night, before another poor crowd, the Capitals came out on the short end of a 7-3 score with Carstairs.

After seeing all the empty seats for those two home games, club president Bill Ballas and his executive were likely wondering if it was all worth it.

But, if you consider the situation in Olds, you realize what Ballas and his people are doing is worth the effort.

Olds also has a team in the Alberta Junior Hockey League. In five years, Olds has yet to see, a player from that community on the AJHL team.

As a result, the junior 'B' team was born.

While it's highly unlikely the Capitals might lose every game this season, at least they will be doing it with local and area players.

So let's get out and support Ballas and his bunch for the effort they have demonstrated in giving our junior age players a place to play at home.

Volunteers, like everyone, have good and bad days

Volunteers are an important part of society.

But like most people, they have both their good and bad days.

Fran MacLellan enjoys her volunteer job with Meals on Wheels. She usually finds it very gratifying.

But there was one day recently, when even she wondered if it was all worth it.

Fran was out doing her noon-hour deliveries, only to discover she had locked her keys in the car.

Unable to get into her own car was frustrating enough, but you can imagine how she felt on the receiving end of a $30 bill from the locksmith.

Now, I'm not about to blame the locksmith for issuing the bill, but it seems unfair that there isn't a special little fund somewhere to help volunteers like Fran MacLellan.

Frankly Speaking

Drayton Valley is growing up.

We now have six traffic lights.

Now, if we can just get our new mayor and council to take a serious look at the Royal Bank corner...we could have seven traffic lights.

McGee and McGee...

That has a nice ring to it.

Actually, it's the last name for mayors in Drayton Valley and Red Deer.

Tom McGee is the new mayor here and Bob was returned to office in Red Deer.

Excuse me for thinking out loud, but wouldn't it be neat if the two councils could get together and share some common concerns? Just an idea Tom.

A bouquet to the town's public works department for being so efficient in sanding the roads on the morning after the first bad snowfall.

Keep up the good work.

Waiting for THEM!

Dear Editor,

Well, the day finally came that I was expecting.

That's right—I have been waiting for THEM. A knock on my front door, on a Sunday afternoon. A front-door knock always indicates there is something for sale on the other side of the door.

I knew who my front-step guests were this time though, without even looking. They were the well-dressed, confident, sweetly smiling, gentle-looking people anyone would want to invite in. But I was waiting for them.

Those representatives of Jehovah's Witnesses, ready to throw a punch at my front door! I knew I am not the only one expecting them. Now, I am not knocking their faith, or the people who profess it. I have my faith too, but I would not appreciate my faith handing me pamphlets and books to sell door to door.

Well, all I heard from these two was "magazine... Satanism... Jehovah's Witnesses."

And all THEY heard from me was the slam and reverberations of my front door. This keeps up I'll have to change it in the spring.

Centralized school may be coming

Dear Editor,

An open letter to the County of Wetaskiwin:

Now that the question of annexation is out of the way, I think it is high time we put all the differences we may have aside, and strive to work together to do something for the benefit of all of us. Meaning, the education of all the children in our area.

Since the last time I was in school in the early '60s, the enrolment numbers have been declining. It becomes ever costly to the taxpayers to maintain the status quo of our schools. So we must find an alternative that is both beneficial in tax savings as well as agreeable to the majority of the residents of the Alder Flats, Buck Lake and Winfield areas.

That alternative is a centralized high school. After reading the final report of the Local Authorities Board, I realize we have their support, as well as the support of our county school board and MLA Tom Thurber.

I firmly believe a centralized high school can and will become a reality.

Bill Duffy, chairman
West End
Education Committee

The only thing Jehovah's have ever impressed on me about their faith is how much I dislike them for coming to my door. Generally speaking now, just because I have a door, salesmen think they are obliged to knock on it. Well, they're not!

The acceptance of the travelling salesmen went out when shopping malls came in. My front door is just that—mine. Halloweeners and Christmas carolers are welcome, but salesmen beware: Don't waste your "song and dance" and attempts for "money treats" from the house at 5505-44 St.

The sign there reads: "Don't Bother!"

Just had to get that off my chest. Thank you.

C.J. Webb

Thanks to the generosity of the canvassers (with their time) and the contributors (with their money), the annual September Arthritis Society campaign for funds was again a great success in the Drayton Valley area.

Thanks again.

Turning lane not well marked

Dear Editor,

I am writing in regards to the new turning lane coming into town on 50th Street south off Highway 22.

This has the potential of being a very dangerous situation. This turning lane is not very well marked and a lot of traffic, including a number of large trucks, are using it as a straight-through lane.

I feel that if we want to prevent a fatal accident from occurring at this spot, we had better have it marked much plainer.

The words RIGHT LANE MUST EXIT should be on the highway along with two arrows. This should be painted on the highway far enough back that traffic has sufficient time to change lanes.

Let's do something right. Let's not wait for a death to occur before something is done.

Remembrance Day must shift focus to mourn all dead

By Shaun Polczer
As the memories of the war years fade, Remembrance Day must shift its focus from a day to mourn Canadian war dead, to a day to mourn all war dead if its meaning is to survive into the next century.

This includes those nations Canada may have once been at war with.

It may seem difficult to accept at first, especially for old vets whose old emotions still burn as if only yesterday.

The fact is however, that this country is a different place now than it was even 50 years ago, since the start of the last great war. Many of those who Canadians fought against are now Canadians themselves, including a good number of Germans and Japanese.

Surely they must by now cherish the values that our nation fought for in those Herculean struggles — peace, freedom, and democracy.

Perhaps, many are glad the allies won, that they had the opportunity to be embraced in a land they fought against, to extend our principles of justice and rights.

And surely those images of death and destruction in their homelands haunt their minds as much as those same visions haunt our vets today.

Why should they be denied a day of mourning for their pain just because they were on the other side?

The horrors of war favor no one nationality.

In recent years, veterans from other Axis nations have been attempted to lay wreaths and participate in remembrance ceremonies at Canadian cenotaphs, to no avail.

This is understandable, but sad.

The old rank and file are forgetting that most of this country's population has come to Canada since 1945.

There are fewer people with memories of the Canadian war experience now, than there ever were.

Comment

Some, such as myself, have been born since the war ended, and from relatives who migrated from the old country (in my case, the Netherlands) to escape the havoc rained upon them during the last conflict.

We have no recollection of the events that led to war, of the newsreels and broadcasts that documented the rise and spread of Fascism.

My aunts and uncles were innocents, bombed from all sides, German, American, and British, in someone else's struggles.

We know little, and care less, about the reasons for Canada going to war, but we can appreciate what it means to have made sacrifices for liberty.

If Remembrance Day ceremonies were geared to the war experiences of our multi-cultural population en masse, and their personal sacrifices, rather than just to one section of Canada's military caste, the day would have a more universal appeal for everyone.

Maybe then our own vets wouldn't have to face a soldier's worst fear — being forgotten.

Teachers change roles for a day

By Shaun Polczer
The first professional development day for Twin Rivers schools was hosted last Monday at Frank Maddock high in Drayton Valley. Teachers from all the Twin Rivers schools were in town to be students for a day, learning a little about themselves to learn how to teach better.

Topics ranged from global education, learning styles, special education, commercial teaching products and learning aids to first aid and presentations on student stress.

Host principal Al Day said it was an extremely worthwhile exercise.

"It was an excellent day," he said, noting that he himself was just another teacher there. "It was well organized and the presentations were very informative."

Steve Hall, a teacher at FMHS, was chairman of the organizing committee.

He said professional development days such as these were held in the past with the County of Parkland, but this was the first time such an event had been held just for Twin Rivers schools due to the fact the division is only a year old.

He also explained the purpose of the development days is to keep teachers current with educational theory and curriculum changes.

"We want to make sure that we don't go around telling kids the sun goes around the earth," he said.

Hall also said the day was an opportunity for teachers from different schools to get to know each other and compare ideas and techniques.

Land use bylaw to be amended

Town council plans to amend its land use bylaw to accommodate a local motel that plans to expand.

Council heard last Thursday that an application had been received from the Valley Motor Inn to make alterations in a C-MX district.

At the present time, the zoning does not allow for hotels, motels and motor hotels, which restricts the issuing of a permit on the present site.

After a lengthy debate, council decided to amend the land use bylaw to include hotels, motels and motor hotels as a discretionary use for C-MX zoning.

The amendment will have to be advertised for two consecutive weeks and a public hearing will have to be held.

If no objections are raised at the public hearing, council may consider giving the necessary readings.

First reading was given last week.

Who is your committee rep?

Councillors Moe Hamdon and Alex Salfi have been handed five individual committee appointments.

Howard Olsen and Charlie Miner will sit on four committees with Jean Saunders and Natalie Gibson being named to three committees.

Mayor Tom McGee will also sit on three appointed committees and is an ex-officio member to all boards and committees under the jurisdiction of council.

If you want to call a councillor about any item pertaining to the town, following are their names and the committees they sit on.

Ambulance service board: Howard Olsen and Moe Hamdon; economic development committee liaison with the chamber: Alex Salfi and Moe Hamdon; development appeal board: Howard Olsen, Moe Hamdon and Mayor McGee; West Central Health Unit: Alex Salfi; hospital board: Alex Salfi and Mayor McGee; recreation board and joint use committee: Alex Salfi and Natalie Gibson; library board: Jean Saunders and Moe Hamdon. Charlie Miner will be the town's representative on the Meridian Foundation; Howard Olsen and Charlie Miner - Pelican steering committee; regional landfill: Moe Hamdon; tourism and action plan: Natalie Gibson and Jean Saunders; transportation and protection committee: Howard Olsen and Jean Saunders; Yellowhead Regional Planning Commission: Charlie Miner and Natalie Gibson; finance: Charlie Miner, Alex Salfi and Mayor McGee.

All the members of council will sit on the FCSS and the municipal planning commission.

During the meeting, Councillor Saunders was appointed deputy mayor for the next six months.

Council faces major decision

Last week's council meeting was not without its problem. Mayor Tom McGee and the newly elected councillors, meeting for their first council meeting, face some major decision making in conjunction with a development appeal board bylaw.

Membership on the board calls for five members from the town at large.

Since town council plans to make up the entire membership on the municipal planning commission (MPC), none of them will be allowed to sit on the appeal board.

Alex Salfi says he's just a little worried there won't be any council representation on the board. Charlie Miner said he had a number of concerns.

As a result, the bylaw, that did get first reading last Thursday, has been sent back to committee.

Local man nets jail sentence

Thirty-six-year-old Dennis Steffenson of Drayton Valley was sentenced to 60 days in jail and received a six-month driving prohibition after pleading guilty, in provincial court last week, to driving over .08.

Oil Caps capture first win of season

By Paul Cudla
One out of three wasn't bad at all for the Drayton Valley Oil Capitals as they served notice their team has potential to compete with the division leaders.

The junior 'B' Oil Caps won their first game of the season by beating the Red Deer Terroco-Knights 7-1 on Saturday. The win was the first of two road games for Drayton Valley in Red Deer.

"Saturday night we showed we could play with any team in the league," Grant MacDonald, head coach, said adding Red Deer is "supposed to be" one of the best teams in the Heritage junior 'B' division.

Oil Caps goalie Norm Mallo turned in a stellar performance between the pipes as he stopped 37 of 38 shots.

Keith Sandstrom and Scott Kynoch had two goals apiece — Trevor Fedorus, Rob Nein and Dylan Putzenburger also had goals.

"We played our best game of the year. Sixty-minutes of hockey. It proves to the guys that we can be competitive," MacDonald said.

It was a different story for Drayton Valley on Sunday afternoon as Red Deer stormed back for a 7-3 win.

"On Saturday night we were more aggressive to the corners. We were beating them to the puck. On Sunday they were beating us to the puck," MacDonald said.

The Sunday game in Red Deer was mired by 160 minutes' worth of penalty calls.

Brad Allen, Dwayne Lyda and Rob Nein accounted for the three Oil Caps goals.

The Lacombe Wranglers found their way to the Drayton arena on Friday night and defeated the Oil Caps 7-5.

The game proved to be a spirited affair which included nice scoring plays, hitting, and even a penalty shot.

With the Oil Caps down 5-4 early in the third period Lacombe got a penalty shot when a Drayton Valley player covered the puck in the crease. Goalie Trent Lennie made the stop.

Scoring for the Oil Caps were: Trevor Fedorus, two goals, Dylan Putzenburger, Keith Sandstrom, and Dwayne Lyda.

After five games the Drayton Valley seasonal record stands at 1-4.

Accolades leave town

Drayton Valley teams from two local schools gave it their best shot at the H.W. Pickup invitational volleyball tournament last Saturday, but it wasn't enough to keep the accolades from going out of town.

Senior boys and girls teams from both H.W. Pickup and St. Anthony's participated in the event.

Woodhaven school from Spruce Grove won the senior boys' portion of the tournament over Stony Plain in two straight games.

The H.W. Pickup Huskies finished third out of a five-team field winning their consolation match, while St. Anthony's finished last.

The Caledonia school senior girls from Leduc won the girls' final over Hinton.

The H.W. Pickup girls' team finished last out of the same five-team field.

Derrick hosting tourney

The Derrick Boxing Club will be hosting the Bronze Gloves tournament for the sixth consecutive year on the weekend.

No other club in Alberta bid against the Derrick club and head coach Lawrence Duperron said that was a good sign.

"They feel we've done a very good job of organizing it and they want to keep it the way it is," Duperron said adding, "Drayton has got to be proud to host these kinds of tournaments."

The Bronze Gloves will host about 33 clubs across the province and between 90 and 120 boxers will see ring action. Bouts will be held Saturday (1 p.m. and 7 p.m.) and Sunday (2 p.m.) at Frank Maddock high school.

"It's a good beginners' tournament," Duperron said.

Most bouts at the Bronze Gloves feature young pugilists who have had two or less fights — fighters range in age from 11 up.

The Alberta Boxing Association (ABA) sponsored competition will award medals and trophies to each age group and weight class.

"Of course every boy wants to be the 'bronze boy.'"

The 'bronze boy' trophy is awarded to the Bronze Gloves fighter who amasses the most points overall in his fights. Fighters are limited to less than four matches.

An opposing player goes for the ball as the Huskies look on.

Rodeo stock breeder says secret is to continually buy

By Paul Cudla

When a cowboy climbs into the chute at a rodeo, not everyone in the crowd is hoping to see a good ride.

"I cheer the animal on," Howard Thompson, who has raised rodeo stock for 10 years, says.

Since 1980, Thompson-bred rodeo stock has amassed a total of 22 "best overall" titles for bulls, bareback, and saddlebronc animals in the Lakeland and Wild Rose circuits.

The latest Thompson stock award winners are Brown Sugar (Wild Rose bareback of the year) and Baby Austin (Wild Rose bull of the year).

"Oh, it's a pretty good life for an animal, they work about three minutes a year.

"It's their job and they get to like it," Thompson says.

Thompson estimates he has about 100 horses on his five-and-one-quarter sections of land and approximately 30 bulls. His ranch is about 10 miles northwest of Tumahawk.

The secret to raising good rodeo stock Thompson says, is to keep shopping around and continually try different animals.

"You just got to keep buying the animals.

"You've got to keep new ones coming in all the time."

Every animal has a different personality according to Thompson, and being able to understand their personalities is important.

"You get to know them — you've got to get to know them."

Thompson says "you can never tell" whether a horse or bull will turn out to be rodeo-calibre. He adds that about one in every 10 turn out to be good bucking horses.

"Lots of them want to (buck) but can't because they don't have the ability."

It all started for Thompson in 1963 when he rode in rodeos.

"I kind of grew up with it. I've been at it a long time."

The rodeo tradition continues in the Thompson family as Howard's sons Jim and Roy ride saddlebronc and bulls.

"The one thing about rodeo is it's good for the kids; it let's them blow off a little steam."

Thompson says it's important to know the animal.

Visiting teams losing arena

Out-of-town teams are having trouble finding the Drayton Sports Centre.

Recreation director Paul Nielsen agrees there is a problem, but admits nothing can be done in the way of signs, until the budget is finalized. That's expected to be some time in December.

Mayor Tom McGee says the town hopes to eventually get access into the sports centre off Highway 22.

"It's part of upgrading West Valley Park," the mayor says.

Despite the immediate problem, McGee doesn't see any solution until next year.

Harden travelling to Hamilton to compete in nationals

By Paul Cadila

Shelby Harden is not guaranteeing he will win all his fights as a member of the Alberta boxing team, but he is assuring he will supply a maximum effort.

"I think I'll do fairly well. I'll show up each time, and I'll be there for every fight," Harden said.

Harden, who boxes out of the local Derrick Boxing Club, will be travelling to the national boxing tournament in Hamilton, Ont., as a member of the Alberta team.

"It should be a good experience; a learning experience. It will be nice to represent Alberta...and the town (Drayton Valley)," Harden said.

As the only legitimate heavyweight (178-201 pounds) in the province, Harden, 25, was selected to the team and headed for a short camp in Edmonton Nov. 4. Team Alberta, which consists of a boxer from each weight category, will be travelling to Hamilton Nov. 9 and returns Nov. 12.

Harden, 5' 11", 185 pounds, would like to fight three times, but his number of bouts will depend upon how many other provinces have heavyweight contenders.

"Regardless of who he fights, any fight from here on is good experience for Shelby," Lawrence Duperron, Derrick Boxing Club coach, said.

Duperron has coached Harden for his entire seven-year boxing career and feels his main asset in the ring is speed.

"He's very fast with his hands. He's got good speed."

When you have the kind of speed Shelby has, you can build up points in the ring quickly," Duperron said.

Harden's record is 7-6 going into the national tournament and he has been training for the nationals in Hamilton since August.

A Drayton Valley resident for 15 years, Harden is employed as an electrician.

Mike Harden looks forward to national competition.

Three rinks planned

Just as soon as the weatherman cooperates the town plans to flood three outdoor rinks.

These include the rink adjacent to the Drayton Sports Centre, Eldorado school and MacKenzie Park. The Northview pond is also used for skating.

Recreation director Paul Nielsen says the pond is good until a thaw hits.

He says it's used by youngsters who don't have access to the sports centre or those who don't play minor hockey.

The snowbank rinks at Eldorado and MacKenzie Park will be flooded once the weather gets colder.

Minor hockey will once again be the biggest user of the rink next to the sports centre. Girls hockey and the schools are also big users.

Nielsen says the rink is booked evenings, through Friday.

Tough year for course

It wasn't a very good summer at the Drayton Valley golf course.

According to figures presented at the club's recent general meeting, the actual income was $40,390 less than budget.

Green fees totalled $69,900 which was well off the projected budget figure of $80,000.

Bar sales totalled $20,860 compared to the projected $35,000.

And, tournament revenue was down $9,975.

One aspect of the golf club budget that was up, was green fees. They totalled $115,200 compared to a projected budget of $110,000.

Some of their expenses last year included $85,865 for wages; another $35,000 for pro Mike Townley; $20,000 for course maintenance; $10,500 covered equipment maintenance and repair and $1,500 for caterpillar spraying.

The actual membership included 322 adult (male and female) members, 66 juniors, 48 family, 22 seniors and seven students.

The club is projecting a 10 per cent drop due to an increase in membership and green fees.

Darkness haunts local arena

Poor lighting in the parking lot at the Drayton Sports Centre is causing Paul Nielsen's phone to ring.

The town's recreation director says the lights are part of the contractor's responsibility, and it's up to them to make the necessary adjustments.

"It's a major source of complaints," Nielsen said last week.

Norette wins fourth in a row

The Norette Oilers chalked up their fourth straight bantam hockey league victory last Saturday night.

The host Oilers scored three goals in both the second and third periods en route to a 6-2 win over visiting Edson.

The teams battled in a scoreless first period before Daryl Winter and Byron Kuzek with a pair, gave the Oilers a 3-0 lead after the second.

Winter, with his second of the game, along with Ken Hutchinson and Shelby Jorgenson were the Oiler marksmen in the third. 12-8 decision to J&A Winter also collected a pair of assists in the win.

Goalender Barney Reich who made several big saves early in the third lost his bid for a shutout at the 11:50 mark.

Assistant coach Mike Izerman put in a word for the defense following the win. "It's the best they've played all year," he said.

Referee Hal Anker handed out 14 penalties to each team.

Jeff Miller had a productive week for Warden Well in novice hockey action.

On Sunday, Miller scored five times, but it wasn't enough as Warden dropped a 12-8 decision to J&A Trucking. Jerry Wilkes, More scores page 13

Town to help funding drive

Town council plans to help the Drayton Valley curling club with their fund-raising drive.

Mayor Tom McGee said a committee would be formed to assist the curlers.

The decision followed an informal meeting between members of council and curling club president Bruce Clemmer last Thursday.

Clemmer informed council that fund-raising for their $990,000 rink, being built adjacent to the Drayton Sports Centre, wasn't coming in as expected.

"We need the town's help," Clemmer told council.

Besides a shortfall of about $440,000 Clemmer says prices for the six-sheet rink are higher than anticipated.

"We're trying to bring the costs down to $900,000," he added.

Clemmer says the curling club had hoped to get $200,000 from corporate donors. To date, they have received $45,000.

"We need some fresh ideas. We need some help," Clemmer told council.

Phase one, that will include the lounge and recreation area, is already behind schedule. The boxing and gymnastics clubs have been promised space in the recreation area.

Administration will bring the final contract back to council's Nov. 30 meeting.

There will be no increase in the rates for the first year.

The service V.J. Disposals has provided in the past five years was acknowledged by some members of council last Thursday.

Councillor Howard Olsen said the town has had virtually no complaints in the past five years. "It's a satisfying situation," he said.

Olsen supported the idea of a three-year contract and felt one year, that had been recommended by administration, was unfair.

"The track record of this company has been excellent," stated Councillor Alex Salfi.

He was opposed to a business operating on a year-to-year basis and supported a three-year contract.

Both Charlie Miner and Jenn Saunders supported extending the contract to three years.

Mayor Tom McGee said he would like to see something in the contract about the color of bins. He also suggested the town should be fully aware of any changes in garbage collection.

Council shops local on fire vehicle

Town council has accepted a bid from Mayhew Motors for a new fire chief's car.

Council approved the bid of $18,947 last Thursday. This includes an additional $2,947 over the original budget of $16,000.

The bid from Mayhew's was the third lowest of seven received.

Council decided to go this route, because it would be cheaper in the long run to have the warranty work done here as opposed to the other two bids that were from out of town.

There was only a $155 difference between Mayhew's and the lowest bid.

Councillor Alex Salfi endorsed council's decision.

"I like the idea of keeping purchases in town," he stated.

Although the town doesn't have a policy regarding buying locally, Salfi says it's something he wants to discuss with the chamber.

"We want to promote the town as much as the chamber," he said.

Salfi hopes to achieve this through his new portfolio as the town's liaison with the chamber. Councillor Moe Hamdon will join Salfi on the economic development liaison with the chamber.

Approved or not approved?

There were some red faces at last Wednesday's Twin Rivers school board meeting.

Superintendent Al Anderson was under the impression the board had given approval to proceed paying a vehicle allowance to central office staff.

However vice-chairman Jim Reid said that wasn't the case.

While administration seeks to get more information, permission was given to continue charting the mileage central office staff were travelling in and out of Drayton Valley.

Thompson pursues goals via NAIT

Big plans are in the works for local graduate Steve Thompson.

The 19-year-old is in his third semester in radio and television arts and is covering news and deejaying on the NAIT radio station NR92.9 Cable FM.

But his aim is to go to California for placement during his fourth semester. He is hoping to work for a California radio station and see how he likes it and possibly intends to stay there.

His goals after that are placed high as well. "The goal of most people is to be a morning man," he says. "If that comes along I'd take that," he says chuckling.

He would also like to try acting and would like to act in movies.

Thompson graduated from Frank Maddock high school and was accepted at NAIT, a feat of which he is proud.

He says NAIT only accepts about 24 out of about 400 applications and he was one of them.

NAIT looks first at the marks, (he was an honors student) and then the career investigation report that a student must submit, Thompson says. To complete his report, he says, "I asked a lot of questions."

Radio is pretty "wide-open," according to Thompson. "You got to be creative."

NR92 is geared toward NAIT students and he says a variety of music is played to please their widely varied musical tastes.

The station also covers city and world news and sports as well as NAIT news and sports.

For Thompson, radio really does get results.

THE WESTERN Review

School board 'picks-up' options

Three option courses being offered at H.W. Pickup junior high school have been ratified by the Twin Rivers school board.

A fourth option, physical education for Grade 7 students, will be investigated further by superintendent Dr. Al Anderson.

The three option courses the board has approved are rhythmic gymnastics, hunter training and journalism.

The board wants to know more about the objectives of the physical education option before giving its approval. Upon receipt of the proper information Anderson has been put in a position to okay the Grade 7 option.

The course outline shown to the board stated that students were expected to go outside for every class as there was no available gym time.

The board wants a clarification as to what activities the students will be involved in. Vice-chairman Jim Reid also wanted to know who was footing the bill for these activities.

In regards to the comment about the lack of gym time, Anderson said that wasn't unusual for a school the size of H.W. Pickup.

Community bus reviewing policy

The Community Bus Association plans to review its maintenance policy.

Spokesman John Mulligan says the steps are necessary following complaints from a user.

A minor hockey team found whiskey bottles in the bus prior to a trip to Mayerthorpe and on another occasion, picked up the bus only to find the fuel tanks were nearly empty.

Mulligan says no one in particular has been handling the maintenance. People who drive the buses are asked to re-fuel and clean them.

However, he was very upset that whiskey bottles were left on the bus. "That's not allowed," he said.

The association decided to handle its own maintenance work as they attempted to reduce a $35,000 bank loan.

Mulligan is also upset with the people who are annoyed at the $1.10 per mile rate.

He's quick to point out that Greyhound charges $2.40 per mile.

"We're as fair as we can make it," Mulligan explains.

Meanwhile, Mulligan says DV Answering Service is doing an excellent job with bookings.

Students get lesson on authority

By Susan Moscicki
VIP — very important person, right?

Wrong. It's Values, Influences and Peers, a relatively new program, part of the regular Grade 6 health classes at Evergreen elementary school.

However, when dealing with the section Authority and Authority Figures, local VIP Mayor Tom McGee was invited to speak to the children in teacher Tim Melnychuk's class.

After clarifying the meaning of authority and authority figures, Melnychuk went on to explain how authority goes "from top to bottom" and how authority can change, i.e. the people have the authority to vote in their government that, in turn, has the authority over the same people that voted it in.

"If I don't do the job,"

McGee told the students, "I have three years that I have that mandate, then the people choose again."

The students asked McGee several questions including whether or not he was going to build a skateboard park. McGee told them he wanted to see a genuine commitment and a plan before considering the project.

"Bring it before council and say this is what we want, this is what we've come up with, and then it's time for us (council) to decide."

He said he would like to see the children investigate it thoroughly and cover such aspects as insurance, who would run it, whether special equipment would be worn, etc.

Another question asked was "Why did they build the mill so close?"

"The question is not why we did that, because that's done, but what we can do to improve it," McGee answered.

Having the students feel comfortable with authority figures is part of the VIP program.

Aims of the program include having the students develop a better feeling about themselves and understanding of society's values, a better understanding of how a society functions and role of the police, respect for the rights of others and for our laws, ability to deal with peer pressure, to make intelligent choices, and improve their communications skills.

"If we can get them to buy into this responsibility thing, that will be great," said Melnychuk.

McGee is on hand to answer students' questions

Committee expanding

The town's tourism action committee is expanding. Council has decided to expand the size of the committee to seven members at large. Originally there were four members on the committee from the community.

The seven will be joined by two representatives from town council and one each from the MD and chamber.

"There is a feeling that the business community could be more involved," said Councillor Jean Saunders.

"The first job is to sell that," she added. Recreation director Paul Nielsen, who sits on the committee as a resource person, says the tourist action plan is nearly completed. Once that is done, it will be sent to council for approval in principle.

Expect the unexpected in winter

Winter driving can be hazardous at the best of times, so the best thing a person can do is to ensure that one's vehicle is in tip-top shape and roadworthy before tackling those icy roads.

"Wait until the windows are clear (before driving)," is advice from RCMP Staff Sgt. Jim Humphrey. "There are many accidents directly attributable to windows being fogged up."

Other tips from the RCMP include never leaving a vehicle running with youngsters in the vehicle, and never leaving it running with keys in it.

"If you're going to leave the car idle, have a spare set of keys."

"Don't invite someone to steal your car."

Advice from a local mechanic was to make sure one's vehicle is serviced and winterized.

He said to check all the

The addition to the hall was discussed and due to lack of funding, the idea has been tabled for a further six months.

A plan was posted in the hall for people to see. The entire package will add up to a cost of $200,000 which includes an extension to the birch room with a dance floor and stage, extra bathroom facilities and covered bleachers facing the rodeo grounds.

Oil Wives gear-up for fashion

By Darlene Van Ember

The October dinner of the Drayton Valley Oil Wives was indeed a Thanksgiving feast.

Twyla Gardiner lit the dinner friendship candle as president Eunice Lyle read of her many accomplishments and sacrifices on behalf of the club. Eating order was determined by spelling harvest pumpkin.

Kim Rowe led grace, and Joyce Hayduk read a friendship poem. Jean Beckett won the friendship mug and Betty Orlesky won a free dinner.

Eleven new members were welcomed into the Oil Wives bringing membership to a total of 109. Five guests were also present at the meeting.

A 30-year pin was awarded to Lil Ross and a 25-year pin was presented to Jeanette Miner.

The Drayton Valley Ladies Auxiliary in one place, at one time.

Auxiliary finest in Alberta

The Drayton Valley Health Complex is one of the finest in the province thanks to these ladies right here, says the reeve for the MD of Braxey.

"The Drayton Valley Ladies Auxiliary is the finest in Alberta," said Henry Rondeau, who is also vice-chairman of the hospital board, at a volunteer appreciation dinner held in their honor last week. "The level of volunteer support at the hospital here is unbelievable."

Rondeau said the quality of the facility was greatly enhanced by the efforts of the auxiliary, which make patients' visits more comfortable in many ways.

A new chapel is slated to be constructed in the hospital next spring at a cost of over $200,000. A good chunk of the funds will be provided by the auxiliary through proceeds from the gift shop and the thrift store.

The dinner was a toast to the success of their achievements.

Decore urges Gainers disclosure

The provincial auditor general must release publicly the findings of his investigation into the operation of three of Peter Pocklington's former companies, says Liberal leader Laurence Decore.

Decore revealed that Auditor General Donald Salmon confirmed to him he has seen the books of Gainers Inc., Gainers Properties Inc. and Sodor Foods Inc. Salmon told Decore he expects to have completed his review of the companies' financial statements and assets "within a couple of weeks."

Decore urged the solicitor general in a letter to use the powers given him by section

20 of the Auditor General Act to "prepare a special report to the (legislative) assembly on any matter of importance or urgency that, in his opinion, should not be deferred until the presentation of his annual report."

Such a report must by law be presented to the legislature either immediately if the legislature is currently sitting, or within 15 days of the commencement of the next sitting.

"This matter is of such great importance to the taxpayers of Alberta and to those who work at Gainers that your complete and expeditious involvement is essential.

"The workers at Gainers cannot be expected to participate in a restructuring of the company unless such total and complete disclosure occurs. I believe that if the public were invited to purchase equity in Gainers, it must be mandatory to have full disclosure," Decore told Salmon in the letter.

Manuals planned

Both the town and the MD are working on their disaster service manuals.

For the town's Dave Turner, it's a matter of updating the year-old manual.

However, the MD's Mike Anderson faces the task of preparing an entirely new disaster services manual.

Turner says it's the town's intention to update its manual yearly.

Mulch during the winter a good idea

Trees, roses and strawberries are among the types of plants you can protect during the winter by using mulches.

Mulches should be applied after the ground is frozen. Depending on what type of plant you're protecting, you can use peat moss, clean straw or even the leaves you've raked from your lawn. All plants should be watered well before freezing conditions occur.

Covering strawberry plants with a mulch is especially important in areas where snow cover is light or where the berry plants have a southern exposure and the snow melts easily.

The best mulch for strawberry plants is wheat straw because it is thick, but light, and doesn't break down.

Put on the mulch after a few light frosts, when the plants are dormant. A good guide is when temperatures drop to minus five degrees Celsius and stay there, usually between mid and late October. Put on the mulch in the morning before the ground surface thaws and cover the plants with about 10 cm of mulch.

In the spring, after the danger of severe frost has passed, the mulch can be removed. If it is removed too early, the blossoms are subject to spring frosts and if it's removed too late, blossoming is delayed.

Grafted, hybrid tea, grandiflora and floribunda roses all need winter protection. Most shrub trees are hardy and don't need protection.

After pruning the stems 25 to 30 cm from the ground, roses should be covered after the ground starts to freeze and before it snows. Peat moss, clean straw or soil are preferred. Peat moss is easier to remove in the spring.

'It's all like a big dream, now'

By Susan Mosicki

A day of heavy firing in Normandy has ended. In the distance shots can still be heard, although now more sparsely.

Jim, perhaps one of the lucky ones, has survived the day and begins digging a coffin-like trench.

After a day of nothing more than french apples to eat, he lays some straw in the trench and settles down for yet another restless night.

Like many of the others, thoughts of, and letters from his beautiful bride-to-be waiting at home are what keeps him going and helps keep his mind intact, sane even through the craze of this wretched war.

Schrapnel wounds in his legs and burns provide additional torment to his already weak and tired body from the unthinkable conditions he must endure.

Thank God for the other men in his crew. There's a tightness there...it's the only family he'll have until the end of this war — until the bloody victory, he prays.

"It's all like a big dream now," says Jim Saunders. "It happened 45 years ago.

'I remember war and what it stands for...I don't know if we did any good...'

"That (World War II) was the war to end all wars and it didn't," says the 67-year-old Breton resident.

"I remember the war and what it stands for. I don't know if we did any good or not but at the time we thought so."

Jim doesn't think this generation would do any different if in the same situation. "I think they'd have to do the same thing, otherwise we wouldn't have anything."

One of what he terms the "D-Day boys," Jim says D-Day was "the start of the second front and the start of the end of the war. June 6 — that was the day we went ahead and tried it and we made it."

"We were hoping to try and make some change, which we did, but all of us came back with disabilities of some kind."

Out of his 10-man gun crew in the 3rd Canadian Infantry Division and 4th light anti-aircraft regiment, Jim and one other were the only men to return from the war. As his own personal tribute to the crew, he planted tulips in his garden. Each spring when they bloom they serve as a reminder of the brave men who fought for what they believed in to make things better for the next generation and generations to follow.

Remembering ones who didn't come back...and ones who did

Every veteran has different memories, Jim says, but gathering together on Remembrance Day, to him, is "on account of the fellows who didn't come back and for the ones that did come back — the wounded and the suffering."

Jim Saunders displays a book he recommends to read about the Canadians in the war: Bloody Victory (Canadians and the D-Day Campaign 1944).

'Services bring him closer to me'

By Shaun Polcezer

It has been said the pain of war is hardest on the mothers who get left behind.

It takes a lot of blood, sweat, and tears to raise a son, only to have it all taken away in less than an instant.

Long-time Drayton Valley resident Marjorie Durham would have to agree.

And she ought to know — her son Kenneth was killed in Europe during World War Two. He was only 19 years old at the time.

"My son was a beautiful boy, and I loved him dearly," she said, reminiscing through happier times. "He lived in this same house right here that we are in now."

Her only remaining mementos of Kenneth are a service photograph of his youthful face that hangs on the wall of the living room, and a Silver Cross he was awarded posthumously for bravery during the war.

The cross hangs around Mrs. Durham's neck as a pendant on a thick, silver chain.

"I go to Remembrance Day services every year because it makes me feel closer to him. I will go again this year because it's all I have left to remind me of him," she said.

Mrs. Durham, who is in her nineties, admits her memory is not as good as it once was, and that the reasons for him going to war have faded.

She feels no consolation in that the war was won for freedom.

"It wasn't worth it," says Mrs. Durham without hesitation, and then pauses for another moment of recollection.

She smiles when it is suggested that if mothers ruled the world there would be no wars.

"I just hope that there are no more wars ever again."

Mrs. Marjorie Durham wears the Silver Cross her son was awarded for bravery around her neck as a memento of his memory.

In Flanders Fields

*In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.*

*We are the Dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt down, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.*

*Take up our quarrel with the foe:
To you from falling hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.*

HATS OFF TO OUR HEROS

Alan Sibbons believes everyone should be involved in, or aware of, the fire department.

"That's my big thing," he says. "Saving property and lives."

"The satisfaction I get is after the fire — from helping somebody."

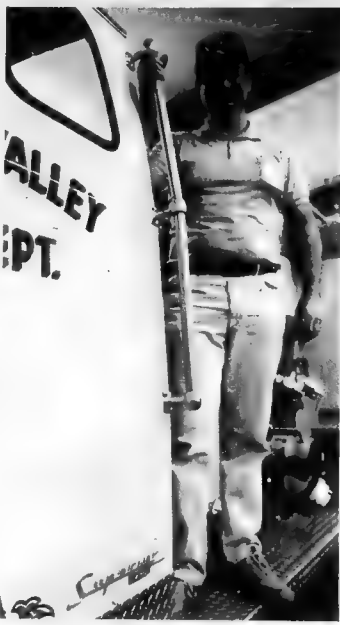

"I'd hate to be burned myself, put it that way," he says.

Sibbons, who has been a member for about two years, enjoys being with the other firefighters at meetings. "They're a good bunch of guys."

"It's nice to do the training as well," he says.

The most difficult to deal with, according to Sibbons, is loss of property or the loss of life.

He says the reason he joined and has stayed involved is because he feels he is doing a bit of service to the community.

Battle River Tourist Association Good response to coupon

In an attempt to track where their literature goes and who picks it up, the Battle River Tourist Association placed a clip-out coupon in their 1989 Battle River Country Visitors' Guide.

The response was excellent with entries arriving from every corner of Alberta; and many areas in British Columbia, Saskatchewan and Ontario.

Anyone taking the time to send in a coupon had a chance to win one of three sets of hand-crafted, life-sized Canadian geese.

Draws for the three winners took place at the BRTA annual meeting Oct. 21. J.E. Wallace of Camrose, Mary Makaroff of Drumheller and Lin Wooster of Leduc were the lucky winners.

Jonzon gets 90 days

A 24-year-old Drayton Valley man was sentenced to 90 days in jail in provincial court last week.

Gregory Jonzon pleaded guilty to two counts of uttering threats to cause death. In addition, he received a five-year firearms prohibition and will be on probation for six months upon release from jail.

Jonzon was also convicted of assault of a peace officer recently and was sentenced to 30 days in jail.

Twin Rivers school board extends in-camera meetings

The Twin Rivers school board has decided to spend more time behind closed doors.

The trustees decided last Wednesday to extend their in-camera meetings from 30 minutes to one hour prior to the start of their monthly meetings.

The decision was made because the trustees didn't feel they had enough time to discuss the necessary business.

Starting with next month's session the board will be meeting on the second Thursday of the month. In the past, board meetings were held on the first Wednesday of the month.

No reasons were given for the change.

The board hasn't made any decision if they will continue with their evening meetings held throughout the district. Some evening meetings, such as one in Lindale, drew a good crowd, while a similar meeting at the Eldorado school, drew three people and two of those were staff.

Board chairman Vi Helm said she felt the out-of-town meetings inconvenienced the office staff, the host principal and caretakers who usually had to stay at the school until 11:30 p.m.

Superintendent Dr. Al Anderson suggested an open house at the schools instead of the evening meetings. Another suggestion was for a trustee to be at the school during parent-teacher interviews.

The trustees also decided last week to hold the line on their remuneration for board and committee meetings, mileage, meals and accommodation.

Changing hands

Many items and dollars change hands weekly at the farmer's market in the Derrick Mall. Novelty items, home baking and fresh veggies in season are a delight for all. The market is open from 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. each Wednesday.

Remote-control mini-copter for dangerous situations

To boldly go where no man — or woman — dares to go. That's the mission that lies ahead for a new miniature helicopter designed by a team of Ottawa engineers.

Environment Canada will soon be flying the new mini-whirlybird into situations, such as chemical spills, fires or explosions, that are too dangerous for direct human involvement.

Piloted by remote control, the helicopter contains seven kilos of high-tech equipment capable of measuring chemical concentrations and sampling gas and smoke at any disaster site. Meanwhile, a video camera on board provides a close-up view of the scene below.

The helicopter's prototype was based on a kit purchased at a hobby shop. The engineers replaced the clutch, carburetor and rotor mechanisms with heavier parts and then added a larger engine.

The final product has a wingspan of about 2.1 metres and its blades can be folded to squeeze into the trunk of a car.

Scientists from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency have already expressed interest in the chemically-sensitive chopper. At the same time, Environment Canada plans to train its own cross-country network of remote-control helicopter pilots, drawn from its employees who normally work on chemical spills.

How can you put a price tag on eternal things?

By Pastor Donald Snell
DV Church of God

Today is an age of transplanting human organs. The Bible speaks about Paul, the apostle, and records some of his letters to the early church.

Paul writes to the Christian people of Philippi and suggests they have the mind of Christ. "Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus." Philippians 2:5. The Living Bible says "attitude and the Amplified Bible includes the word 'purpose'."

We need goals and a definite purpose, as well as a Christ-like attitude to carry forward the Great Commission. The noises around us so easily distract us and become louder and louder, and if we are not careful, we are tuning them out of our lives.

From the

Paul didn't live in a world of tranquility — he bumped into strong opposition at Ephesus. He spoke to the fact of fighting as it were with beasts; he spoke about being beaten, stoned, and in prison stocks, and through it all, he gave thanks to the Lord.

Paul carried out the mission he felt Christ would have him represent. The mind, attitude and purpose of Christ was to manifest the manifold love God has for the soul of man.

One soul is worth more than the whole world. We struggle to grasp this marvelous truth in this scientific age. We place value on things in comparison to what we know, but how can you put a price tag on eternal things?

The gift of salvation, the leadership of the Holy Spirit, the worth of following our Lord in Christian baptism, or sharing the joy of taking the bread and giving thanks, the grape juice that represents the shed blood of Christ for the remission of sin.

Dollars and cents cannot buy peace of mind and heart and soul. Paul is giving us something to think and meditate upon when he asks us to have the mind of Christ.

The avenue of prayer is priceless and yet we so often take the other routes. Isaiah 26:3-4 says: "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on thee; because he trusteth in thee. Trust in the Lord forever; for in the Day Jehovah is everlasting strength."

What a formula for life, health and peace in the troubled world. Isaiah 40:29: "He giveth power to the faint, and to them that have no might, He increaseth strength, even the youths shall faint, and be weary, and the young men shall utterly fall. But they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength, they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not be weary; and they shall walk and not faint."

What a wealth of strength and comfort comes from knowing the will of God for our lives and doing it.

Let this mind, attitude, and purpose be in you, which was in Christ Jesus. Paul, how do we do this? I will tell you what I told the church at Galatia: "I am crucified with Christ, nevertheless, I live, yet not I, but Christ liveth in me; and the life which now lives in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me and gave Himself for me."

May each one of us continually seek the mind of Christ in our day-to-day activities. The mission of love, is our reaching out to others with the universal language of love — touching others with the redeeming love of Christ Jesus. Give this mind — today!

CF campaign a great success

The Drayton Valley Kinsmen have wrapped up a successful month in the fight against cystic fibrosis.

October was Cystic Fibrosis Month and the local chapter of the Kinsmen responded by collecting over $2,200 for the cause.

CF is an inherited disease that affects about one in every 20 Canadians.

Its cause is currently unknown, and victims can look forward to lives of threatening lung infections, inadequate absorption of foods, hospitalization, and too often, an early death.

Rigorous therapy programs are required every day just to stay alive.

A small ray of hope has been the identification of the defective gene by scientists at Toronto's Sick Children's Hospital and at the University of Michigan.

High hopes

The Drayton Valley Kinsmen hope to raise over $7,500 dollars this year to help fight CF.

The town has contributed over $5,000 in each of the last two years.

To do this, they have increased the number of collection boxes in various shops from 35 last year to 50 this year.

A World Series baseball pool netted $600 and a Kinsmen Checkout program at Derrick and Dodson malls netted another $1,402.

The campaign for CF will not stop with the end of October.

CF chairman Greg Cowell said a planned Grey Cup pool and various hockey and Stanley Cup pools are planned for later in the year.

Fall concert tomorrow night

Eldorado

WISH to express our love and a great big Thank you to all our children, Carlie, John, Mary, Danny, Kelly, Dany, Dennis and S.J. for our lovely "Surprise" 25th Celebration. Many thanks to all our "Other Kids" for their help. The cake and all the food was beautiful.

Special thanks to all our friends for the lovely gifts and to all who made our evening very memorable. The gift was precious.
Doris and Jim Clark

Births

In Memorium

OSTOPCHUK, William
In loving memory of a dear husband and father who passed away on November 1, 1989.
We think of you gone by days,
When we were all together.
The family chain is broken now,
But memories will live forever
To us he has not gone away.
Nor has he travelled far,
Just entered God's eternal home
And left the door ajar.
Sadly missed by Pearl, Peter, Helen and John

Angry Breton parents dub school 'Next Year High'

By Susan Moscicki
More than 60 concerned parents and village residents met in the Breton high school last week to voice their displeasure with the Twin Rivers school division. Parents said they were sad, frustrated and angry the school is in a depressing, dilapidated condition and that no funding was provided for improvements.

'We were sucked in with a lot of promises'

Breton high was first on the list of priorities with the county of Leduc, they said, and it went to third with Twin Rivers.

Lindale school, on the other hand, went from being under Breton with the county of Leduc to being second on the list, ahead of Breton with Twin Rivers.

"What do the politicians have against Breton?" one parent asked.

"We were sucked in with a lot of promises," said another.

Parents were upset because of the lack of, or poor maintenance done in the school.

Margaret Fenneman, a Breton resident, said she went to the school almost 30 years ago and nothing has changed in the older wing of the school except the color of the lockers. "Everything is exactly the same," she said.

It was thumbs down to Twin Rivers school division at Breton high school last week.

'dismal, depressing environment'

Some of the numerous concerns parents expressed included mice in the school, floors in some rooms that slope (as much or more than one foot difference in the height of the floor from one side of the room to the other), and children having to wear coats in the classrooms because of draft from the windows.

Others were: board in the school does not comply with building codes, the ventilation system and exhaust fans are not functioning (creating a real hazard in the science and industrial arts labs), windows are rotting in the frames, and more.

This is reportedly a modest list of concerns, many more of which principal Jim Musson brought to Superintendent Al Anderson's attention in a letter stating "this was a dismal, depressing environment that our government would not even tolerate for prisons."

One woman was upset because of ceiling tiles that had fallen on a teacher's head. She said if any more tiles fell, she wouldn't allow her child to go back to school until Twin Rivers school division supplied hard-hats, warm clothing, and other necessary equipment for studying in that environment.

Another parent, Vickie Long, wanted to stress their concerns were not about the quality of education or the staff. The only concerns had

Algal bloom captivating appearance — toxic in nature

By Paul Cudla

Is lime treatment the inevitable solution to the excessive algal bloom problem at Buck Lake?

Almost every year in late-June to mid-September Buck Lake sprouts a lovely blue-green algal bloom which is captivating in appearance, but toxic in nature.

Professor Ellis Prepas, of the U of A zoology department, has used the lime treatment on two Alberta lakes — Half Moon Lake and Figure Eight — where it has proven to be effective.

"It is a natural fixative that is unlike other treatments," Prepas said of the use of lime, "all you are doing is enhancing a natural process of calcite precipitation."

Prepas, who began liming Figure Eight Lake in 1986, explained the algal build-up at Buck Lake is similar to most Alberta lakes and is attributable to rich soils. Highly fertile lakes with large amounts of nitrogen and phosphorus can suffer from intense algal blooms.

The phosphorus is very mobile," Prepas said, adding that phosphorus does not settle easily in Alberta lakes and contributes to the algal process.

"Calcium and iron are the main binders, and our lakes are deficient of those two."

"In our lakes phosphorus is not sealed in the bottom sediment like most hard water lakes," Prepas said.

The algal bloom is a naturally occurring cycle which can be enhanced by nutrient inputs from sewage effluents, agricultural runoff, and industrial effluents.

The danger of extreme algal blooms — besides the obvious unpleasant odor, and appearance of the water — is inherent in the algae decomposition process which depletes the oxygen in lakes and can suffocate fish.

Toxins released by algal blooms are also a threat as cases of poisoned animal life have been reported.

Solutions to the algae problem have been difficult to find as chemicals applied to lakes to kill algae, are also toxic to other forms of plant and animal life.

Lime though, which is made up of calcium and oxygen, has apparently preserved the plant and animal life at Half Moon Lake and Figure Eight Lake.

"We know that lime can improve the quality of drinking water," Prepas said, adding, "it's a really innovative approach to the problem we have."

Dr. Rod Bealer, who owns a cottage at Buck Lake is concerned about the condition of the lake and is looking to form a Buck Lake preservation society.

"It's actually dangerous to swim in. It's a definite health hazard and it's very unpleasant," Bealer said.

Bealer's goal is to see a lake restoration process take place at Buck Lake.

"If it carries on you could have a dead lake before you know it," Bealer said.

Tom Thurber, MLA, has met with Bealer and is aware of the problems at the lake.

"It is important to keep this as a major tourist attraction and a major resource in the area," Thurber said.

Buck Lake is classified as a 'survive lake' by Alberta Environment, and in 1983-84 was termed as 'eutrophic' (highly fertile).

Susan MacKenzie, communications officer at Alberta Environment, said Buck Lake would continue to be monitored and stressed that "liming is in research stages only."

Lodgepole blowout still burning issue

By Paul Cudla

The Lodgepole blowout continues to be a burning issue in the oil and gas industry a full seven years after the well disaster.

Effects of the blowout were evident throughout the Saskoil open house held at the Lodgepole school Nov. 8. The open house was designed as an invitation for public input, questioning and browsing. About 50 people accepted and attended the open house.

Saskoil is proposing to drill a well 1.5 kms northwest of Lodgepole which may cut into sour gas (H₂S) reservoirs.

"We're here to tell people in the Lodgepole area what our plans are and let them become familiar with what Saskoil is and how we operate," Jim Ireland, Saskoil environment coordinator, said.

The open house represented the first of its kind for Saskoil and Ireland felt it "was a very useful process."

Ireland said ideas like open houses are in theme with a series of policies in Alberta that require companies to consult and work with the public.

Saskoil is pursuing a "safety first" attitude with its proposed well which includes a comprehensive safety contingency plan.

Included in the plan is air quality monitoring devices.

Darrell Glover displays his highly sensitive air-monitoring device.

Darrell Glover, manager of Prowest H₂S Safety, said the open house was a good idea which would help enhance public awareness.

"This particular open house is the best way to communicate with the public," Glover said.

The Prowest air monitoring unit measures in parts per billion (instead of the standard parts per million) which he said is "one-thousand times more sensitive than conventional devices."

Dick Bissett, of Bissett Resources, said his company was contracted to help Saskoil with safety contingency.

"Our role in the entire operation starts with public awareness," Bissett said.

Bissett called the Lodgepole blowout the "straw that broke the camel's back," and drew an analogy to explain public misconception over sour-gas drilling.

"If someone were to knock on my door and say 'we're going to build a nuclear plant across the street tomorrow,' I'd say 'not on your life.' Because the only thing I know about nuclear power is what I know about Chernobyl and Three Mile Island," Bissett said.

The Lodgepole blowout, Bissett added, serves as the sour-gas equivalent to other major industrial disasters and can lead to public uneasiness.

"Until you inform people, perhaps there are old wives tales and misconceptions out there."

Saskoil began in 1973 as a province of Saskatchewan-owned oil company and began selling public shares in 1985. It is presently 25 per cent provincially owned.

On May 5, 1989, Saskoil purchased all the shares of Inter-City Gas Corporation (ICG) for $103.7 million.

AHA recommendation 'takes from rural people'

By Shaun Polczor

Rural hospitals provide a personalized service that is often not available in the larger centres, says Janet Young, administrator at Breton General Hospital.

Young was responding to the recommendations of an Alberta Hospitals Association (AHA) report that says hospitals that serve less than 5,000 people are impractical, and that new hospitals should not be built in these areas.

"I don't agree," said Young, "that would take away from the rural people."

The report summarized the results of a study by the AHA aimed at looking at incentive programs to keep doctors in rural areas.

While there are plenty of physicians to go around in major centres, shortages abound in many rural areas.

The study found that a service area of about 5,000 people is required to keep three doctors busy while maintaining a cost-effective means of providing services.

The AHA is a lobby group whose membership consists of all the hospitals in Alberta.

'No bearing at all on Drayton Valley'

The Breton hospital serves an area of about 5,000, supporting two local doctors.

No incentives are required to keep them in the area, said Young.

She expected the recommendation would provide for lively debate at the AHA convention coming up at the end of the month.

Jim Jensen, administrator at the Drayton Valley Health Complex, said the report would have no bearing at all on Drayton Valley.

Although the population of the town is around 5,000, it serves an area of over 25,000 people.

He also explained Drayton Valley had no problems attracting high quality doctors and that no incentives were needed to bring and keep them in town.

"We far exceed the 5,000 level," said Jensen.

After the report is discussed at the AHA convention, the recommendations will either be accepted or rejected by the membership.

If they are accepted, the resolution will be passed on to the minister of health, Nancy Betkowski, as input into future policy decisions.

Winter is here!

The first unofficial cold snap of the year is on the way to the Edmonton area. Forecasters are calling for lows dipping to around -17C this week.

Tuesday: Flurries and an accumulation of 2 cm of snow; High -4C; Low -8C.

Wednesday: Mostly cloudy; High -8C; Low -17C.

Thursday: Scattered flurries; High 1; Low -10.

Friday: mostly sunny; High 2; Low -9.

MD gets increased grants

Transportation and utilities has approved an increased 1989/90 grant allocation to the MD Brazeau in recognition of added transportation-related costs associated with the incorporation of areas as far east as the Breton area into the new MD in January of this year.

Municipal manager John Eriksson said the MD has already received $155,894 for the regular road, dust control and engineering assistance grants.

In a letter addressed to Reeve Henry Rondeau, Minister of Transportation and Utilities Al 'Boomer' Adair promised an additional $75,677 would be forthcoming in the near future.

Using community bus safest form of team travel

It's winter and that often means bad road conditions.

Because of those conditions, we're hearing more often of accidents involving young people. Most of them out on sports trips.

Due to the increasing number of accidents of this nature, more teams are travelling by charter bus.

The Drayton Valley Minor Hockey Association is one of those.

Most of the trips taken by their teams, are using the community buses.

An increasing number of coaches endorse this method of transportation.

Garry Janzen, coach of the bantam Norette Oilers is one of these.

"If the players take cars, you don't know who's coming and where they are. It creates a lot of worries for a coach," he admitted recently during a trip to Athabasca.

"You can get sued and all those things," he added. Janzen has seen his share of scary moments during many hockey trips.

Like a trip to Camrose, where the road was glare ice. Cars were in the ditch, but the bus went right on through.

Besides being the safest way to drive to and from games, Janzen says all the players arrive at the same time, they have time to dress and sort out lines for the game.

The Oilers will experience their fair share of charter buses this winter, which has to be reassuring for the concerned parents, knowing minor hockey is going that route.

Here are some of them (in a word or two):

- Highway driving
- Hitting the ditch
- Being stranded

- Frozen door locks
- Doors that won't close
- Dead battery
- No interior heater
- No heat at all
- Desire for a garage
- Frozen water lines

- Cold hands and feet
- Long underwear
- Warming the car
- Cold office/floor
- Salt on the car
- Shovelling
- And, the list goes on...

That's enough talk of winter. What I need are some travel posters showing the beautiful weather in Hawaii, Palm Springs, etc.

to do with the school condition. "We wouldn't want our kids to go anywhere else."

A delegation of parents met with Education Minister Jim Dinning last week to discuss the problem.

"We had a positive reception," according to a prepared statement. "The minister has concerns for not only our school, but others. Although no promises were made, we are optimistic that Breton will receive fair consideration."

But some of the parents will continue to refer to the school as "Next Year High" after all the "you'll get it next year" promises.

Breton fire association sells out

Breton and Rural Fire Protection Association's meeting last week was the end of era.

"We basically sold out," said fire chief Al Smith.

"We followed through with the request people had in the spring — sell assets to the MD (Brazeau) as of Jan. 1, 1990."

Smith said the change will be a good one for the area, the final link in providing universal fire protection for the entire MD.

The fire protection association will be dissolved and administration of the newly formed fire department will be taken over by the village of Breton.

The firefighters will now have their hands free to pursue more training practice, Smith said.

Breton area residents under the association coverage were charged $100 membership fee and $20 renewal fee each year. The cost of fighting a fire for a non-member was charged back to the owner.

Wild 'n wacky predictions for 2000

By Susan Mosciicki

At the risk of being crucified, I have put together a list of wild and wacky predictions for the year 2000:

Streetbeat will be done at the local post office.

Teenagers will listen to their parents.

Abortion won't be an issue. Women will earn more than men (really).

Drayton Valley will become a city and have at least 10 sets of traffic lights. The Oil Caps will join the NHL.

Lawrence Duperron will star in a martial arts movie. EVERYONE will shop in town.

Jeans won't be in style.

Donnie Osmond (who?) will make a big come-back.

Recordings will not be allowed for telephone soliciting.

The Cermesians will choose a location near the mill for the new West DV Mall.

Comment

Income tax will be abolished.

Canada won't have a national deficit. Tom McGee will wear sweats.

Christmas won't be advertised until AFTER Halloween.

Gasoline will be free.

Kids won't like junk food.

Semi-annual pay raises will be mandatory.

Doctors won't say "this won't hurt a bit."

Politicians will stand by their campaign promises.

Lawyers will be inexpensive.

Paycheques will make it to the bank before they're spent.

Movie and television stars won't have face-lifts.

Men won't wear pink.

Farmers will make money.

The government won't subsidize private enterprise. The RCMP won't drive pink trucks.

Banks will charge a flat rate for interest. NOBODY will be late for work.

Babies won't cry.

Monday morning won't start until the afternoon. Crime will be a thing of the past.

Charles Ng will be extradited to the U.S. (it could happen).

Wild and wacky, yes. But maybe, just maybe...

Canada Post rebuffs Review

Dear Editor,

The reaction of The Western Review to Canada Post's response to the complaints of a customer are all the more surprising because, in balance, The Review is a pretty good newspaper.

Both editor Frank Ryan and reporter Susan Mosciicki wrote long and bitter articles attacking Canada Post, and our attempts, according to the paper, to stifle the opinions of people (Western Review, Oct. 24).

Let's look at exactly what Canada Post did to deserve this salvo.

Without permission, a reporter from the Review entered the lock box lobby of the post office and began asking our customers questions. One of our customers complained to the postal staff, and the reporter was asked to leave.

That's it...right? Am I leaving anything out of this plot to subvert democracy?

Any member of The Western Review staff is welcome in the post office at any time, provided they are there to conduct Canada Post business. This policy is the same as virtually any other public institution.

Nominations sought

For the first time ever, the chamber of commerce will be presenting an award for small business of the year at an annual meeting Nov. 29.

A committee has been chosen to do a survey of the business community in order to choose the lucky recipient.

According to the guidelines, the business must provide goods or services for a fee, must be within the defined area of the Drayton Valley and District Chamber of Commerce, does not have to be a member of the chamber, and should be a promoter of the business community.

The manager/owner and staff should be actively involved in volunteer service activities in the community and the business must be recognized by the community as having good customer relations.

Nominators must provide the committee with all necessary information on the nominee to aid in the selection process.

Anyone wishing to nominate a business for this award can write to Frank Ryan at The Western Review or telephone 542-5380.

Review receives good marks

Dear Editor,

I happened to be one of the fortunate people asked a recent question on Streetbeat.

The lady, Susan, was very polite and recorded my answer with pen and paper. The young man who took the picture was also very polite.

We live in a country where we are allowed to give our opinions and why not take that right instead of making up untrue stories about the nice people who take the time to ask our opinions?

Miner upset over selection of foundation name

Councillor Charlie Miner is upset over the selection of the name to replace the Meridian Foundation.

Council was told at its Nov. 2 meeting the Brazeau Foundation is the selected name.

Miner is upset that Drayton Valley was not used in the name.

"We don't seem to exist. Where the hell is Drayton Valley?" he asked.

He wanted to know why the town hadn't been asked for some input.

Mayor Tom McGee agreed and the two will explore the reasons behind the Brazeau Foundation name.

Clever fund-raising idea

An international environment group is sending mail to Drayton Valley residents.

The document from Greenpeace, is a community survey on hazardous wastes.

Rob MacIntosh, a spokesman for the Pembina Institute called the direct mail a clever fund-raising idea.

Nine questions are asked as part of the survey on hazardous waste and then, Greenpeace asks for a financial contribution.

However, they don't have to look far.

John Eriksson, municipal district manager, says the name was suggested by the three members of the foundation — the MD, town and the village of Breton.

Eriksson says Brazeau has some significant importance in the area. There's a reservoir and river that includes that name.

Miner was also upset the MD of Brazeau and the Twin Rivers school division don't include any reference to Drayton Valley.

In regards to the MD's name, Eriksson says it was chosen by the advisory council, the MLA and provincial government.

"We are a municipality. They have their name. We have ours," he explained.

He also pointed out a lot of MDs, such as Big Horn and Clearwater, are named for their geographical significance.

"Drayton Valley isn't the only place in the district"

According to Twin Rivers superintendent Dr. Al Anderson, their name came from Rene Marriner, the official trustee, and Alberta Education.

Anderson indicated there was an immediate need for a name because, as he says, "They needed to get things going."

He went on to say, "Drayton Valley isn't the only place in the district. The people in Lindale and Breton would take exception."

Anderson says many school districts in the province don't reflect the town's name.

New computer will aid hearing impaired boy

A local Drayton Valley school boy is learning that modern technology is a viable way around disability.

Chris Gauthier, a student at Evergreen school was presented with an Apple II E computer last week on behalf of the local Elks.

Gauthier is hearing impaired.

While he is not deaf, he must wear a hearing aid and a special FM wireless transmitter to be able to hear and follow along with what is going on in class.

The computer will help him with some therapy and with his school work.

The Elks kicked-in over $1,800 towards the cost of the machine, while the balance was raised in the school and community.

Hearing disabilities are a special cause for the organization, which regularly tries to assist youngsters with these disabilities and their families.

The computer will be set up in Gauthier's home, and plans are in the works to hook it into the school's main computer with a modem.

Earl Thompson, who made the presentation at the school said, "Chris looks like just the type of boy who will be able to do a lot of good with this machine."

Gauthier could only smile, nod his head, and say "thank you."

Chris Gauthier poses with Earl Thompson (left) of the Elks, Chris Kelly, Roger Smolend and his new computer.

'You've got to love the game' to don the striped jersey

By Paul Cudla
Why would a person willingly subject himself to abusive language, personal insults and constant threats by donning a pin-striped jersey?

The answer is simple: you do it for the love of hockey.

Hal Anker, a referee for 15 years, is satisfied with his role in hockey and the feeling he gets from helping out.

"You've got to love the game," Anker says, "It's the best seat in the arena right down there on the ice."

As a kid playing hockey in Edson, Anker dreamed the traditional Canadian kid's dream of making the NHL. And when the dream died, Anker's enthusiasm for hockey carried him into officiating.

"As players we wouldn't have been able to go through minor hockey if we didn't have people helping us out. We had help as kids, so now we're trying to help out the best way we can," Anker says.

"It's doing your part to help minor hockey."

Anker, who is the head referee for the Drayton Valley Hockey Association, says referees are in high demand around town as there are eight senior refs, and 18 junior officials (11 to 15 years-old) in the DVHA and a total of 17 minor hockey teams.

"What I'm pleased to see is guys like Brent (Plotts) who came through the minor hockey system and are now putting something back into minor hockey," Anker says.

Brent Plotts plays for the junior 'B' Oil Capitals and also serves as a second-year, senior referee with the DVHA.

"I like to contribute to minor hockey," Plotts says, "I think that by refereeing I'm helping out."

Plotts finds himself in an interesting situation as both a player and referee, as players often don't take him seriously as an official.

"I like it when I ref men's rec-league hockey. The older guys think they can get away with more because I'm a young guy," Plotts says.

Helping out minor hockey means more than just showing up at the games. To become a carded referee an individual subjects himself to more than just fan abuse.

Potential referees are exposed to 16 hours of class instruction and are handed a 90-page rule book and 179-page case study manual as reading material.

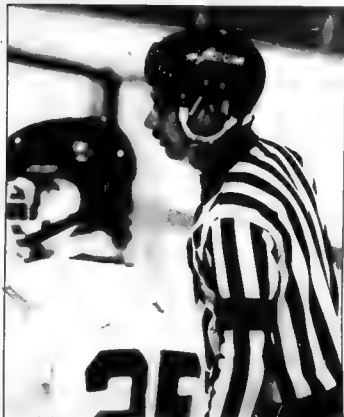

Once a referee is mentally prepared there is the inevitable physical exertion an official must undergo.

"You've got to have the skating. We're out there for 60 minutes. You've got to be in pretty good shape and have the stamina," Anker says.

And what happens when, as a referee, you make a call which you know is...well, wrong?

"Referees never make bad calls," Anker jokingly points out.

"I'm only human," Plotts says, "If you make a mistake, you don't let it show, you stick with the call. You have to stick with the call to make it look like you know what you're doing, anyway."

Referee/player Brent Plotts

Breaking up fights: Just one of the many unsavory tasks a ref must tackle head on.

Learn new rules for the '89-90 season

Minor hockey officials often take flak over 'mystery' penalties and 'oddball' calls, but a lot of the harassment is unfounded and stems from ignorance of the rules.

Do the refs a favor by learning the new rules.

If you still feel a desire to hurl insults at the referee, please, don't use the official's name.

As referee Hal Anker puts it, "we have families in the crowd."

New rules for the '89-90 hockey season are:

Butt-ending and spearing: It is an unintentional violation, the rule has been changed to allow for a double minor. Intentional fouls draw match penalties.

Stick penalties: A total of three stick penalties by a single player results in that player's ejection from the game. Stick penalties include all misuses of sticks except hooking.

Hitting from behind: Automatic minors are now called for any hit from behind. If a player is hit from behind without having the ability to defend the hit, a major and game misconduct can be called.

High sticking: The discretionary unintentional high-sticking stoppage has been taken away, and now all pucks knocked down with a high-stick results in the stopping of play.

Playing without a helmet: If a player loses a helmet the player must stop and put the helmet back on or go to the bench. Playing without a helmet can result in a two-minute minor penalty.

Playing with a broken stick: Goaltenders are no longer allowed to play with broken sticks and will receive penalties for doing so.

The crew: Dave Malone (left), Preston Yak (middle) and Plotts.

Trevor Fedorus of the Caps tries to bang home a rebound.

Three rinks make prizes

Three rinks from Drayton Valley made it to the prizes at the Edson Oilmen's curling bonspiel held the weekend of Nov. 3-5.

The Champion Chemicals foursome finished second in the fourth event.

Franklin Supply's Good Time was third in the second event and Pamco was fourth in the third event.

Franklin's just missed a berth in the finals. Their match, waddled at 2-2, was decided on the last rock.

Oil Caps pounded by Red Deer

By Paul Cudla

The Drayton Valley Oil Caps suffered one of their most dismal defeats thus far Friday night as they were pounded 10-3 by the Red Deer Terroco-Knights. The loss drops the Oil Caps' record to 1-5.

The first Red Deer goal was a sign of things to come for the Oil Caps. Red Deer's Bill Bryant let a shot go from the blue line that deflected off of an Oil Caps defender and eluded goalie Gordon Schuller.

The domino theory took effect after the first goal and Red Deer went into the first intermission with a 4-0 lead. The Red Deer cause was aided in the first period by five penalty calls against Drayton Valley compared to two calls against the Terroco-Knights.

Head coach Grant MacDonald said he is concerned about team conditioning.

"I think that it is becoming obvious that one practice a week is not enough ice time.

"It's catching up to us. Other teams are getting the extra ice time and they are improving," MacDonald said.

The Oil Caps have been limited to one practice a week in the Drayton arena, and MacDonald insists it's not enough to be competitive in junior 'B' hockey.

Adding to the Oil Caps' frustration is a growing list of injuries. Todd Bevan (shoulder), Jason Kipling (shoulder), and Dwayne Lyda (pulled groin) were all injured Friday night.

MacDonald estimates his team has lost eight players to injuries at different times during the season.

Lawrence Duperron gives Neil Tetreault a refresher.

Minor hockey wrap-up

Norette Oilers' undefeated streak came to an abrupt halt Sunday night.

After chalking up six straight wins the Oilers dropped a 7-4 decision to visiting Stony Plain.

The visitors jumped into a 4-0 lead early in the game. After Norette charged back to tie the game at 4-4 after 40 minutes, Stony Plain notched three unanswered goals in the final 20 minutes for the win.

Daryl Winter had two of the Oilers goals and set up the other two by Trevor DePaige and Shelby Jorgenson.

On Saturday, the Oilers travelled to Barhead where they recorded a 6-4 decision.

Chris Enayeh, James Jelinski, Ken Hutchinson, Todd Janzen, Jorgenson and Winter had the Norette goals as they held period leads of 2-1 and 5-2.

Last Monday, the Oilers downed visiting Gibbons/Bon Accord 8-3.

Bryson Kuzek had two goals and four assists in that win. Sheldon Wilson, Greg Grande Prairie youth takes 'bronze boy'

The 1989 version of the Bronze Gloves boxing tournament was deemed an indelible success.

"Everything ran really smooth," said Lawrence Duperron, Derrick Boxing club coach.

The Derrick Boxing club hosted the Bronze Gloves for the sixth straight time on the weekend.

Brian Conrad of Grande Prairie won the 'bronze boy' trophy which goes to the top overall boxer at the tournament. Conrad won the senior 155-pound class by beating Jason Kennedy of the Bow Waters boxing club.

"He is a nice stand-up boxer," Duperron said about this year's bronze boy, "I thought he fought really well and deserved the award."

The Bronze Gloves were held at Frank Maddock high school and attracted 48 fighters from about 10 different boxing clubs.

Duperron said approximately 10 clubs did not make it to the tournament because of other boxing commitments like the national tournament in Hamilton.

"Everything seemed to fall on the same weekend," Duperron said.

The Bronze Gloves tournament held last year, fashioned over 90 boxers from 20 different clubs.

Duperron said he is going to consider the possibility of holding the tournament in January next year.

Two local fighters took to the ring on behalf of the Derrick club and both lost decisions.

Darcy Compton lost in the junior 'C' 147-pound class, to Tom Prince of Grande Prairie and Neil Tetreault was out-decided in the junior 'A' 81.5-pound class by Paul Olsen of Slave Lake.

"Our fighters did really well considering the experience they had before their fights. They went in pretty stale," Duperron said.

Derrick club boxers were at a disadvantage going into the tournament as the club has been in the midst of moving its equipment to another building. Boxers from the local club could only train a few weeks before the Bronze Gloves.

Overall best boxers in each division were: Mike Begic (Cougar club) in junior 'A'; Crest Begic (Cougar club) in junior 'B'; Shawn Bogard (Cougar club) in junior 'C'; Jason Cardinal (Ardmore) in intermediate and Brian Conrad (Grande Prairie)

Frank Maddock high looking to establish basketball 'program'

By Paul Cudla
Basketball is going to take on a different perspective this year at Frank Maddock high, as for the first year ever, the school is looking to establish a 'program.'

Mark Smith, head coach of the senior boys, said the 1989-90 basketball squad will be formed with an emphasis on building year to year.

"We're asking for a commitment. That takes coaches, students, and parents all working together and that's what we're looking for this year. It's kind of exciting," Smith said.

"For the first time we have three individuals who want to be involved which is going to allow us to do new things with the team."

Wrap-up cont'd

Thompson, DePatie, Winter, Jorgenson and Enyedy had the others.

The Oilers will try to get back on the winning trail this Saturday when they host Wabamun.

Anderson Sand & Gravel edged Marsco Electric 9-7 in pee wee league action Sunday.

Rachelle Bill and Chris St. Clair had three goals each for Anderson. Jason Ensminger, Cole Smith and Craig Rinas had the other goals.

Chad Kellgren scored twice for Marsco with Chris Davie, Mike Thomas, Art Blanchard, David Lyon and Lennie Wolf getting singles.

The pee wee 'B' team defeated Thorsby 6-5 last Friday. Travis Brigley led the way with three goals. Jordan Robinson, Nathan Bartlett and Tyler Layden had the singles.

J & A Trucking defeated Warden Well 6-3 in a game Sunday. Ryan Wilkes had two goals and Jeff Miller added the other for Warden.

The Pile Base Rangers have improved their record to an impressive 4-2-1 after four straight victories.

The Rangers beat Gibbons 8-3, and Edison 15-1 Nov. 4 and 5.

Previous to last weekend, the Rangers beat Barrhead 8-5 and Mayerthorpe 9-2.

Head coach Simon Kelly is impressed with the way the team has rebounded after a fairly slow start.

"The team is really coming together. We went through some rough spots early but we're coming together now," Kelly said.

The Pile Base Rangers are the Pee Wee 'A' travelling team.

Along with Smith, Dave Schwindt and Mark Wanagas are helping as coaches of the boys' basketball team.

Smith has been coaching at Frank Maddock for the entire five years he has been a teacher, starting with the girls' team and then moving over to the boys' team two years ago.

"I just really enjoy the sport. The competition and the speed of the game.

"It's a very complicated

In appreciation:
Volunteer coach

game when you look at offences and defences. There's a little more strategy involved in basketball," Smith said.

It is the strategy involved in basketball which has attracted Smith to the sport and enthralls him as a coach.

"I would say it (basketball) is quite cerebral. You have to be thinking at all times on the court.

"You have to make the right decisions and to get the kids comfortable with that and to get them to realize that is a real challenge," Smith said.

Smith, a native of Moose Jaw, Sask., and a graduate of the U of A, said one of the "values of basketball is discipline.

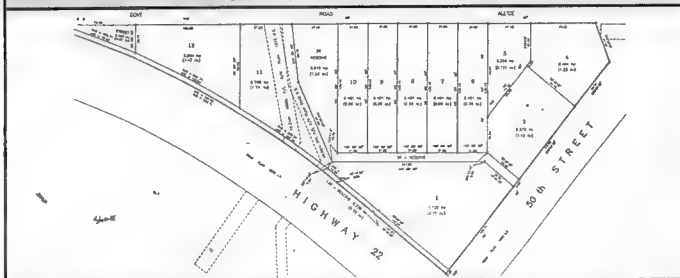

"Any success comes with a lot of hard work. If the kids have it (discipline) in basketball, it will carry on in other areas of their life. That's the value of sports period."

Ski hill hoping to attract volunteers

By Frank Ryan
The Drayton Valley Ski Club hopes to be flooded with volunteer help this winter.

In order to get that much needed help, the club will be giving out free 'thank you' coupons to volunteers working at the hill.

These coupons can be used toward the purchase of an adult or student day pass or rental of ski equipment. Volunteers working at the hill who have a membership, can save the coupons until next year and put it towards their yearly fee.

Dale Rendflesh, club president for the past two years, alluded to the lack of volunteers in his report.

"We were open a record 61 days and attracted 5,000 skiers. It was a fabulous year but we still had the same old problem — lack of volunteers" he told last Wednesday's general meeting.

Rendflesh feels the coupon idea has some merit and will solve a lot of the club's volunteer concerns.

The club is also in the process of making some major changes that will not only attract more skiers to the hill but will act as an incentive for volunteer participation.

New directional signs will be erected along Highway 25 north of the town limits and along the gravel road leading to the hill.

Improvements have been made to the hill, new bindings have arrived and the club is busy trying to come up with the funds to add more lights.

Hours at the downhill have also been expanded this year.

In conjunction with the new Nancy Green Ski League, the hill will be open Monday nights for two hours starting at 6:30 p.m.

The hill will also be open Tuesday and Thursday night along with Saturday and Sunday.

After two years as president, Rendflesh leaves the executive. Len Gusek is the new president and his wife Ann was elected secretary at last week's meeting.

Town Councillor Howard Olsen flips the switch.

Street lights flipped officially

The three new street lights in town were officially turned on last Wednesday.

Howard Olsen, chairman of the town's transportation committee cut the ribbon and flipped the switch for the lights at the IGA corner.

Gary Mack, representing ISL, the engineers for the project and Brian Williams of Intrex, the contractors, also participated in the ribbon cutting.

Members of town council and several department heads were also on hand for the affair.

Total cost of the three lights, all located on 50 Street was $180,000. The province contributed $57,000 toward the total cost.

Olsen says he has received a lot of positive comments about the installation of the lights, especially from school bus drivers and the staff at Turbo.

The three new lights along 50 Street are on main stream green with a demand system for sidestreet traffic and pedestrians.

The third light in the system was installed at the Northend Red Rooster and Industrial Road corner on the north side of town.

Jag jarred by jogger

A reward is being offered for information regarding damage to a $75,000 red Jaguar.

The incident took place Friday, Sept. 29 between 11:30 p.m. and 1:30 a.m. The car was parked in front of the Fields store in the Dodson Plaza parking lot.

Damage to the hood, roof and trunk was $2,000. The roof was the worst with six ripples.

The RCMP pulled prints from the damaged car.

The damage was apparently caused when someone jogged over the car.

Crimestoppers is offering up to $2,000 for information and the owner, Kamal Hamdon, has posted another $500 reward.

Vision 2020 has eye on town future

The town is planning for the future.

Council has adopted a policy statement, which is similar to Vision 2020 being done province-wide.

Wendy Gould, a government representative, spoke about that vision with council during the Nov. 2 meeting.

While the town admitted they had drawn up their own

Vision 2020 policy statement, Councillor Charlie Miner says they have been working toward this in the last five years.

"It's simply a detail of good planning and management," Miner said.

Mayor Tom McGee called the new policy a "motherhood statement."

"Many of them are motherhood statements. We're trying to zero in on what we value in the community," Gould added.

"The vision statement has helped some communities bring their plans together. It will help us 30 years down the road."

Gould plans to meet with representatives of the town to see how she can help with their Vision 2020 statement.

Cash calendar a lottery dream

The Drayton Valley golf course has produced an interesting way of raising revenue which is a lottery player's dream.

The golf course is selling numbered lottery calendars for $30 that give a purchaser the opportunity to participate in a daily draw for cash prizes.

"Every year we try to come up with some sort of money-raising activity. You don't always want to go with the same thing, you want something that gives people more chances to win," Chris Kelly, golf course board member, said.

A total of 2,000 calendars are available from Kelly.

The calendars offer weekday cash draws of $30, weekend draws of $100 and two major draws of $1,000 on Jan. 1, and $5,000 on Dec. 31. That's right lottery fans, this calendar gives you 365 chances to win!!!!!!

MD establishes seniors' foundation

The MD Brazeau passed a bylaw last week providing for the establishment of a senior citizens' foundation to be called the Brazeau Foundation.

"We wanted to have our own foundation co-terminus with our boundaries," said municipal manager John Eriksson.

The new foundation will be a result of an agreement between the MD, Drayton Valley and the village of Breton.

Representation on the board of directors of the new foundation will include two representatives from the MD, two from the town of Drayton Valley and one from the village of Breton.

"Costs will be shared based on equalized assessments," Eriksson said. He said the MD would pick up about 77 per cent of the cost, Drayton Valley 21 per cent, and the village of Breton about two per cent.

The purpose of having a foundation is to provide seniors not requiring specialized care (in the case of disability or chronic diseases) with low rental accommodation, recreational facilities and other services necessary or desirable for their physical and mental well-being.

Under the agreement, first consideration will be given to seniors in need of this type of accommodation, with residents of the contracting municipalities having prior right of admittance over seniors from other areas.

Town will shovel Twin Rivers snow

The Twin Rivers school board plans to sign a snow removal agreement with the town.

Under terms of the agreement the town will remove snow from the schools on a priority basis.

The school division will be sent an invoice on snow removal on the basis of the town's equipment and labor rates. Any rental equipment hired by the town will be invoiced at cost plus five per cent overhead.

Under terms of the agreement the town will not be responsible for any unknown damage to private pavement, sidewalks, curbs and gutters and all future damages not known or anticipated which may develop later.

The town engineer and the school secretary-treasurer will coordinate the snow removal.

Farm cash receipts expected to decrease

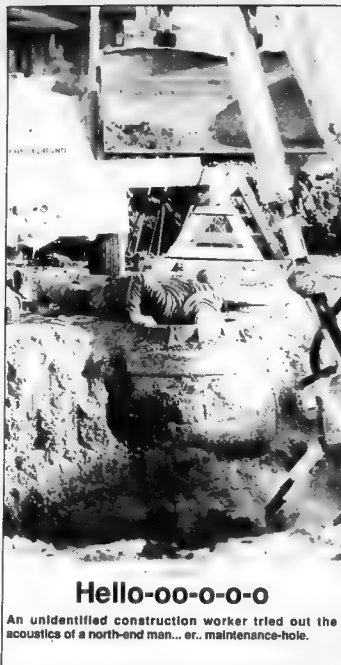

Farm cash receipts are projected to decrease by one per cent to $4.39 billion this year.

The decrease is expected primarily because of an expected significant decline in program payments. The 31 per cent decline in program payments is offset by higher receipts from beef,

Strong grain prices, a healthy beef cattle sector and the possibility of recovery in the hog sector bodes well for farm income in 1990.

Farm operating expenses will be about six per cent higher this year, totalling just over $3.7 billion.

Increased expenses are expected from higher labor costs, larger interest payments and increases in input costs including fuel, fertilizer, pesticides, seed and machinery repair. Higher stabilization premiums will also add to operating expenses.

Alberta ag predicts record

Canadian processed alfalfa production in 1989-90 will set a new record at 619,000 tonnes predicts an Alberta Agriculture special commodities analyst.

"Pellet production will fall from last year's 435,000 tonnes to about 404,000 tonnes, but cube production is expected to increase by 27 per cent," says Al Dooley, of the market analysis branch.

Alberta leads the nation in processed alfalfa production accounting for slightly over half of the expected 1989-90 pellet production and a vast majority of alfalfa cubes.

Dooley says prices for the processed feed will likely average lower than 1988-89. Drought conditions in North America pushed up prices last year. This year's wet August will likely affect prices locally. Hay quality deteriorated when some swaths lay in the rain for long periods.

Canadian exports of processed alfalfa reached record levels in 1988-89 as export market diversification continued. Japan is the largest market, and Dooley says significant growth is expected in both Korean and Taiwanese markets.

Respect For Life wants second opinion on abortion

By Susan Mosicki
A local pro-life group is upset over the new abortion law tabled in the Commons recently.

Doctors will be prohibited from performing abortions at all stages of pregnancy unless they believe the woman's life or physical, mental, or psychological health is at risk.

Any doctor or woman who knowingly violates the law would face a penalty of up to two years in prison.

"The doctor has more rights than the father," says Respect for Life spokesperson Anne Pinkoski. "He can decide if she (a woman) can have an abortion and the father can't and he (the doctor) gains financially by his decision."

"There's not even a second opinion (required)," she said. "Drayton Valley is really affected," said Pinkoski. "It's almost like it's treated like an outside issue."

When a woman has an abortion, she said, there are others involved that also suffer. "The baby, the second victim - the mom, the forgotten dad - the father, and the grandparents."

"There's loss and there's

Town council held a one-day retreat last Wednesday.

Administrators and department heads also attended the meeting held at the Civic Centre. The idea of the day-long meeting was to walk through town projects and set some goals.

Mayor Tom McGee says the where our emphasis is going to be.

One of the positive results of the proposed new legislation, Pinkoski said, is that "a lot of people felt they could have an abortion because it was legal, so at least if it is not legal, there will be those who will not go that route."

MPC undergoes change

The Municipal Planning Commission (MPC) and the Development Appeal Board will be undergoing significant change according to Mayor Tom McGee.

He said, last week, that town council will not make up the entire membership of the MPC as discussed at the Nov. 2 council meeting. Instead, representation on the MPC will be made up of five council members and two members at large.

This will allow the two other council members to sit on the DAB along with three members at large.

McGee said this arrangement will allow for more of council's input on MPC. The MPC, in the past was made up of three council members and three members at large.

It will also allow for council representation on the DAB, something that would not be possible if all members sat on the MPC.

Yes, mother nature served notice that winter has truly arrived when she showered the Drayton Valley area with a few flakes (of snow, that is).

Tax penalty cancellation denied

Town council has turned down a tax penalty cancellation request.

Council was in receipt of a letter from Cameron Financial Consultants of Edmonton last Thursday, requesting that one half of their tax penalty on property (the building occupied by Social Services) in downtown Drayton Valley be cancelled.

Information presented to council, stated that Cameron Financial Consultants was not in a position to pay the taxes prior to the July 25 deadline and they feel the 18 per cent penalty which amounted to $1,090.41 is excessive.

Therefore, the consultants were offering to pay 50 per cent of the penalty ($545) in addition to the outstanding taxes.

If the tax penalty cancellation was not granted, the town had been informed that the entire payment would be withheld until Dec. 31.

Acting on a recommendation from administration, council turned down the cancellation request.

Council taking steps towards new park

Council is taking steps toward creating a new park on the east side of town.

The park is located on 44 Street, on the north side of 50 Avenue.

According to town manager Manny Deol, an emergency hospital used to occupy the land. It was moved two years ago.

Council was informed at the Nov. 2 meeting that eight people in the area were against the park idea.

Deol said he had talked to four of them and their biggest concern was traffic.

"It will be a kiddies' park and I don't feel traffic will come from other areas to use it," Deol said.

For the time being, the town doesn't have any plans for the vacant site.

The town manager feels a park in that area is warranted, as there's nothing else around there for the children.

Council is expected to give the necessary third and final reading on the park proposal at the Nov. 23 meeting.

'Time traveller' illustrates area history in art

By Shaun Polczer

Don Gillis of Breton doesn't think of himself as a time traveller.

By creating models of the vehicles people used to get around with in the past however, he goes back in time every time his imagination comes up with another project to work on.

The history of transportation is the history of the development of the world, and Gillis is trying to illustrate the history of the local area by bringing back to life the ways folks used to get around.

He is currently working on a series of models with the theme of transportation to unify them into a collection which will illustrate the history of the local area.

A retired carpenter by trade, Gillis makes no ordinary models.

These are handbuilt and designed, using natural materials such as wood and canvas to bring scaled detail to life.

"I would eventually like to make a birch bark canoe, and a Red River Cart to kind of complete the series," said Gillis.

His most ambitious project to date has been a replica of a Prairie Schooner.

"This wagon was used to settle most of the central United States and Western Canada," says Gillis.

It was hand-made from scratch, and features soldered tools, tied rigging, a canvas top, and an opening tailgate.

The detail is so fine, that the schooner features steel tires, and wheels that turn on the same design hubs that would be found on a real wagon.

The log sled is a throwback to the actual history of the Breton/Drayton Valley area.

Gillis explains that logging was the original reason for settling in the region.

"There used to be some good stands of spruce around here," he said.

Winter was the time to cut trees and move them on sleds, while summer was the time to saw the logs and turn them into boards.

The horse-pulled sleighs gave way to sleds pulled by steam powered pullers, and eventually, to trains when the railway came through in 1926.

Gillis's latest project is an Indian village featuring a teepee.

He admires the Indians for the way they managed to move around.

"The Blackfoot were great travellers," he said "They would move in family groups to hunt. You wouldn't find too many living together at one time because then they would hunt out all the game that was around."

Don remembers a few Indians living and hunting in teepees when he was a boy.

"They were mostly using tents by then," he recalls, "but there were a few still using the teepees."

By the time his series is finished, the circle will have been made and the trip through time completed.

In addition to his other projects, Don also makes grandfather clocks. He has made four to date.

Don has plans to turn the Indian teepee into a real showpiece.

Real estate market expected to pick up

This is a good time to sell your home.

Especially if it's selling between $60,000 and $100,000.

Rod Schultz of Venture Realty says there's a drastic shortage of homes in that price range.

However, Schultz says, due to some movement with Mobil and Amoco employees, there's a good supply of homes over $120,000.

He calls the lack of homes in the $60,000 to $100,000 range as very weak.

The lack of homes on the market in that price range reflects in the number of homes for sale. Schultz says that number ranges from 35 to 40.

The slow market this month comes after three record months at Venture Realty.

With a number of pending transfers, Schultz expects the local real estate market to pick up steam.

WI Christmas fair Nov. 26-26

Organizer Florence Romano said this is the second year a two-day fair has been held. "Last year it was very successful."

Town council will no longer hold Wednesday meetings

Town council has decided to drop its Wednesday night meetings.

In the past, these meetings, behind closed doors, were held the night before a scheduled council meeting.

Instead a committee meeting, also behind closed doors, will be held the week prior to the regular scheduled council meeting.

Despite the private meetings, Mayor Tom McGee says, "We have nothing to hide from the public."

McGee says things like wages is one item that will be dealt with in committee.

"There isn't a council in Alberta that doesn't hold committee meetings," he added.

The mayor also indicated there will be times when delegations appear before council at their committee meetings, just like the Wednesday night meetings.

The decision to drop the Wednesday night session and go with a committee meeting instead, was made at the organizational meeting according to the mayor.

MD sells Cynthia lots

After an appraisal of the value of the properties, the MD Brazeau has decided to sell two lots in Cynthia to a local man for the sum of $6,666.

A bylaw was passed in a council meeting last week accepting the offer. According to manager John Eriksson, the MD currently owns 69 lots in Cynthia.

HATS OFF TO OUR HEROES

Brad Janishewski is a small business man who wanted to put something back into his community and one year ago he chose firefighting as the way he would do it.

"This is good community input on a low-profile scale," he says.

The biggest thing that keeps me here is that it is a great sense of accomplishment. You can be bitterly tired but you can still feel 100 per cent — like you really got something done."

One of the drawbacks to dropping everything he is doing to answer an emergency call is that "there are special moments you sometimes can't come back to."

For him, though, laughter is the best medicine. "Sometimes, when things are bad, I can bring a smile to these guys' faces."

Maxine Phillips accepts the Easter Seals award.

Town top fund-raiser

Drayton Valley has earned the distinction of being the place in Alberta to raise the most money in last year's Easter Seals campaign.

Century 21 Hi-Point Realty was recently presented with an award from the Easter Seals Ability Council for being the corporate sponsor, and their part in engineering an auction that raised $3,100 for the 1989 campaign last March.

A total of $23,000 was raised across the province.

The monies support 10 homes for the disabled in Alberta, Camp He Ho Ha, and Camp Horizon near Bragg Creek.

Drayton Valley chairman Maxine Phillips, a Century 21 employee, is very appreciative of the local support. "Thank-you to the town. We are proud to have supported a campaign where they raised the most money. It's great."

Study group recommended

A representative of the provincial government spoke to town council recently about waste management.

Wendy Gould of Mayerthorpe discussed the problem with council during their Nov. 2 morning meeting.

She recommended to council a study group be formed to look at the serious side of this problem.

It was also her recommendation this group be picked from people in the community, ranging from the medical profession to farmers.

In some communities, the size of this group ranges from six to 25.

Wendy Gould

"The general public tends not to trust big business and politicians," she explained.

Gould said one of the reasons for the process was, because people tend to be afraid of hazardous waste.

Mayor Tom McGee says the town plans to proceed. But first, council has to sit as a committee and discuss the issues.

Basic supplies should be carried when driving winter roads

Winter is here again, along with all the hazards of winter driving.

Snow tires and anti-freeze are only part of the preparation for driving on Alberta's winter roads. In addition to a first aid kit, St. John Ambulance suggests a number of basic supplies that should be carried in your car for winter safety and survival:

Booster cables, flashlight, reflective strips, warning flares, lights or triangles; tow chain, fire extinguisher, road maps, spare fuses, properly inflated spare tire, wheel wrench and jack, second set of keys outside passenger compartment, ice scraper and brush, shovel, fuel line and windshield de-icer, blankets or sleeping bag, extra clothing and warm footwear, candle in deep tin can, waterproof matches.

All of these items are easy to find at safety supply, automotive or camping supply stores. You may want to include hot, sweet drinks, an emergency food kit or other items relevant to your situation.

Blankets, sleeping bags and World Vision aids victims

The international Christian relief agency World Vision has joined efforts to assist victims of the 6.9 earthquake that struck the San Francisco area of northern California Oct. 17.

The agency, which operates 5,200 humanitarian projects in more than 70 countries, has sent a survey team to San Jose south of San Francisco. The team expects to go on to Oakland, a city connected to San Francisco by the Bay bridge, which was cut off when a 30-foot section collapsed during the tremor.

The team will concentrate on organizing local churches to aid quake victims by channeling available relief supplies to their localities. World Vision, which has extensive experience with overseas disasters and their aftermaths, also will seek ways to mobilize local churches to provide psychological support and long-term rehabilitation needs to people affected by the quake.

extra clothing, carried for winter emergencies, should be kept in the passenger compartment rather than the trunk. That way, you do not have to get cold and wet retrieving them when they are needed.

Nov. violence prevention month

November has been proclaimed Family Violence Prevention Month in Alberta.

"We must continue to increase awareness about this serious problem," says Social Services Minister John Oldring, "and at the same time offer support to families who are struggling to meet their responsibilities.

"A growing number of communities in Alberta are participating in Family Violence Prevention Month activities and responding to this issue with a variety of creative programs."

Last year, communities undertook numerous activities, including public forums, special dramas, school poster and essay projects, mail displays, educational workshops, a variety of media features and wide distribution of information packages.

Reaching for the top

Darrell John, left, and Matthew Woloszyn aim high when they play at the park. The last of the good fall weather was a definite advantage.

Getting to the root of the problem

By Samia Vallevand
Consumers' Association
Women who have a certain amount of pluck can now call on two new electric gadgets for unwanted hair. Either of them can yank out hair at the roots.

The one uses a motor-driven coil that rotates to catch the hair, rather like an expandable watch band. It comes as a single or three-speed unit, with or without cord. The other uses a rubber roller with a number of fine slits that grab the hair.

The method may seem like madness to some, but it does have its advantages. Hair removed at the root takes longer to grow back, and when it does, the naturally tapered hair ends are apt to be softer and less bristly than those that have been cut by a razor. Also, the chances of a cut or nick are almost nil. But then, it hurts when you pull hair out by the roots.

The CAC testing labs asked a group of female volunteers to use one apparatus on each leg. Only two-thirds of the women finished the test; the others lacked courage or quit after one try. Almost half the panelists who finished the test did not like either device.

Considering the mixed reviews of the panelists, there is no way to predict if a person will like either of these devices. Prospective buyers should be aware that according to the one appliance's booklet, the product is not returnable.

Call the product information office at 420-0747 if you require a fuller report.

Artist had done his work well What about you and me?

"And when the voice was past, Jesus was found alone..." (Luke 9:36)

It was a primary Sunday school class. The teacher had been telling the story of Jesus and the fishermen of Galilee, and was showing a beautiful picture of Jesus and the disciples dragging their boats and nets to shore. Each class member took the picture and looked at it, then passed it on. When the teacher received it back, she asked, "Has everybody seen the picture?"

"I didn't," promptly replied one rather grimy-looking little fellow who always seemed to be miles away when the teacher was teaching the Bible stories.

So the teacher took him close to the picture which she had now pinned to the bulletin board. Looking carefully at it, he pointed a pudge, dirty finger at Jesus and said, "I didn't see the picture. I only saw Him."

The boy had caught not just the purpose of the picture but the essence of our faith in Jesus. The artist had done his work well!

What about you and me? We who call ourselves Christians are called upon to represent Christ in everything we say and do. The heart and centre of what Jesus taught us is how to live as His servants in our everyday lives.

If we do our work as well as the artist, people might say of us when we have passed on to glory: "I didn't see them. I only saw Him!"

Highlighting Alberta's youth

By Shaun Polczer
In Drayton Valley and across the rest of Canada, Nov. 19 to 25 will be National Drug Awareness Week.

The purpose of the week is to raise public interest and involvement in addressing the problems of alcohol, drug abuse, and related health issues.

In Alberta, Drug Awareness Week will be launched by AADAC, the Alberta Alcohol and Drug Abuse Commission, which will be hosting some special events across the province.

Locally, there will be a display at the Derrick Mall on Wednesday, Nov. 22 with free balloons.

On Thursday, Nov. 23, another display will be set up at the provincial building, and the public library will display a selection of books available at the local AADAC office.

This year's provincial theme, "It's Your Time, It's Your Turn: A Salute to Alberta Youth" is meant to highlight the positive activities of Alberta's young people.

Within native communities, the theme will be "Keep the Circle Strong."

Carol Robertson Baker, area supervisor at the Drayton Valley AADAC office says that, "National Drug Awareness Week will be an opportunity for parents, kids, and the community to learn more about substance use and abuse as well as to salute the neat kinds of activities our young people and those who have supported them have made to Drayton Valley."

National Drug Awareness Week was started in Nova Scotia in 1980, and spread through the rest of Canada by 1985.

National Health and Welfare Minister Perrin Beatty has endorsed the initiative and has supported it through the policies of the National Drug Strategy.

Tiny 'peeler' entertains crowd at bank lineup

Friday — errand-running day. The usual relaxing day of buying groceries, paying bills, dropping off bottles at the depot, mailing the late birthday parcel, picking up the two-inch screws for Fred at the hardware store.

Rachael, who was one-and-a-half years old, was being a little trouper. It was a little easier for me now that Derek was in school and I had only one toddler to carry along with me.

I went from place to place, standing in line, waiting my turn, bribing Rachael with enough teething crackers to stuff a small horse. By early afternoon I was almost done; all that was left was the bank.

The bank was crowded — payday — and the line was moving frustratingly slow. I unfastened her snowsuit a little. Of all the things to leave to the last when my patience was at its thinnest and Rachael was tired of being dragged about.

"Just a few more minutes," I assured her, then we'd go home and watch Sesame Street together. Just one more lineup to conquer.

When I finally did get to the teller, I was so absorbed with paying my bills and straightening out my bank statement, I didn't notice the little girl everyone was watching.

She was standing off to the side of the lineup and had decided it was too hot to keep her snowsuit on.

So, she sat on the floor and took off her boots...then her socks...then wiggled out of her snowsuit. Still uncomfortable she took off her little dress. She was oblivious to the people in the lineup who were watching her every move and smiling. They smiled because they knew her mother hadn't noticed yet what she was up to.

With intense concentration the little girl then struggled to tug off her undergarment. And last — to be unceremoniously dumped onto the bank floor was her diaper.

There she stood with not a stitch of clothing. Her tiny face held a look of delight at finally being free.

She then marched up to the front of the bank and stood patiently next to her mother, who was still engaged in serious discussion with the bank teller.

The air in the bank was filled with anticipation as the crowd waited to see the mother's reaction.

When would she notice? Would she yell? What would she do? Everyone was holding their breath.

Oh, look, she's turning... I turned and looked down at Rachael standing next to me and couldn't believe my eyes.

I didn't yell. I was speechless. I was so mortified I could hardly breathe, let alone say something more meaningful than: "Beam me up, Scotty!" Now please.

National Seniors' Safety Week

The safe, responsible use of prescribed medicines:

A few suggestions for the safe and responsible use of prescribed medicines:

Almost all prescription medicines can cause unwanted side-effects, or interact with other drugs, alcohol or food. Some can cause temporary drowsiness or can slow down your reaction time. Take particular care: when driving a car or operating dangerous machines, when you are taking more than one drug at the same time, and/or if you have allergies or are diabetic.

Check with your doctor or pharmacist. He can alert you to dangerous combinations with foods, alcohol or other drugs.

To avoid unwanted drug interactions, advise your physician if you are already taking other medication. If you visit more than one doctor, make sure each one knows all about the medicines you are taking.

Do not offer your prescription medicine to others, even if they appear to have the same symptoms. The cause may be very different. By the same token, never use someone else's medicine. Diagnosis and prescribing should always be left to doctors: it is the law.

When taking prescription medicines, tell your doctor if your symptoms continue, or if new symptoms or side-effects develop.

Tell your physician, dentist and pharmacist in advance of any allergies or previous reactions to medicines you may have had. They can minimize the chances of unexpected or unpleasant side-effects.

Complete your prescription therapy. It is never wise to stop taking your medicine as soon as the symptoms disappear, unless your physician approves. To prevent symptoms from returning, or a resistant infection from "rebounding", always take your medicine until it is finished.

Ask if you are not sure. If the instructions for taking your medicine are confusing, ask your pharmacist. Your pharmacist's primary function is to provide professional advice and service.

Take careful note of your pharmacist's directions for special storage conditions, or shaking before use to ensure that each dose retains the full potency required for the duration of your therapy.

Canadian author describes writing as lot of hard work, but fun

By Shaun Polczer

"Writing stories is a lot of hard work, but sometimes hard work is a lot of fun."

This is how Canadian author Peter Eyvindson described the task of writing books to students at Tomahawk school last Tuesday morning.

Eyvindson was visiting the school for the Alberta Young Readers Book Festival which is being held through the month of November.

The presentation at the Tomahawk school was organized through the Yellowhead Regional Library System.

Eyvindson read aloud to the students from two of his most recent picture books, Circus Beeskrus and Chester Bear, Where are You?, using colorful handmade props and an animated story-telling style that invited audience participation.

He also took the time to tell the students one of his own favorite stories, "The Little Engine that Could," using the same props and colorful style.

For Eyvindson, the telling of a story is as important as writing it up and writing it down, and he is hard pressed to say whether he is a story teller or a writer of stories.

"Actually," he confides, "I'm a bit of both."

He explains there is an art separate from writing to presenting a story that requires a special craft to create.

"The toys tell the story," he says, "I only write them," adding that all the props and puppets he uses are made for him by his mother.

Eyvindson began writing stories after becoming a teacher-librarian about nine years ago, making up stories to share with his three sons.

His books have been published for about five years.

He now describes himself as a full-time writer who spends about 100 days a year doing readings of his books such as the one Tuesday morning for children right across Canada.

He estimates he has spoken to around 40,000 schoolkids in the last year.

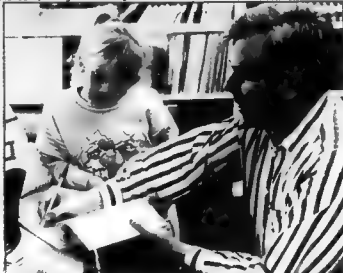

During the course of his presentation, Eyvindson asks how many children's parents read to them at night before they go to bed. A few respond positively, but the number is surprisingly small. The negatives drown them out.

"Everyone ask their parents to read to them out loud tonight, okay?" he says to them, "tell them it's a lot of fun."

Eyvindson's props/puppets are vital to story-telling.

Eyvindson autographs a young fan's book.

Candles pose danger

Consumer and Corporate Affairs Canada warns customers that candles designed for use in potpourri burners may pose a hazard in the home. These candles are known as 'tea candles' or 'tea lights.'

Following consumer complaints concerning this type of candle, a laboratory analysis by the department's product safety branch confirmed that the molten wax from such a candle can sometimes ignite, cracking the potpourri burner base and scorching the supporting surface. Heat generated by the burning wax, however, was not found to be sufficient to cause cotton fabric or paper to catch fire.

Consumers are advised to place potpourri burners on a heat-resistant surface, to keep an eye on them while they are in use and ensure the water in the simmering pot does not evaporate.

To further reduce the risk, purchase candles that have fine wicks with no loose ends at the bottom. When buying a potpourri burner, look for a large size model with big air holes for ventilation.

Argentia Beach grant

Environment Minister Ralph Klein has signed an agreement with the summer village of Argentia Beach to provide a grant of $15,718 for its water management project.

The project will provide flood relief to local roads and about 100 lakeshore properties.

The water management project is located on the north shore of Pigeon Lake, 20 kilometres south of Thorby.

Twin Rivers offers Breton 'patchwork'

By Susan Moseicki

"Things of an emergent nature will be looked at" in the Breton high school is the latest word from Twin Rivers school division superintendent Al Anderson.

"For the long-term, modernization was not approved by the government," Anderson said. Work will be done to improve safety, and emergency and maintenance work will be done as well, he added.

'I think there are schools in at least equal condition' — Anderson

He also said there will be electrical and mechanical assessment done at the school.

"The community has a complaint because I think the school requires work. I think they have valid concerns."

He added, however, "I think there are schools in at least equal condition."

Principal Jim Mussion referred to the work as "patchwork," but was happy the maintenance, etc. would be done without interfering with the possibility of modernization in the future. He said representatives from the department of education have already been in to look at the school.

Anderson didn't think Twin Rivers should take the blame for the condition of the school. "I think, if anything, they (Breton residents) should be upset with the county of Leduc."

Breton, however, jumped from top priority, ahead of Lindale, with the county of Leduc, to third priority below Lindale with Twin Rivers.

"That's a judgement call," Anderson said. "They (the board) felt in fairness the Lindale project should be done first."

Anderson said he "suspected" an application would be put in for modernization of the school in March and if approved, work would probably begin in the summer of 1991.

Definitely a chance Breton could end up below top priority again

One of the concerns of Breton residents is that overcrowding in Drayton Valley schools would push a new school in town ahead of the Breton high for modernization next year.

"Capacity is a problem (in Drayton Valley)," Anderson agreed. He said it was definitely a possibility Breton could end up not being top priority next year.

Unique air-study begins locally

By Paul Cudla

The long-awaited indoor air-quality survey has begun at two homes in Drayton Valley.

A state-of-the-art monitoring system is being used to measure 10 different indoor air parameters—noise, particulates, H₂S, SO₂, formaldehyde, CO₂, CO, NO₂, temperature and relative humidity.

Pam Moore, health inspector, who is working with Toxcon Consulting president Dr. Robert Rogers on the survey, said the indoor testing being done in Drayton Valley is unique.

"To my knowledge I don't know if this has ever been done before," Moore said.

Data for the survey is being collected in millivolts and will be converted by a data logger to parts per million.

Readings are taken every three minutes by the air-study equipment. Moore said the length of the survey is also quite unique as the survey is running from Nov. 10-24.

A report on the survey will most likely be available sometime in the new year.

State-of-the-art air monitoring equipment measures 10 different parameters.

Elk industry a 'tightly-controlled market'

By Susan Moseicki
Elk on the auction block brought game farmers scurrying to Moore's game farm last Saturday to spend thousands of dollars for the velvet antler-producing animals.

The elk brought an average of $3,200 for a yearling bull to $8,590 for bred cows.

The high price paid is a good investment, though, according to Alder Flats game farm owner Norm Moore. He said the elk produce good quality antlers once a year for a period of 10 to 12 years, and the price paid for the antlers runs about $1,000-$2,000, a much better return than beef cattle.

The antlers are used in two ways in the orient, both as an aphrodisiac, or folk-type medicine, and by pharmaceutical companies in prescriptions.

Canadian elk cannot be sold for venison in Alberta, Moore said. "We cannot kill the animals here."

Moore explained that very close records are kept on the elk. Game farmers are required to keep a daily log of births, deaths, sales and purchases and must submit it monthly to Fish and Wildlife.

He also said the elk must wear metal tags in each ear with a number similar to a serial number on a ear.

An elk up for auction at Moore's game farm.

"We have to keep very detailed records. It's good that it's that way. Farmers want it that way."

Without the control, he said, people could bring an animal from the wild into their herd.

There are many misconceptions about the elk on farms, Moore said. One of them is that they have a disease called blue tongue.

"There's never been an elk found with blue tongue in Canada. Just because they're tested for it doesn't mean they have it," Moore said. Cattle and sheep are tested for blue tongue also.

Another misconception is that anyone can just go and shoot an elk and collect the money for the antlers.

According to Moore, there is only a three- to five-day period once a year the antlers are in the velvet stage. Before sale, the antlers must also have a metal seal from Fish and Wildlife that can only be acquired by a licensed game farmer. "It's a tightly controlled market."

The antlers are removed while the animal is under sedation and while the area is frozen, much the same as while a dentist works on teeth. The animal is then given a tranquilizer for the tranquilizer and it gets up within seconds, Moore said by the time the freezing wears off, there is no indication of any pain whatsoever.

All of the game farm elk originated from orphans in the wild or elk that would otherwise have to be destroyed, and Moore said the elk farmers are not only helping the economy by bringing in foreign money, but are "more importantly, playing a role in conserving the species."

Study shows women earn less than men

By Susan Moseicki

A study released recently said women employed by banks earn 56 per cent of what their male co-workers earn and that banks are short-changing the women employees to increase profits.

The study of the Bank of Nova Scotia, Bank of Montreal, Royal Bank, Toronto-Dominion Bank, Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce and the Banque Nationale, released by the National Action Committee on the Status of Women, found that male employees earned an average of $39,984, while women earned only $22,368.

It also found that most women worked as clerks or tellers, and that very few were in upper-management positions.

Drayton Valley has only four of the banks that were included in the study. Of these, the Royal Bank and TD Bank managers and assistant managers are male, and the manager and assistant consumer credit manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia are male.

The only bank of the four that has women in management positions is the Bank of Montreal, with both a female manager and assistant manager, however the area manager is male.

The Treasury Branch, not included in the study, has a male manager and female assistant manager.

"There are large job ghettos that exist in banks," said president of the Canadian Centre for Policy Alternatives in Ottawa, Duncan Cameron.

"I think there are some basic injustices."

"The banks are making an awful lot of money by paying women 56 per cent of what men make. I think they basically have decided they have menial tasks for which women are suited," he said, adding they seem to believe senior management positions are for men.

"I think there are some basic injustices," Cameron said.

"Until recently, presidents of banks came right out of the wickets. Women could certainly be doing the jobs."

They are, according to Cameron, "highly skilled, highly intelligent, literate and articulate."

The Canadian Centre for Policy Alternatives is trying to improve working conditions for women, the disabled and other visible minorities.

Assistant manager of the TD Bank, Graham Sharp, defended the banks, and said his position was formerly held by a female.

He suggested that some women are not able to move because their husbands are the major wage earners in the family.

"Unless you're willing to bounce around-you're not going to move up very fast," Sharp said.

He said he has been in six different towns in two-and-a-half years.

"I'm living proof that not only do they hire women, but they've come a long way," said Nancy Burns, manager of public affairs at the Royal Bank in Calgary.

She classified her position as middle management. She stressed the Royal not only has a strong policy for hiring women, but also for promoting them to higher positions.

Opinions

Lack of volunteers: same old problem

The Drayton Valley ski (downhill) club has introduced a free coupon incentive that will hopefully bring volunteers out to their hill in droves.

"I hope to have people fighting to work at the hill," past president Dale Rendflesh said jokingly at the skiers' annual meeting.

Actually, if anyone shows up to cash in on the coupon idea, Rendflesh will likely be happy.

The lack of volunteers has long been a problem with the ski club.

It's a situation they've faced for many years. But they certainly felt it last year when the hill was open a record 61 days. Approximately 5,000 skiers used the hill last winter.

"We had a fabulous season. But we had the same old problem — a lack of volunteers," Rendflesh admitted in his annual report.

Volunteers are needed to work in the concession, sell lift tickets and memberships, work in the rental shop and operate the t-bar lift.

As easy as that sounds, the club has been 'round and 'round in trying to solve the problem.

The Drayton Valley ski club, like so many sports facilities, got where they are today thanks to volunteers and community-minded businessmen who contributed financially, with labor and materials.

The club has some ambitious plans. Like lights for the entire hill.

If you, or your family, want to continue skiing here, at a reasonable rate, set aside a couple of days during the winter to help the club out. Even if you're not a skier.

Clinic staff kept hopping

Wonder what percentage of injured and ailing?

There are a lot of things in life that we don't realize until we, a family member or a friend gets involved with.

How many times have you gone to the hospital? Likely, too many to remember.

I've always been shocked at the number of people sitting in the waiting room at a doctor's office. Or, the number of people waiting in line to have x-rays taken or a cast put on their arm or leg.

During the past year I've seen my fair share of the inside of the Drayton Valley physiotherapy clinic.

While taking treatments for a broken collarbone and most recently for headaches, I get totally blown away with the aches and pains people have.

Frankly Speaking

The staff at the clinic...Barb, Bert, Debbie and Pam are kept hopping taking care of head, neck, shoulder, back, hip, knees, ankles, feet, arms and hand injuries. And, there's likely some I've missed.

When I see some of the situations these gals have to deal with, I feel my headaches, that are so painful at times, are rather minor.

It certainly makes me wonder what the percentage is, of the injured and ailing in this country of ours. Have you ever wondered?

Town council has decided to do away with the Wednesday night meetings prior to council sessions.

But, they really haven't done anything. The mayor says that meeting will now be held the week prior to council meeting. Big deal.

Power of democracy does little for Breton high

Dear Editor,
Several days have passed since the provincial government announced that no modernization funds will be available for Breton high school. As the shock of the announcement wears off, we again begin to rally and make alternate plans.

I guess the first reaction I have is to actively campaign against the politicians, at all levels, who feel Breton high school can continually be ignored.

However, elections are far away, and people's memories are short. Some, in future elections, will remember the injustice handed to our school on a continuing basis since their first request for modernization six years ago, but many will again be fooled by various campaign promises or simply be too afraid to make a change in government.

So the power of democracy will do little for Breton high school and the current problems that exist.

For example: Most of the parking lot area should be roped off during the rainy season (April-November) because there are not enough tow trucks in town to service the large number of people continually getting stuck.

After picking your way through the mud you may reach the front door. Immediately inside you will see a sign requesting "all visitors please report to the general office."

Visitors would be wise to dress accordingly before beginning their tour of the school. I would suggest the following dress code:

Hard hats (the tile is falling off some of the ceilings and many of the light fixtures do not have safety covers).

Clean, waterproof footwear, with good treads (the roof leaks in several places and sometimes the runoff from the roof backs up into the water fountains and overflows, making for a rather 'slippery' situation).

Carry a warm sweater that is easy to get in and out of (the temperature in the school fluctuates so much from room to room that it's impossible to 'dress for the occasion').

If you are planning to visit the general purpose room (generally used as a classroom), a windbreaker and scarf may be the best form of dress. There is a crack in the wall in the southeast corner of that room through which you can see daylight.

The junior high end of the school is sinking southward and downward so badly, one must be forever conscious of keeping one's balance. One should always be alert for the sound of approaching 'runaway' A.V. carts.

Good peripheral vision is a must. Support poles are forever 'getting in one's way' in the grades 7, 8 and special education classrooms. And the list goes on...

Of course the visitor will not just notice the decay and obvious signs of neglect that encompass the shell of the Breton high school. For inside, breathing and living and exelling is the very 'soul' of Breton high school — its students and staff.

But not unlike a neglected child, the signs of this neglect are beginning to come to the surface of the 'soul' of the school. Students and staff travel to other schools in the provinces — they have an opportunity to compare their school with many others. They see how much they don't have.

My children (three) attend the Breton schools. My children deserve to attend a school with a safe and modern environment. The people of Breton have waited long enough for modernization. It is time for something to hit the fan!

Joe answers: he's listening

Dear Editor,
Shaun Polczer asked me if I was listening when he wrote in his Oct. 18 column: "If the western MPs were being totally honest, they would be telling you this GST will be bad for our economy, and your pocketbook."

Let me ask this question: Would this government risk its future by implementing a tax that is both bad for our economy and imposes an unfair tax burden on those who can least afford it? I hardly think so.

On the contrary, it is the 13.5 per cent existing federal sales tax (MST) which is bad for the economy. It is estimated the MST costs the country $9 billion every year in lost economic activity and jobs.

Game plan as follows:

When the proposed GST comes into effect Jan. 1, 1991, over nine million lower- and modest-income Canadians will receive regular cheques four times a year from the government. They will be better off. This is hurting the pocketbook?

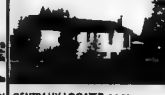

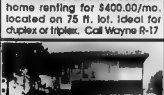

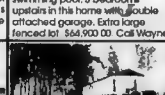

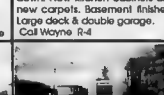

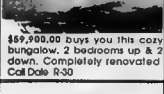

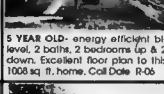

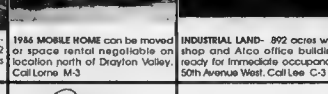

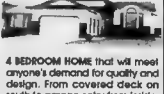

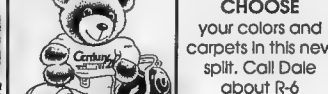

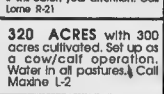

Mr. Polczer states: "It is claimed the proceeds generated from the tax will go directly into deficit reduction. Do not believe this for a minute!"

The game plan is as follows: The GST will generate about $9 billion in economic activity translating into 60,000 new jobs in the first year. As more jobs are created and the tax base expands, the revenue generated by new taxpayers will be used directly to help

Campaign successful

Dear Editor,
We wish to report another successful Halloween UNICEF campaign.

Thank you to the children who carried the orange and black boxes on such a cool evening, to the residents of Drayton Valley who so generously "shelled out," to Drayton Valley Vending for your assistance in penny wrapping, to H.W. Pickup school for the use of your coin sorter, and to the administration, cooperating teachers and office staff of St. Anthony, Eldorado and Evergreen schools. Your friendly cooperation was most beneficial to the success of the campaign.

We are pleased to report a total of $2,264.52 — an outstanding achievement, indeed.

THANK YOU everyone. You truly have shown your concern for UNICEF's children.

Stiffer deterrent for illegal hunting

Dear Editor,

Throughout November people in orange jackets are allowed to drive up and down the country roads with rifles ready to open fire on that elusive deer, elk or moose — even if the animal is grazing on land near a residence or on property that is posted indicating there is to be no hunting.

Five times since hunting opened this month I have had to jump into my vehicle, race down the road and shout invectives at some guy that he is not allowed to shoot a rifle from the road allowance onto my property!

These laws are clearly indicated and are just as clearly ignored. Imagine how you would feel challenging some stranger carrying a rifle who is firing in the direction of your house. Why hunting is allowed in populated areas is beyond my mental capacity to rationalize. Obviously the penalties are not enough of a deterrent or the hunter would not challenge the rules or the property owner's rights.

If the penalties involved are too trivial to cause the hunter any distress, why can't the landowner sue him for further damages?

cut the deficit. Ultimately, we will end up with more money for things like health care and the environment. Maybe even lower taxes.

Mr. Polczar states: "In reality, over a billion dollars will have to be committed to pay for new collection and administrative efforts in a mega-hiring boom of bureaucrats."

In reality, the GST will raise about $6 billion more than the existing tax it replaces. It will cost Ottawa about $200 million to run the GST, and after that expense, all money collected will be returned to the taxpayers and eventually used to reduce the deficit.

Mr. Polczar states the GST will result in a "huge black, untaxed market."

The GST is designed precisely to avoid this problem. It is a multi-staged sales tax — a common tax structure used in 48 countries around the world, including a majority of the most highly industrialized economies in the world. The tax is collected at each stage in the production-marketing chain which will ensure the new system is not prone to evasion.

Mr. Polczar states: "The best way to cut deficits is to cut spending, something the Mulroney Tories seem unwilling to do."

The government spent $17.5 billion on government operations in 1984-85 and this year, in spite of inflation, it is actually down to $16.2 billion. And the Public Service has been cut by 12,000, down to the size it was in 1973.

Yes, Mr. Polczar, I am listening.

Youths get mixed messages

By Paul Cudla

Father samaritan sits his pride and joy down, lights a cigarette, takes a sip from his beer, and gives his son his prepared anti-drug lecture.

The inevitable clinching line: "Just say no, son." Just say no to illegal drugs. Say no to heroin, cocaine, and pot.

This is a select analogy of the hypocritical attitude displayed towards drugs in our society.

Drugs can be an easy scapegoat in our suddenly anti-drug crusading society. Society singles out the illegal drugs and preaches their evils.

"Only dopes do dope."

The slogans roll off the tongue with ease. Catchy. Persuasive. Hard-hitting. A TV ad flashes visions across the screen. 'Perfect' women and 'perfect' men flash 'perfect' smiles in a perfect scenario while drinking the 'perfect' alcoholic beverage. The not-so subliminal message is that drinking equals fun.

Morton Downey Jr., the ex-talk show host, gets on the air and gives his lesson on how drugs ruin lives. A group of ex-addicts individually tell their drug horror stories as Downey calls drug-abusers 'losers' and 'idiots.'

The dramatic irony comes in the form of Downey's persistent chain-smoking throughout his anti-drug sermoning.

Comment

Got a headache? Take a pill.

A little tired? Drink some coffee.

But never, ever, touch illegal drugs. They're bad, and they kill.

Kids are impressionable and serving confusing messages only clutters their ability to make logical choices on their lifestyle.

It's easy to single out illegal drugs as perilous because they are illegal and their effects are easier to monitor.

Effects which are harsh and cruel when a person allows him/herself to become addicted to an illegal drug.

But we're ignoring the obvious — our society is basically drug dependant.

Caffeine, nicotine, alcohol, cocaine, heroin, valium, amphetamines, diet pills; take your pick, the bottom line is they are all drugs. Legal or not, they carry varying levels of addictive qualities.

Most people seem to have some sort of crutch, the difference is some allow it to become a total extension of themselves and live their lives through the drugs.

So does our society practice what it preaches? Hardly.

"Just say no, son. Just say no."

School concerns addressed

The parents' committee of the Catholic School System presented the school board with four concerns about the St. Anthony school.

Ray Duperron appeared at the board meeting Nov. 16 on behalf of the parents' committee and presented the board with these four concerns:

- The absence of a school counsellor.
- No existing music teacher at St. Anthony.
- Lack of parking facilities on the school grounds and a request for parking lot expansion.
- No fence around the front perimeter of the school.

The board answered the first concern by informing Duperron a part-time volunteer school counsellor, was going to be made available in the new year.

The St. Anthony school has been void of a music teacher since the board previous to the existing trustees, decided to emphasize a French program and cut the music instructor's position.

Board chairperson Joan Anderson said she would like to answer the parking lot concern via a letter including a cost-analysis.

Pleads guilty to impaired

Lyle Muir, 27, of Drayton Valley, was fined $1,500 and prohibited from driving for 12 months in provincial court last week.

In default of the fine, Muir will receive three months in a provincial correction centre.

Muir pleaded guilty to driving while his blood alcohol level exceed .08 (80 milligrams of alcohol per 100 millilitres of blood).

Campaign outstanding success

Drayton Valley's Canadian Cancer Society campaign coordinator Val Cameron is ecstatic over the overwhelming success of the 1989 campaign.

"We came in eighth place in our drive, out of 102 towns in Alberta," she said.

The campaign raised $6,441.18 in Drayton Valley, and a total of $1,042,647.93.

According to Cameron, this is the first time the campaign has ever reached over the one-million mark.

She said the 1989 campaign was the first in three years locally.

Cameron said she coordinated the campaign because "cancer took my dad a little over a year ago. They (the society) gave my dad so much." She felt she had to give something back.

But, "I didn't do this," she said, "Drayton Valley did this."

"I just wanted to thank Drayton Valley and let them know that I appreciated their open hearts and open pocketbooks."

Christmas toys are not simply child's play

By Susan Mosicki
Overheard in a local store:
"I want a Slinky. Everyone wants a Slinky. Mom, TV said so."

With convincing advertising, cute jingles, and the old "everyone wants one" line, children are led down the garden path, so to speak, and believe they can't do without the latest toy fad.

It is the parents' responsibility to ensure the toys they buy are safe and suitable for their child.

Some of the most popular toys this year are Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles, Nintendo, Precious Places, Micromachines, McDonald's restaurants, Batman and Ghostbuster toys, and remote-control cars.

Popular games include Batman, Shark Attack, and Tri-umph.

Turtles Playmates (under $5) received a three-star rating (highest rating for excellence in design, function, durability and play value) in the 1990 Toy Report and Turtles Cheapekate ($10-$15) received two stars (very good play value, but minor problems related to design, function or durability).

Turtles Blimp ($20-$30) and Turtles Retromutagen Ooze (under $5), however, were not recommended. The runny, slimy ooze is reportedly difficult to manipulate and a nightmare to clean up. The report also says half of the samples they tested went mouldy.

Precious Places figure sets ($3-$10) and Precious Places buildings ($20-$40) were not recommended because figures were in set poses and it was extremely difficult to maneuver them around the cramped structures. The report said it didn't invite imaginative play.

Micromachines rated extremely well overall. The miniatures ($5-$10), the Big Rig Hauler ($10-$15), and the Sun Color Changers ($5-$10) all received three stars.

The Micromachines Aircraft ($20-$25) Carrier Action Playset, however, was not recommended and the Travel City ($5-$10) rated only one star (may indicate good play value but serious flaws in other of the rating criteria or a gold general assessment coupled with only limited or very narrow play value).

Ghostbusters, for the most part, received top ratings. Three stars went to the figures ($5-$10), Ecto-plazm (under $5), Fire House

Headquarters ($50-$70), Ghostpopper (20-$30), and Ghostzapper ($20-$40).

The Proton Pack ($30-$40) and Ecto-2 Vehicle ($15-$20) received two stars, and Ghostbusters Fearsome Flush ($10-$15) got a Novelty rating, although the report said some adults find it tasteless.

No ratings were available for Nintendo, McDonald's restaurants, or Batman toys.

The only game with available ratings was Shark Attack ($20-$30). It was given a Novelty rating, but the report said some youngsters are agitated by the idea of having a shark eat their fish-shaped pawns.

Taking time to check out the toys before buying is the hardest part. The rest is just...child's play.

Man pleads guilty

A 41-year-old local man was sentenced to 30 days in jail after pleading guilty to driving over .08 in provincial court last week.

George Raymond Lilloco also received a 12-month driving prohibition.

Girls like challenge of hockey

By Paul Cudla

Hockey coach Leonard Cartwright probably doesn't mind it when a loudmouth fan screams 'your team skates like a bunch of girls', because that fan would be right.

They are a bunch of girls.

Cartwright coaches the Drayton Valley Lariettes, a group of 12 female hockey players ranging in ages from 12 to 18.

"I coached boys hockey before and the girls seem to have more time to listen. It's something new to them and it's out of spite that they want to learn the game to show the boys they can play too," Cartwright said.

The Lariettes began four years ago when minor hockey president Marty McKinley saw the need for a girls' hockey team. Cartwright has been coaching the team all four years.

"They've come a long way since they started. We were getting beat 15-0 at the start," Cartwright said.

Currently the team has a record of two wins, one tie, and two losses and is looking to win its division — Whitecourt, Mayerthorpe, Barrhead and Drayton Valley make up the four-team girls' league.

"Winning isn't too far out of line. We have the potential," Cartwright said.

But as the sports cliché goes, 'winning isn't everything.'

"I like them to have fun and enjoy the game."

Goalie Maureen Bannard, 18, has been with the team all four years and enjoys the speed of the game.

"It's fast-paced and it's more competitive," Bannard said.

"My brother was playing and it looked like fun so I thought I'd try."

Assistant coach Bob Brown began helping out with the Lariettes when his daughter Angela took up the game this year.

"My daughter is in there and she is interested in hockey and wants to learn and that's good," Brown said. Stephanie Cartwright, 15, has been playing on the Lariettes all four years and likes the competitiveness and challenge of hockey.

"I've always wanted to play. I wanted to prove that girls could play hockey too," Cartwright said.

Girls' hockey has been a relative unknown in Drayton Valley since its inception, but is starting to establish itself because it is something different.

If you want to check out something a little unique in sports, check out the girls' hockey tournament which will be hosted by Drayton Valley Dec. 2.

Pony tails and pucks — girls' hockey is different.

Oil Caps, Red Deer provide entertaining game

By Susan Moscicki

Fans clutched their seats until the bitter end of the high-spirited, high-scoring Oil Caps versus Red Deer Terroco Knights game last Saturday.

Although the final score was 9-7 in favor of Red Deer, the goals yo-yo'd in the second and third periods, holding the fans' attention throughout the game.

The Oil Caps scored the first two goals and played good defensive and offensive hockey in the first 10 minutes of the game, but then resorted to rubber legs and came out of the first period down two.

Both teams played a solid game in the second period. Red Deer scored twice and Drayton Valley one.

Oil Cap Dylan Putzenburger received a five-minute major for charging after checking Red Deer's Troy Tisdale so hard he required a number of stitches on his forehead.

"It was a clean check," said head coach Grant MacDonald. "But it was probably one of the hardest checks I've ever seen."

Red Deer was leading 6-3 at the start of the third period but to the delight of cheering fans, the Oil Caps scored the next two goals to leave only a one-point spread.

With only eight minutes remaining, Oil Caps' Sheldon

Red Deer's Troy Tisdale (on the ice) needed several stitches after being solidly checked by Dylan Putzenburger.

Sullivan and a Red Deer player were each given a game misconduct after dropping their gloves and fighting.

Goals flip-flopped in the last eight minutes; Red Deer getting three goals and Drayton Valley netting two. "I'm still optimistic we can be the best team in the league," said MacDonald.

"Red Deer is the best team in the league and we played them in the last three games. We scored lots but there were defense lapses."

He said Oil Caps goalie Norm Mallo played a good game. "Even though they got nine goals, I thought he still stopped a lot of chances."

"We have to play better as a team." He said the players need more practice time together, especially with the addition of three new players.

"Our power play needs work," he added, "and there were a couple of retaliation penalties that I didn't like."

But overall, according to MacDonald, it was "an entertaining game."

Duperron named 'coach of the year' by Alberta boxing

By Paul Cudla

Lawrence Duperron has been bestowed with one of the highest honors a coach can receive when he was named 'coach of the year' by the Alberta Amateur Boxing Association (AABA).

Duperron was one of two coaches in Alberta honored by the AABA, and he received his medal at the Bronze Gloves tournament Nov. 11.

Hines relegated to a fan

Clayton Hines would rather be riding a bronc than watching the Canadian Finals Rodeo (CFR) from the grandstand.

But, due to an off-year, the Drayton Valley area saddle bronc rider, was relegated to the role of a spectator.

After attending 138 rodeos two years ago and leading the Canadian standings from the start of the long rodeo season to the end, Hines failed to make the top 10 this past season.

He admits it was just an off year.

"I wasn't riding very well," he says.

Because of that he missed the entire month of June, one that features three and four of the top rodeos of the year, every weekend.

He plans to try the circuit one more time, and if that doesn't pan out, the 31-year-old former Canadian saddle bronc champion has hinted at retiring.

"I'll try it once more. The better I do, the more I will go to," he said last week.

His first test of the 1990 season will be in Regina at the end of the month.

In other rodeo news, Hines says he is pleased the CFR will be staying in Edmonton.

"I'm glad to see that. I had a hunch last year Edmonton would out-bid Calgary for the rodeo," Hines says.

Under terms of the new deal Edmonton Northlands guaranteed $1.125 million

"It's quite an honor," Duperron said, "I never quit working with kids."

The Derrick Boxing Club began eight years ago under the direction of head coach Duperron and has been a staple in the community ever since.

"For a small town like Drayton Valley I think we've brought home a lot of medals. There's been some top-notch boxers out of here."

In appreciation:
Coach
Lawrence Duperron

"I think Drayton Valley has to be nothing but proud of the boys who have represented the town," Duperron said.

Duperron has been coaching boxing for a total of 31 years which is a long time in any sport.

"You have to love a sport in your lifetime and I chose boxing."

The last word always is.....
RAIDERS ARE #1
Tough luck Rob
I got the last laugh
(nice shirt, eh?)

Logging camps in northern Alberta provided a young Duperron with his first taste of boxing as he learned the sport from two camp-trainers. But it was Duperron's family life which gave him his first real taste of fighting.

"A lot of people ask me where I learned to box and I say 'at the dinner table'." Duperron joked, alluding to the fact he came from a family of 18 children, "I had to fight for my supper."

Duperron, who was born in Plamondon, AB, said he "foiled around with boxing a lot" as he tested his wares in the ring at logging camps.

But now he is dedicated to shaping young boxers — not only as good fighters, but as good citizens.

"To me, boxing teaches kids discipline, self-respect, and they learn to meet people."

Go-kart club wraps-up season

The Warburg go-kart club wrapped up one of its most progressive seasons with an Alberta Kart Association dinner Nov. 4 in Edmonton.

"With the Grand Nationals in August, it was a very successful year and we're looking forward to next year," Lane Dunham, president of the Warburg club, said.

Warburg hosted karters from all across North America in the two- and four-cycle championship races in late August.

Dunham, of Drayton Valley, was named Alberta kart driver of the year in the senior four-cycle class. Another Drayton Valley resident, Allen Lainchbury, placed second in the same class.

The series was decided on the basis of overall point totals from four out of six races. The Warburg club gave out trophies of its own and Dunham and Lainchbury were the recipients of four-cycle awards.

Lainchbury won stock light four-cycle driver of the year and sportsman of the year while Dunham took stock medium four-cycle driver of the year.

Eleven new members joined the Warburg club this year bringing membership over 40. "We would like to get some more members from Drayton Valley," Dunham said, adding that two more locals joined the club this year.

Beat winter blues at sport camp

A sure-fire way to beat the winter blues is to attend a Sport Outreach Camp and become more skilled in a challenging sport.

If the sports of alpine and cross-country skiing, badminton, biathlon and netball interest you, then take a look at Sport Outreach Camps (SOC). Generally, they are for those who are 13 to 17 years of age.

The camps are run by the Alberta Sport Council in cooperation with provincial sport associations, schools and municipalities.

The camps are being held in December, January and March. Each one is a weekend long and has about seven hours of instruction each day.

To enroll, some prior experience in the sport is recommended, but the only prerequisite is a willingness to improve.

Every camp includes instruction, as well as food and accommodation. If sufficient financial need is demonstrated by a registrant, then a scholarship is available through the Alberta Sport Council to help reduce camp costs.

Alpine skiing will be held in Jasper from Dec. 27 to 29. Registration deadline is Dec. 8 and Barry Wood (469-1244) is the contact.

There are two camps for badminton, in Calgary and Grande Prairie, both Dec. 27 to 30. Contact Dave Poigabee (453-8536) by-the deadline date of Nov. 30.

Biathlon camp is from Jan. 2 to 6 at Hinton's Blue Lake Centre. Registration deadline is Dec. 8 and the contact is Veli Niinimäki (297-2503).

Cross-country skiing camp is being held in Canmore Dec. 27-30, with the registration deadline Dec. 15.

Outfitter policy announced

The implementation of the Outfitter-Guide Policy has been announced. The policy is the result of recommendations made by the Outfitter-Guide Task Force and the department of Forestry, Lands and Wildlife.

The first priority of the policy is the protection of the wildlife resource such that viable populations are maintained in perpetuity for the benefit of all Albertans.

The prime consideration of the government is to recognize the interests of resident hunters who normally do not use outfitter-guides. Non-resident hunting shall not exceed 10 per cent of the total allowable harvest, and may be less in certain areas depending on use.

Non-resident hunting is allowed to provide economic opportunities to Albertans, and thus the outfitter-guiding industry will be treated as a business.

It was the team from J&A edging Mohawk 5-4 in novice play on Nov. 14.

Scoring for J&A were: Steven Yurchak, Travis

Goals Lesser (Mohawk) and Fox (J&A) reportedly were stellar in goal for both teams.

Wardin Well winners

In the game Nov. 18, Dallas Kuzek led Wardin Well with the hat-trick. Nicholas Johnson backstopped Wardin Well to their victory.

Gym club waiting patiently for 'plex

By Colleen Bryant
The Drayton Valley Gymnastics Club is still waiting for the first stage of the sport complex to be completed before they can run classes.

Classes had initially been scheduled to commence Nov. 7, but due to construction delays, we have been forced to postpone classes again until the new year. It was very unfortunate that we weren't able to continue classes in our facility behind the H.W. Pickup, but due to an increasing number of junior high students, the school needed the extra space for classrooms. We had checked into finding another temporary facility, but as everyone knows, recreational space in Drayton Valley is very limited.

No one was able to accommodate our hours, even though they had been cut back to three nights per week instead of four. Did you know the gymnastics club holds the highest registrant level in town besides the hockey club? We are even bigger than the skating club with our seasonal 115-140 students.

Because of delays though, it seems the club has lost about 30-40 students from past registration years. We hope to see a renewed and continuous interest in the club, as we expect to run classes year-round (including summer), after we have settled into our new facility.

We also hope to see good parent involvement attitudes continue as they did at registration night in September when four executive positions were filled the same evening. We are still looking for someone to fill the vice-president position, and we will now be looking for two or more adult coaches (as two will be leaving us) and two or more junior coaches between the ages of 13-17 who may be interested in a fun part-time job.

We are also proposing to hold Saturday morning classes for preschool and red students. If you think this is a good, or not so good idea, we would appreciate your input to Jackie at 542-2535.

In the meantime we are all waiting patiently for the sports complex to be completed so that we can get reorganized and back into the 'spring' of things.

Feminine sport gaining in popularity

Lisa Dunlop's rhythmic gymnastics class at H.W. Pickup school

By Shaun Polczer
Rhythmic gymnastics is a new feminine sport in Canada that is rapidly gaining popularity with spectators and participants alike.

The same is true for Drayton Valley, where it is currently being taught at the H.W. Pickup junior high school as a physical education option.

It differs from competitive, or traditional gymnastics, in that it incorporates such objects as ropes, hoops, balls, and ribbons in routines set to a backdrop of modern music with a heavy beat.

It is basically a cross between gymnastics and ballet.

Lisa Dunlop, who teaches the sport at the school, says she gets frustrated when people call it dancing.

"This is not dancing," she says emphatically, "it's a sport."

Each province holds a gymnestrada every year to send representatives for a national competition.

"I'm not their teacher; I am their coach."

Dunlop coached a private club when she was living in Calgary and managed to have two members make it to the national competition.

She decided to teach it for her option slot when she came to the school this year.

"I'm not their teacher; I tell them I am their coach," she says and admits it is more of a fun thing for her to be teaching.

There is a curriculum guide that was set out for a rhythmic gymnastics program by the department of education, and even though it was never adopted, it is the one she uses to plot the course.

There are two types of participation in the sport, says Dunlop.

The first is competitive in nature, which is usually more of an individual effort, and there is recreational, which involves more group participation.

She is teaching the recreational style now.

Dunlop feels rhythmic gymnastics is beneficial to students in many ways.

It promotes flexibility, group work, and physical endurance.

As for the students enrolled in the course, they don't know it is good for them, only that it is fun.

Ice safety should be a priority says Park Valley Pool experts

Can't wait to lace up those skates and head out on to the neighborhood pond? Does the creek look as though it's begging you to come skate on it?

Before you do, make sure you check the ice to see that it's thick enough to hold your weight.

According to the Canadian Red Cross Society, ice must be at least 10 cm (four inches) thick before it can hold your weight. And remember, just because it is thick enough where you check it, ice is thinner where there are undercurrents and it's weaker where there are pressure ridges and air holes. This means any creek, pond, dugout, etc. can mean trouble.

The best rule of ice safety is: If you don't know — stay off!

If you're thinking about snowmobiling this winter, take the time to check the ice thickness. It should be 20 cm (eight inches) thick.

If someone falls in the ice (this includes you!), it is important to get him/her out immediately. The longer the person is in the ice-cold water, the shorter their chances are of surviving. If they are in too long, they could die from exposure.

Also, if you don't act quickly enough, numbness can set in and the person won't be able to hang on. When that happens, it's game over.

If you see someone fall through the ice, keep your distance at first. The ice may not be thick enough to hold you up, either. But you must act quickly.

Tell the person to grab as far up onto the ice edge as they can and kick their feet as if swimming. Use something to help pull the person to safety — hockey stick, branch, scarf, jacket, etc. Lie down on the ice and crawl towards the hole. Extend whatever you have brought with you to the person in the water. Have them grab it and kick their feet while you pull the victim to safety. Remember, don't stand up until you are both on solid ground.

If there are more people present, join together to form a human chain in order to pull the person out of the water.

Give immediate attention to hypothermia victims.

Hypothermia is the lowering of deep body core temperature (loss of body heat) which in turn depresses normal body functions.

In cold water the body is cooled very rapidly. If the water temperature is 0 degrees C (32 F), death from hypothermia is highly probable before two hours have passed.

Immediate attention given to hypothermic victims cannot be stressed enough.

For more information on ice safety or hypothermia visit or call Park Valley Pool. The pool will have a display all about ice safety set up in lobby in early December — watch for it!

Uniform president predicts vast change in agriculture

The face of agriculture as we know it today will change completely in the 1990s predicts Uniform president Ralph Jespersen.

Farmers themselves can decide whether the period represents a decade of renewal or 10 years of upheaval and uncertainty, he says.

The head of Alberta's general farm organization says he bases his prediction partly on target dates indicated in discussions on the general agreement on tariffs and trade. Other indicators of major change can be found in growing concerns over environmental issues and increased activity by animal rights groups.

According to Jespersen producers have no choice but to speak up, to get involved in the organizations set up to act as spokesmen. Failure to do so will result in sweeping changes made from a narrow, often uninformed, perspective.

Producers want freer, fair trade arrangements, he says, but they can't be blamed for becoming somewhat alarmed at what's happening on the international scene.

He cited trade bullying by U.S. interests on items such as ice cream and yogurt and Canadian port exports to the U.S.

The U.S. has objected to import restrictions on ice cream and yogurt while their own borders are closed to such products. (In the meantime the U.S. has won a GATT ruling that, if accepted, would force dismantling of those barriers.)

U.S. countervail action against exports of Canadian pork and pork exports is another example of the trading giant's bullying, Jespersen says. The U.S. cites subsidization of Canadian producers as the reason for the countervail, even though they themselves cannot honestly claim to be free of subsidization.

Further afield, the European Economic Community has made it clear it doesn't intend to dismantle massive subsidy programs. At the same time, both the EEC and the U.S. are busy identifying Canadian programs as being unfair subsidization.

Unfortunately, Canada appears to be cowering and admitting guilt, Canadian negotiators need to be told to stop volunteering to bring in the heavy equipment and to level the playing field by themselves, under EEC and U.S. directions, says the Uniform president.

Dance not over for ballerina

By Susan Moeckel

After much persuasion and many trips to Mexico, a local boy managed to talk his Mexican sweetheart into marrying him and returning to Drayton Valley with him.

As a result, young dancers will have the opportunity to learn ballet from a real professional, Yolanda Ledinski.

Her love of dance started very young and she did gymnastics and modern dance, but she didn't decide to channel her energy into ballet until age 12.

At 17 she auditioned for a company of dancers aged 12-15 and was accepted until she told them her age. She begged to be allowed to dance and because she looked younger than she was, they allowed her to.

Within one year she became a professional ballerina.

She has danced as soloist or pas de deux in several shows including Don Quixote, Sleeping Beauty, Romeo and Juliet, the Nutcracker and many others.

"Ballet is an art and I think it is very, very important," Ledinski says, "I always want to know what is happening and what is new."

She hasn't been able to dance professionally in Canada yet because she's still trying to get her immigration papers in order, and she is unsure whether she will dance professionally at all because of the time

AGT project now past half-way mark

Two Tomahawk residents were recently presented with a telephone answering machine at a mid-point event for individual line service (ILS) conversion by AGT.

Val and Jane Enjenski were selected to represent the more than 50,000 rural Albertans who have already received the service. The conversion is now past the half-way point.

involved. She believes it may take a lot of time away from her husband, Kevin.

The dance is not over for 25-year-old Ledinski yet, though. She intends to teach again.

For five years, in Mexico, she taught in her own school. "I miss my school and I miss my children."

Starting a class for children here will enable her to live the life she loves...that of a dedicated ballerina.

Yolanda Ledinski intends to teach ballet again.

Local groups get funds

Two Drayton Valley groups have received funding from the Alberta Sport Council.

The Braseau ski team will receive $4,000 to assist with the purchase of a timing system, two-way radios and a computer computation system.

And the Royal Canadian Air Cadet Squadron 733 has been awarded $4,000 to assist with the purchase of biathlon rifles, rifle slings and biathlon harnesses.

The two grants are part of $29,400 awarded to 11 amateur groups in Zone 5.

The money represents funding to applications from the 1989 third quarter of the local sport development projects grant.

Zone 5 is bounded by Athabasca in the north, in the south by Ledou/Drayton Valley, the west by Jasper and Sherwood Park in the east.

The Alberta Sport Council receives thousands of requests a year for financial assistance. Money for approved projects comes from the provincial government, Alberta lotteries and private enterprises.

The application deadline for funding under the 1989 fourth quarter is Jan. 1.

For more information regarding the council's sport development projects program, contact the Zone 5 council office at 963-9158.

Consortium officially opens today

The grand opening of the Pembina Educational Consortium's new facility will be officially held today (Tuesday).

Advanced Education Minister John Gogo, will attend the 5 p.m. ceremony in the old town office (5149-51 Ave) building.

The consortium moved into its new quarters at the end of August.

And already, executive director Joe MacLellan says they may not have enough room if their programs continue to grow by leaps and bounds.

So far this term, registrations at the consortiums located in Rocky Mountain House, Whitecourt and Drayton Valley are 12 per cent ahead of last year's record enrollment.

Mayer Tom McGee, MLA Tom Thurber and members of the consortium board of directors are also expected to attend the opening.

MacLellan is extremely pleased with the consortium's growth.

"It just shows there is a need for effective and efficient education. I'm encouraged at the response in the region," MacLellan says.

The consortium is heading into its fifth year at Whitecourt and second at Rocky Mountain House.

And, although money is always hard to find for programs, MacLellan has been handed another problem. He's been asked to follow up interest for programs in Fox Creek and Westlock.

Vision for the future

The family farm business will need improved financial and management skills in order to meet the challenges facing Canadian agriculture in the next decade and beyond.

This is one of the key issues outlined in a discussion paper released recently by federal Agriculture Minister Don Mazankowski entitled 'Growing Together - A Vision for Canada's Agri-food Industry'.

It maps a course for the future and calls for a renewed working partnership between government and the agri-food industry.

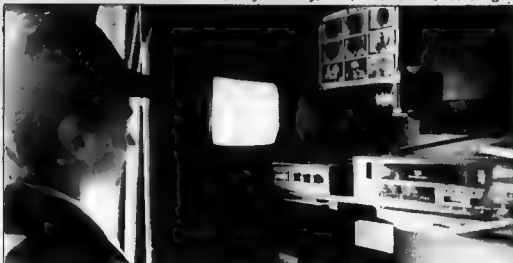

Young people still farming

"The family farm remains the primary unit of production," said Mazankowski. "Young people are still taking up farming in relatively large numbers. The strength and adaptability of farm men and women will be major assets in ensuring the farm sector continues to evolve in the face of future change."

For any business, the bottom line is the difference between success and failure. The ability of farmers to improve their net income, either through lower costs or higher revenue is key to their becoming more cost-competitive.

Growing Together is a vision for the future which builds on the four pillars of market responsiveness, self-reliance, regional diversity and environmental sustainability. It calls on all agri-food industry players to develop access to better information and technology and better financial management skills in order to achieve a higher standard of living.

Farm leaders, food industry executives, agriculture ministers and other interested parties will begin consultations on the paper at a national agri-food policy conference Dec. 11 and 12 at the Ottawa Congress Centre.

Must now pre-register Bikes, fishing gear stolen from home

Adults wishing to write Grade 12 diploma exams for credits, who are not enrolled in highschool classes, will now have to pre-register to do so for the first time.

In a policy change made by the department of education, any wishing to write the upcoming departmental exams in January will now have to pre-register by Dec. 1.

Frank Maddock principal at Day said that in past years, people could walk into the school on exam day and write departmental exams for credit.

The mark received on the test would constitute 100 per cent of the course mark.

He also said it was a good way for those lacking credits in specific areas to make them up, and that locals had taken advantage of the opportunity in the past.

Although the new policy might make it more difficult for those in outlying areas to meet the deadline on time, says Day, it has its advantages as well.

He said it will now be easier for the school to help these people prepare for the exams by providing learning materials, and copies of past test papers to study.

Anyone wishing to write the departmental exams for this current semester must go to the school and fill out a registration form, which is available at the FMHS front office.

Sometime between April 30 and Oct. 9, culprit(s) entered a residence eight miles north and one mile west of Drayton Valley and stole the following property:

One 18-inch Homelite chainsaw, value $575; one CCM men's 10-speed bicycle; one lady's Vagabond 1200 mountain bike, green and black; four fishing rods with reels.

Drayton Valley RCMP are investigating this theft. The total value of the property stolen is about $1,500.

SERVICES FOR CHILDREN

Family Day Homes

Services for children has become increasingly busy in Drayton Valley, necessitating the appointment of a staff person to be responsible for our entire program in this region.

We cannot thank Rita Lindberg enough for all of her help in establishing approved Family Day Homes in Drayton Valley. Her hard work, impeccable reputation and commitment to a high standard of care for little children are totally responsible for our success in this community.

Rita would like to take this opportunity to thank the providers, parents and children for being so great. "Loving Touch Family Day Home" is taking up more of her time and she is unable to continue with us.

Beginning Nov. 20, 1989, Toni Lachance will be taking over the responsibilities for services for children. Toni has a diploma in Early Childhood Development and has been with the Drayton Valley Playchool for the past six years. She continues to be involved in community projects in Drayton Valley. We welcome Toni's experience, enthusiasm and interest in families.

Toni can be reached at 542-8723.

Brightest lights fundraiser

Ultimate goal: light them all

The Drayton Valley Beehive will be conducting its second annual brightest lights fundraiser this Christmas.

Every $10 donated by the general public lights a bulb on the Beehive Christmas tree located in front of the Pembina Consortium.

The ultimate goal is to light them all.

Bruce Nichols, the executive director of Drayton Valley Association for Community Living, says monies raised this year will go towards the construction of a new vocational facility.

They hope to top the approximately $2,000 they raised during last year's lightup.

To help with that goal, Nichols hopes competition between employees of local businesses can be sparked and used to raise money.

"We won't be soliciting for corporate donations as such, but we will be going around trying to get some competition going, which is something we didn't do last year."

A large sign will be placed in front of the tree and the results of the fund-raising efforts will be lit for all to see.

Nichols feels the service the Beehive provides, helping disabled and handicapped people to become

Putting up the lights last Thursday morning vocationally and residentially independent, is one that benefits the entire community.

"These people deserve the same choices in lifestyles you or I do," said Nichols.

About 30 people are involved with the Beehive, who are otherwise taken care of through social services.

"There is an economic benefit to the community as well," Nichols said.

He indicated that nine people, or about one-third, lead fully independent lives in spite of disability.

"We have been doing such a good job and our services are in such demand, that we require a new facility," said Nichols, explaining why the funds are required now, more than ever.

Residents are asked to look for the Beehive's donation boxes in various locations around town and help to light the tree.

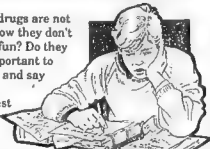

Georgie Porgie, Pudding and Pie, Smokes a Joint and Goes to School High

Unlike fairy tales, drugs are a reality many parents aren't ready to face. But with our nation's growing drug problem, parents need to ask themselves some tough questions.

Do our kids know drugs are not a game? Do they know they don't need drugs to have fun? Do they know why it's so important to resist peer pressure and say no to drugs?

As a parent, the best thing you can do is talk honestly with your kids.

Talking down to them or using scare tactics doesn't work. Give them the facts, let them know you care, and make it clear they can count on you when it's time for them to make tough decisions.

'Peer pressure at first, then I liked it'

By Susan Mosicki

Waking up beside his brother in his home and not remembering how he managed to get there helped to convince Michael (not his real name) he needed help for his alcohol and drug problem.

"It was a whole bunch of things building up," he says, adding that he had blacked-out while driving.

'An escape...you're having fun'

The 16-year-old local youth says his involvement began as "peer pressure at first and then I liked it so I kept going. It's an escape from everything — you're having fun."

He says the drugs he used were "supposedly non-addictive ones — roll it up and smoke it."

After about one-and-a-half years of getting caught drinking and driving by his parents, forgetting what he had done the night or day before, and being "ignored" at home, it wasn't fun anymore and Michael was "scared."

Michael has been alcohol- and drug-free since Oct. 21, and intends to stay that way. "I know I can stay away from it for good, but not without help," he admits.

"I just try to avoid people that ask me." He says it meant a complete change in friends. "I still see them (the old crowd) but I just have coffee with them. I get asked (to drink or smoke up) but there's no pressure anymore."

"I could never say no before," he says.

Michael says his family "ignored" him when he was drunk or stoned. "Nobody wanted to talk to me."

"I learned to mind my own business," says his mother, Jo-Anne (not her real name).

"I knew that he had to come to the awareness by himself."

"Alcoholism is a disease," she says. "You have more understanding for cancer than for alcoholism because of the nature of the disease."

Jo-Anne says she and her husband took their car away from Michael three times, and each time gave it back when they saw he was trying to improve.

"I see Michael working at it, I trust him." But an alcoholic is always an alcoholic and she says, "We constantly run the risk of Michael possibly going drinking again with the car."

Michael says he now has a lot in common with his stepfather, a recovering alcoholic who has been "dry" for the past 15 years. "We think exactly alike."

He thinks of his stepfather as one of his biggest lines of support in his uphill battle against the disease.

Michael also goes to Alcoholics Anonymous and Ala-teen for support to stay dry. These programs don't work unless the alcoholic has a genuine desire to quit.

He was asked for advice, Michael says he would tell these (teenagers) not to (drink or take drugs), but they can't learn from other people's mistakes."

If they want help though, Michael would tell them to "make the first phone call to somebody. You've got to trust them and it has to be somebody that will be honest with you."

'Michael,' a recovering 16-year-old alcoholic

What can your child learn from you?

Kids may be "picking up" more than you realize

Children are very observant. They pick up the smallest details. And they watch closely so they can do things just as they saw them do.

While this is natural, it can create problems. Have your children ever observed you using alcohol or other drugs?

Talk to your children and explain that not everything you do is something they should do — at least not yet. Ask them how they feel about drug use and tell them how you feel, too.

This can be a delicate situation, especially if it appears you're telling your children to "do as I say, not as I do." But if you approach them in a rational manner and listen to their point of view, you should be able to get your message across without putting them off.

By talking to your children instead of lecturing them, you will gain their respect and help them avoid the dangers of drug abuse.

Talk to your children. The message they need to hear is one only you can send.

Never too late for happy childhood

By Paul Cudla

The dictionary defines a victim as "one who is misused, cheated or tormented by another."

The meaning of victim is an exact portrayal of the child of an alcoholic.

Belinda (not her real name) is an adult child of an alcoholic and understands from first-hand experience how a parent's actions can seriously affect a child's development.

"I felt I was the victim of circumstances that I had no control over," Belinda says.

In Belinda's case it is her mother who is an alcoholic and as Belinda puts it, she isn't the stereotypical "kid-ron" alcoholic.

"She worked full-time and never missed work because of drinking. She is a professional (occupationally)," Belinda says.

But it was not her mother's work habits which adversely affected Belinda's childhood, it was her parenting.

"As a child my world was confusing and dysfunctional."

"I had no idea of who I was anymore. There was a real low self-image, and self-esteem."

"Neglect and broken promises"

Belinda describes herself as a "latch-key kid" who paid "little attention to homework or attending school."

"Mom was very lenient. Even when I deserved punishment, all I needed to do was cry pathetically and I was 'ungrounded.' As a result it appeared to me that my mom didn't care what I did."

Belinda's parents are divorced and Belinda says she "blamed herself" to a certain extent for them not being happy.

The "neglect and broken promises" Belinda suffered under her mother's alcohol abuse were not the only forms of mistreatment Belinda endured.

Belinda says she suffered a "mild amount of sexual abuse from non-relatives" as a child which she reported to her mother and her mother in turn, ignored.

"The neglect wasn't in so much that it happened, it was just that something was never said or done about it."

Belinda's relationship with her father deteriorated because of the upbringing she was receiving from an alcoholic mother.

As Belinda's mother had won custody of Belinda, her father had no real control over Belinda's behavior.

Once as a disciplinary measure, her father reverted to tossing her down a staircase.

"My dad was a bitter and frustrated man who had little control over my life."

"He was trying very hard to correct all of my behavioral problems in one weekend."

The downward spiral continued for Belinda as she sought attention and self-worth.

At age 17 she was pregnant with an unwanted child.

"It was the result of carelessness, lack of education, lack of family support, and lack of self-esteem. I badly needed approval."

Belinda explains co-dependency as a term used to describe alcoholics who are attracted to other alcoholics and that she

Get to your child before pressure does

Peer pressure. We've all experienced it. Remember how hard it was to say "no" when you were a kid, even if it meant doing something you knew was wrong?

Young people today admit that pressure to use drugs is intense.

As a parent, it's your job to give your child the facts about the dangers of drug abuse.

Talk to your kids. Get to them before the pressure does.

herself went through a form of co-dependency.

Although she never drank heavily herself, she explains she would search for "the company of alcoholics because these were the people I understood."

"I assumed I had to provide booze or be in a drinking environment to have fun."

"I couldn't blame anybody else for my misery"

But the doom and gloom that arose from alcoholism has ended for Belinda as she took steps to stop her victimization by joining Al-ANON (a support group for friends and relatives of alcoholics) and ACOA (Adult Children of Alcoholics).

"It came to the point where I realized I could no longer fake being normal."

Belinda is now married and says she is in a "very functional relationship."

When she first joined a help organization she thought she would be allowed to "complain and continue my self-pity routine."

"I realized though, that I couldn't blame anybody else for my misery. I was responsible for my own misery. As an adult I am responsible for my own happiness."

Al-ANON and ACOA have allowed Belinda to "have the power over my own emotions."

"It has allowed me to replace the negatives, and to get perspective."

"I can't stress enough how separating the behavior from the person has given me a lot of freedom."

"It is never too late for a happy childhood."

HATS OFF TO OUR HEROES

Murray Cronk has no elaborate reason for joining the fire department a little over one month ago, but his reason is a good one.

"I thought it would be a good thing to do — it's for a good cause.

"I haven't been out on a call yet, so I don't know what to expect. It's pretty well all new to me."

Cronk says his wife, Lori, knows what to expect when the pager goes off, though. "She knows if something ever happened, she'd want somebody to come right away."

A father of three himself, Cronk was touched by young children that came in to thank the fire department after their home was burned. They (firefighters) all enjoyed that."

Hidden hazards can mar winter activities

'Apres ski' in a cast may have its glamor in films, but in reality "it's not all it's cracked up to be."

The ski hill is well-known for the risks it presents, where even expert skiers can suffer from fractures or sprains. Even moderate winter activities, like skating, hayrides and walking down the street, present opportunities for fractures and sprains to happen.

Pain, tenderness and swelling are signs of a fracture or sprain. First aid treatment begins by steady and supporting the injured limb. Do not move the victim. Dress wounds and control bleeding. A shoe, skate or ski boot can be used as a splint if there are no bleeding injuries.

If the victim must be moved, secure the limb with bandages over a padded splint. A pillow, blanket or extra clothing will work.

When the fractured or sprained limb has been immobilized in a splint, raise and support it to reduce bleeding and swelling.

Remember to check circulation of the limb to ensure bandages are not too tight, loosen if necessary. All fractures and sprains should receive medical attention as soon as possible.

Be safety conscious this winter. Look for hidden hazards when outside enjoying winter activities. And keep sidewalks clear of snow and ice to prevent painful falls.

For more information on winter safety and first aid, contact your nearest branch of St. John Ambulance.

Let's end the questions and find the answer

"What does Jesus look like?" An honest question any child or adult might ask.

In fact, interest and speculation about what Jesus was like has given rise in these last few years to some tacky film versions. The Lord's image was no doubt warped by artists concerned with the need for a marketable character. This isn't new. People have been producing 'artist's conceptions' of Christ for centuries.

Actually, we do not know a lot about the appearance of the Lord Jesus. Did He have brown hair and black skin or shall we believe those artists who give Him a British or Oriental look?

Well let's end the questions and find some answers. The Bible is the best source since it is a book that centres entirely around the life and ministry of Jesus. Though it talks little about the outward appearance of Jesus, it presents more meaningful portraits of Him, and perhaps taking a look at them may change how you envision the Saviour.

Though the gospels of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John do not describe the physical appearance of Jesus they do focus on the unveiling of His divine power and knowledge and character. You could easily read through the Gospel of Mark in one sitting (it is only about 21 pages long in my

From the Pastor's Pen

By Pastor John Martens
DV Pentecostal Assembly

Bible) and get a good glimpse at the nature and character of the Lord. Mark systematically leads the reader through an understanding of who Jesus is.

The prophet Isaiah, several hundred years before Christ, looked forward to the day when Jesus would die on the cross. He spoke about Jesus, saying the Messiah would have no beauty or majesty to attract us to Him, nothing in His appearance that we should desire Him.

The 53rd chapter of his prophecy in the Bible gives us a portrait of Jesus as the innocent one who carried the punishment of our sins. Here we see the face of Jesus 'disfigured beyond that of any man' from the scourging of the crucifixion day. Isaiah presents a view of Jesus uncompromising in His love and willingness to pay the ultimate price to buy our release from wickedness.

In the book of Revelation, written just before the turn of the first century, the Apostle John gives us a view at what Jesus looks like now. In the first chapter of this prophetic book John describes a vision he was given of Jesus standing among seven of the churches of what is now Turkey.

John describes in first-century terms what he saw. His dramatic description paints an image of Jesus as the Lord of the Church and the One who has been exalted above every authority and who will bring the end to human history as we know it as the events of the end unfold. The qualities of Jesus's appearance point to His eternal power and dominion over all things. How do you envision Jesus? A passive fellow in white? Do you think of Him as a dead man still on the cross? Or do you see Him as the scriptures portray Him?

The Bible gives us a clear picture of what Jesus is like. It doesn't take long to find the truth if you know where to look. I challenge you to pick up a Bible and read some of the passages I've mentioned. Don't listen to the propaganda, listen to the words of the Almighty God who says of Jesus, in Matthew 17:15: 'This is my Son, whom I love; with Him I am well pleased. Listen to Him.'

Training is available for volunteer coaches

Fred Schreiber of the School Buildings Branch confirmed Nov. 1 that a grant of about $1.7 million will go toward a 2,564-square-foot addition to the 1940-60 section of the Buck Lake school, turning it into a centralized high school.

Three new classrooms, library, gymnasium, showers, changing rooms and gym storage are among the many new features.

Sympathy of the district goes to the family and friends of Barbara Stankey who died Nov. 5 in Calgary at the age of 55.

Coaches, managers needed. Registration for minor hockey and skating will not take place until the weatherman cooperates and the ice is in, hopefully around the first week in December.

In the meantime, coaches and managers are needed for the learn-to-skate and kids' powerskating programs (will train).

The following programs can be offered if we find coaches: minor hockey - novice (10 years and under), atoms (12 and under), pee wee (14 and under) girls hockey (8-12 years of age). Girls may be mixed with boys depending on numbers registered. Students are welcome and training available. If a category is without a coach or supervisor by registration day, that program will not be offered.

The Alley Cats hockey team for women 13 and over and men's over-30, no-hit recreational hockey will also run again this year.

Any other groups wishing a regular ice slot can call Linda. Scheduled ice slots will have priority over other users. All groups must have an adult supervisor.

Volunteer supervisors will be needed for public skating times.

Some pre-season maintenance will shortly be done at the rink. Anyone willing to donate the use of a snowblower to the rink can also let Linda (388-2400) know.

Volleyball. The Alder Flats boys junior high volleyball team of Josh Werschler, Wesley Larson, Jason Miller, Errol Steele, Trent Bohning, Cory Larson and Roger Glaser took second place at the county of Leduc finals, winning eight out of 12 games. They were defeated in the finals by the Winfield team.

The junior girls team won five of their six sets.

Klein slams opposition's 'political agenda'

By Paul Cudla

The Progressive Conservative party for the Drayton Valley/Devon constituency elected a new president, but none of the party faithful seemed to notice because the issues most members wanted to tackle were environmental.

Environment Minister Ralph Klein made a guest appearance at the PC meeting held in Warburg Nov. 22 where he attacked the opposition's 'political agenda' regarding environmental issues.

Klein called opposition environment critics John McInnis (ND) and Grant Mitchell (Liberal) the 'Chip and Dale of the environmental world' and the 'M&Ms of the environment who sell in the House and not in your hand.'

"They are the people who clumsily try to hide their political agenda under a see-through cloak... of environmental concerns," Klein said.

Klein said the opposition doesn't choose to attack particular projects which may raise environmental concerns, they choose to attack the government itself.

"That way they can attack the government on the guise of concerns for the environment. In my mind it's a fully deceitful agenda."

"Those with a political agenda will have only a passing interest in taking on the company, their target is the government. They won't attack the project because then they would be putting jobs in peril, so they attack the process which is usually government initiated.

Environment Minister Ralph Klein ponders the environmental issues facing the province of Alberta.

"That's what's going on up north."

By pointing to the Alberta Pacific (AL-PAC) environmental impact assessment process, Klein singled out the government's conscious effort to address environmental concerns.

"It was the government of Alberta that created that review board, the first of its kind in Canada. One of the most comprehensive public hearings to ever be undertaken."

AL-PAC is a 'citizen's review board' which is holding public hearings and is examining the environmental impact of the proposed Athabasca kraft mill.

Klein later re-emphasized governmental dedication to the hearings by explaining how the provincial Tories had "identified and tabled over 400 deficiencies in the proponents' submissions and asked the review board to get answers to those deficiencies."

One of those deficiencies, Klein acknowledged, is the fact the AL-PAC impact study does not consider the 'harvested' or forested areas mills consume.

"That has been identified as a deficiency."

"We're looking at this process as perhaps a model for future environmental impact assessments," Klein said.

Klein added harvesting "at any one time for all the forestry projects combined would never be any more than one per cent of the total forest reserves."

Klein touched briefly on the environmental concerns raised by the Pelican Mill in Drayton Valley.

"I've had some complaints about the ash and so on, so I'm going to be out here again in a couple of weeks and I'll bring some of my officials out and we'll have a look at it."

Lost in the environmental shuffle, was the PC meeting prime directive of electing a new Drayton Valley/Devon constituency president.

For the record, the new president is Dave Willows who was the only candidate. Willows has been a PC party member since 1973 and is a cattle rancher from Winfield.

Willows said his aim as president will be to "keep people active in the party."

Alder Flats residents refuse to let MD annexation issue die

By Susan Mosicki

Some people in the Alder Flats area are not ready to let go of the idea of annexation into the Municipal District Brazeau.

Several people have spearheaded a telephone survey of most of the residents in the Alder Flats area (98-98 per cent) and have presented the results to MLA Tim Thurber, who will be taking them to Alberta Municipal Affairs Minister Ray Specker.

If he deems proper, he will be able to go straight to cabinet who have the authority to grant the annexation.

Earlier this year Alder Flats presented their case to the Local Authorities Board that recommended the area not be annexed.

Garth 'Bear' Werschler, an Alder Flats resident said part of the problem with the hearings was that "they lumped the two communities (Alder Flats and Buck Lake) as one and always made it look like the majority didn't want to be annexed."

Werschler said the results of the phone survey showed approximately 75 per cent of all Alder Flats residents surveyed still want to be annexed.

Proximity to the MD is one of the main reasons for the annexation request.

Werschler believes the quest should not be given up until all possible routes have been exhausted. "It's the shakers and the movers of the world that get out and shake the tree before the coconuts fall to the ground."

"To do it through our elected government," he said, "is the right way to do it."

He said some people had told him the county of Wetaskiwin would put the centralized school in Buck Lake on hold if they pursued the annexation again, however Bill McCarthy, superintendent of schools (Wetaskiwin) said that was "totally false."

RCMP block Highway 22 as snow trucks pass by.

Rig jack-knife causes bridge blockade

By Shaun Folcser

A full propane tanker truck was one of two semi-trailer units that went off the road in the North Saskatchewan River Valley during the recent snowstorm, blocking traffic across the bridge for over five hours.

It was a tense reminder of the power of the elements as another winter began in earnest.

Fears of a major accident involving the jack-knifed rig forced Drayton Valley RCMP to block the road and control traffic through the valley from shortly after 5 p.m. on Nov. 20 until around 10:30 p.m. that night.

Over 100 vehicles were stranded in the traffic jam that occurred at 50 St. and Highway 32, and simultaneously on the east side of the bridge where police had restricted the traffic flow.

The tanker and another bulk hauler were heading up the hill in the height of the storm when they lost traction due to road conditions and went off the highway.

In addition to the two trucks, RCMP estimated another two dozen vehicles had either gone into the ditch, or had become stuck on the hill.

Six of these involved minor accidents, but no injuries were reported.

One charge was laid for excessive speed after a motorist hit a tow truck pulling another car out of the ditch on the east side of the river.

Const. Al Kaufman said the flow of traffic was restricted to allow the accidents to be cleared and to plough and sand the road.

He said that "a careless disregard for the road conditions" was responsible for the problems that night and urged motorists to adjust to the cold weather by slowing down.

Options being discussed for Buck Lake school

By Susan Mosciak

The county of Wetaskiwin is looking at several options for students while the building project is underway at the future Buck Lake centralized junior/senior high school.

One of the options is to keep the elementary students in the school while the construction is in progress, although superintendent of schools Bill McCarthy (Wetaskiwin) said this would mean constant construction, workers and trucks, and there would be the question of safety of the students.

Another problem is the school will be adapted for junior/senior high students and this will mean the water fountains, etc. will be made higher and not easily accessible to the elementary students.

The purchase of four portables, for the Buck Lake grades 1 to 4 students, to be situated at the Alder Flats school site is a possibility, but a costly one.

Another option would be to bus the grades 1 to 4 students from Buck Lake to Alder Flats school, send the Alder Flats junior high students to Winfield, and the Winfield senior high students to Alder Flats.

This option "would seem to have more pros," according to McCarthy, who said it was "the most reasonable and safest" route to take.

"We're looking for the best solution.

"Certainly at this point in time we have no total preference already. There are pros and cons to all of them. There are some that look more beneficial and agreeable to these students."

When the construction project is complete, the Winfield and Alder Flats schools will house grades 1 to 6, and junior/senior high students from both schools will attend the new centralized school.

Completion date is not yet known.

The county started discussing these and other options Nov. 23.

Annexation cont'd

"It's their democratic right. We're going ahead (with the junior/senior high) as if this wasn't even going ahead at Alder Flats. We're excited about the new school concept."

He did say, however, that "it would be of concern if it (Alder Flats) did go."

"I believe the only real argument is the proximity," said Thurber. "That argument is valid. I don't believe the services are any different."

"I support their right to be heard. I believe everybody should have a right to be heard and as far as they can be heard."

But Thurber also said, "I do have to represent all the people. It's a real complex kind of a situation."

He said a plebiscite vote could be a possibility for the area.

Man in critical condition after accident with rifle

A 35-year-old Spruce Grove man is in critical condition in an Edmonton hospital following a gunshot wound he received Nov. 24 in a rural area north of Warburg.

A joint investigation by Breton and Thoraby RCMP detachments indicates James Baker suffered a gunshot wound to the upper leg and hip area while he was attempting to load a rifle.

His wife Blanche rushed him to Breton hospital and he was immediately transported by ambulance to the University of Alberta hospital. A police escort helped speed up his journey to the hospital.

No charges have been laid in connection with the incident. The police investigation is continuing.

Highways improved, but signs needed to avoid accidents

Highways in the area have drastically improved over the years. But on one of those routes some immediate work is needed.

Some signs are badly needed on Highway 22, near the south entrance to town.

Highways department created a much-needed passing lane coming up the North Saskatchewan River hill last year.

Both lanes end at the junction of Highway 22 and the 50th Street intersection. That's where the trouble is.

The inside lane is supposed to be the right-hand turning lane into Drayton Valley, while the second lane proceeds past the intersection and down the road.

Unfortunately, the inside turning lane is not adequately marked.

At the present time, traffic coming up the hill, in either lane, keeps going straight once they reach the intersection.

If adequate signs were placed at several locations coming up the hill — that traffic in the right hand lane had to turn into town — that would eliminate the hazard of a serious accident.

There have been several times this year, that due to the grace of God, the authorities didn't have to deal with a tragedy or two at that location.

Most of the highways in the area that need fixing, can't because of the cost involved. All that's needed here are a few signs.

Members of the #733 Royal Canadian Air Cadet Squadron Honor Guard who participated in the recent Remembrance Day services are to be commended.

They took their positions at the cenotaph at 10:45 a.m. and remained there, in the bitter cold, until 11:20 a.m. Then, they resumed their positions inside the Legion for the half-hour service.

Several people have commented about the cadets' outstanding behavior.

Inconvenience a small price to pay

Dear Editor,

The decision we had been waiting for has finally been made and our centralized school can now become a reality.

The plans and architectural drawings will be started immediately. Local people will be involved with the planning as well as input from the school principals. As a board we will try to keep you informed on progress as time goes on.

Recommendations made by the Local Authorities Board have been acted upon. A letter has been sent to the town of Drayton Valley to set up a recreation agreement to ensure west-end area residents are able to utilize the recreation facilities in that town.

The lawyer for the county has been instructed to complete an agreement for revenue-sharing with the MD of Clearwater.

Tuition agreements with all surrounding jurisdictions will be in place when one with Twin Rivers is finalized.

To facilitate building the high school at Buck Lake, and for the safety of the children, the county has tentatively suggested moving the Buck Lake children to Alder Plate and busing the senior students to Winfield for the duration of the building process.

Another option is to bring in portables at an approximate cost of $100,000 for the few months they would be needed and then probably lose money on them when they eventually sold.

There is absolutely no truth to the rumor that once the kids go to Winfield it will be made the high school. The inconvenience of busing seniors for the short time necessary is surely a small price to pay for a centralized school.

Council passes tax bylaw

The same assessment and valuation of property will be used in 1990 to determine taxes on certain properties on the assessment roll of the MD Braseau as in 1989.

Council passed a bylaw last week pursuant to the Municipal Taxation Act that will allow the assessor to use last year's figures.

Arraignment set over

Arraignment for Andy Dorman has been set over until Dec. 13 in Court of Queen's Bench in Edmonton.

On that date a trial will be set for the former executive director of the Beehive Workshop.

Dorman is facing a total of 19 charges including five counts of theft over $1,000, seven counts of theft under $1,000, five counts of uttering forged documents, and two counts of fraud.

Queen's English it ain't

George Orwell called it Newspeak, but here in the newsroom, we know it as CP Style.

CP stands for Canadian Press, and the CP stylebook is the bible of conventions for what we know as modern newspeak today.

It's the reason we don't call you by your first names; why we don't call you Mr. or Mrs., even though it sounds cold and removed.

It is also the reason why we don't write complete paragraphs. Every English teacher knows a paragraph contains a minimum of three sentences, which is almost never done on these pages. But the Queen's English, it ain't.

George Orwell used to complain because our language was so adaptable, and so open to change, it was too easy for politicians and the news media to take the meaning right out of it. This was done by using big, important sounding words to say absolutely nothing.

Ultimately, their jargon comes to mean so many different things to so many people, that the true meaning can be twisted to fit any variety of possible shapes.

For those who don't remember, in Orwell's 1984 Newspeak was designed to aid the Ministry of Truth in rewriting news every time it changed its mind about what was actually the truth.

This official government language had many advantages over plain old English.

- old news didn't have to be rewritten so often
- it was easier to say nothing
- it was easier to detect thought criminals and punish them

In a profession where deciphering news and what politicians say is standard

Comment

By Shaun Polczer

practices, you see this every day, even in the pages of our own Western Review.

In such limited space, we search for the fewest words having the most meaning. Inevitably, the news tends to rely on euphemisms and catch phrases with instant recognition.

In the Queen's vocabulary, we call these clichés. This is why it is sometimes easy to leave out or overshadow important details in stories, which steps on toes.

It is also why some details appear to carry a tad too much meaning, or something other than what was intended, which also steps on toes.

Yet, we continue to use broad, sweeping generalizations to color anything in just about any light we choose.

Call it modifying the language to disguise a personal role in manufacturing third party, objective, news.

This is the essence of CP Style. With the exception of journalists perhaps, none are the wiser.

So remember, you don't always have to believe everything you read — we don't always mean what we say.

Or say what we mean for that matter.

John Gogo (centre) had Tom Thurber and Shirley Cripps in stitches at the consortium opening.

Consortium officially opens its doors

By Paul Cudla

The official grand opening of the Pembina Educational Consortium drew a congregation of delegates who heaped praise upon the new site and the consortium's role in the community.

Along with Advanced Education Minister John Gogo, MLA Tom Thurber, former MLA Shirley Cripps, Mayor Tom McGee and members of council were on hand at the ceremony last Tuesday to officially open the new consortium building at 5149-51 St.

Joe MacLellan, executive director of the consortium, said the extra space available at the new building made the move desirable.

"So far through November I've seen 900 students pass through already; that's with January and February normally being the busier months," MacLellan said, adding overall enrolment last year was 2,500 students.

This year, the Pembina Consortium will be expanding to include services to the communities of Westlock and Fox Creek. The premise behind the consortium — to provide relevant education to rural learners in Drayton Valley and — continues to be MacLellan's motivation.

"This is the way we're going to meet the needs of rural Alberta.

"The idea was to address that inequity (between urban and rural residents). If you're a rural learner you Opening cont'd A7

'Have so little..but so happy'

By Shaun Polser

A Drayton Valley Baptist minister got the chance to take the message of his church half-way across the globe earlier this month as a missionary in Indonesia and Singapore.

Rev. Bob Cochrane of the Baptist Church says there is much Canadians can learn from Indonesia in the way people there embrace their spiritual values.

"They have so little compared to us, and yet they seem so happy with what they have," he said.

Cochrane was one Canadian amongst 20 other American ministers who went to Indonesia at the invitation of the Youth for Christ organization (YFC).

The group is an international, interdenominational mission for young people.

He flew from Los Angeles to Singapore, and then to Jakarta in Indonesia for a 12-day tour, returning to Drayton Valley Nov. 10.

Cochrane said the government in that country had recently opened freedom for religious teaching in the school system, and Christianity is one of the faiths allowed to be taught.

The decision affected some 70 million young people who must have at least three years of religious teaching in any faith before they can graduate.

This has left mission groups such as the YFC scrambling to establish campus clubs and Christian youth groups.

Although 80 per cent of the country's 160 million people are Muslim, Cochrane says Christianity is very well received.

"People there seem to be very tolerant of other people's faiths; there is an

Rev. Bob Cochrane
...Canadians can learn from Indonesia openness to new ideas," he said.

There is little violent crime in Indonesia said Cochrane. Stealing is almost nonexistent and the streets are safe to walk after dark, a possible reflection of this attitude.

He said that although the people are generally happy and friendly, there is a wide gap between the rich and the poor.

"We went to the most incredible little village I had ever seen. The people there were very poor, practically living in grass shacks. They had almost nothing, and yet I couldn't believe how happy they were," he said.

This was in stark contrast to Singapore, a large, modern city state that is a hub of business activity and capital investment in the Far East.

Cochrane said it was ironic that of all the places in North America, a representative from Drayton Valley was even invited for the Indonesian mission.

It just goes to show he said, what a small place the world really is after all.

don't have the same opportunities," MacLellan said.

MacLellan added a consortium education is "very cost-efficient because we stay in high-demand courses."

Cripps, who played an integral part in bringing the consortium to the area has seen it from its beginning.

"The consortium has grown with the students in Drayton Valley and area.

"With the consortium, you can deliver a program in an area. The program comes to (the learner). It's a great benefit for people in the area to get an education," Cripps said.

Mayor Tom McGee is pleased with the consortium move for its role in the downtown revitalization project.

"As far as the town is concerned, one of the most important things is the revitalization of downtown.

"With the government of Alberta building, the town, and the consortium all downtown, now people can come downtown and do all their business within two blocks," McGee said.

Program gets funds

The MD will be providing another $283 to the village of Breton for the 1989 bus-to-swim program.

Seven hundred and fifty dollars was already provided, but the total deficit was $1,104.55, 94 per cent of which was for rural residents.

The rural portion equalled $1,038.50, which the MD agreed to pay in full.

It was suggested by development officer Dave Roberge the MD Brazeau organize and schedule any bus-to-swim program that may be approved in the future.

Oil Caps split weekend games

The Oil Caps managed to put together some strong defensive play on the weekend, splitting their home games at the Drayton Valley Sports Centre with a win and a loss.

Friday night, the Oil Caps crushed the Lacombe Wranglers 8-2 with a strong performance that highlighted their new-found defensive prowess.

Jason Trenchuk scored three of the first four Oil Caps goals to carry the team to a 5-0 cushion by the 13:22 mark of the first period, earning himself a quick hat trick.

Trenchuk also added a helper later in the game for a total of four points on the night.

Sean Fuller from the Wranglers scored to make it 5-1 after the first, but by then it was already too little too late.

Rob Klein made it 6-1 at 13:10 of the second before Darren Isaacson of Lacombe made it 6-2 going into the third.

Brad Allen and Dwayne Lyda closed out the scoring for Drayton Valley in the third to make the final score 8-2.

On Saturday night, the Caps played a solid game against the Hobbema Night Hawks, but wound up on the bottom of a 4-1 score.

"We ran into a hot goaltender Saturday," said Caps head coach Grant MacDonald.

And ran into him they did. Brent Plotts of the Oil Caps received a match penalty for charging after he slammed Hobbema goalie Darcy Rosie into the boards behind the net with 3:07 remaining in the first, triggering an immediate brawl.

The score at the time was 1-0 for Hobbema, and the penalty situation conspired against the Caps to get back in the game.

Brad Allen tied it 1-1 at 10:08 of the second, before Hobbema came back with a goal late in the period with 1:47 left to go ahead 2-1.

That would ultimately prove to be the winning goal.

Hobbema added two more goals in the third to make the final 4-1.

In spite of the loss Saturday, Oil Caps coach Grant MacDonald was pleased with the play of his hockey club.

"We managed to get our goals against down and worked on our defence."

"Friday was an excellent game, we played very well. Norm Mallo (Caps' goalie) had his best game of the year, and played good and solid Saturday."

Jason Trenchuk played his best all season as well."

MacDonald said the Caps had to go for the net more, and work more on their forechecking.

He was also concerned that discipline problems with bad penalties late in the game Saturday eliminated any chance of a comeback in a game he felt his team could have won.

"In spite of the negatives, I saw a lot of good things on the weekend," he said. "We managed to get our goals against down and worked on our defence."

Hobbema goalie Darcy Rosie makes a pad-save. Rosie made 32 saves in a tight-checking Night Hawks victory.

Warburg wins local pee wee tournament

Warburg took top honors at the pee wee minor hockey tournament held at the Drayton Sports Centre last weekend.

The tournament featured teams from Drayton Valley, Lodgepole, Whitecourt, Edson, Barrhead, and Devon, which competed against each other in a round-robin style playoff for four divisional titles.

To take the top spot however, Warburg first had to beat Hi-West from Drayton Valley in the A division championship game, 9-2.

The teams were scoreless after one, and Warburg started to pull away, leading 3-1 after two.

They exploded for six goals in the third, to take the game and the championship, 9-2.

Holly Plotts and Travis Briley were the goal scorers for Drayton Valley.

Another Drayton Valley team managed to win the C division championship by defeating a team from Barrhead.

Anderson Sand and Gravel shutout Barrhead 6-0, in a walk, after losing to Warburg, 5-1 to wind up in the C division match.

Vern Bartlett of the Drayton Valley Legion drops the puck for the opening face-off at the pee wee tournament on the weekend.

Barrhead had lost to Hi-West in its play-off round, 12-1, to come up against Anderson's in the final round.

Margso Electric from

Lodgepole beat Devon 10-0 in its play-off after losing its first game to Warburg 7-3.

They eventually defeated Whitecourt in the B division final by a score of 8-2.

Devon, who lost out to Margso in the first round, went on to play Edson, who lost to Whitecourt 5-3 in its first playoff, for the D division final.

Devon wound up winning that one by a score of 5-4.

Phase I almost complete: more donations needed

By Paul Cudla

Curling club president Bruce Clemmer is looking for $400,000 to complete phase two of the new curling club/rec-plex.

With phase one approximately 75 per cent complete and funds available to finish phase one at a cost of $550,000, Clemmer needs an additional $400,000 to finish the rec-plex in its entirety.

"Right now our biggest problem is funding," Clemmer said, adding, "we're trying to go out and get funding from donations."

Phase one will include a bar, kitchen, bathrooms, lounge, curlers' gallery, and banquet room upstairs and a recreation area downstairs which will house the Derrick Boxing and the Drayton Valley Gymnastics clubs.

"What we'd like to do is hopefully get the boxers and gymnasts in there by Jan. 1," Clemmer said.

The new rec-plex is about 55 per cent complete in total, and thus far has taken over 1,000 volunteer hours to complete. The volunteer hours include 600 labor hours, and "many thousands in meetings."

Phase two of the building includes the six sheets of ice for curling and will be started after completion of phase one.

"By 1990, November, I feel confident that we'll be curling in a new facility," Clemmer said.

"You just can't quit"

The curling rink construction is the culmination of seven years of work for Clemmer and other executives.

"You just can't quit," Clemmer said of his pursuit of a new building.

Construction of the curling club has experienced several delays due to weather, delayed engineered drawings, material setbacks, and transfers of key volunteers.

The curling club/rec-plex must conform to the arena beside it in aesthetic appeal, Bruce Clemmer in front of the curling rink. Phase one is 75 per cent complete. Phase two should be completed by November 1990.

by matching it with similar colors and materials.

As a result, the curling club has run into difficulty in the area of roofing material which must be the same as the arena. Unfortunately the company which made the roofing material for the ice arena has gone out of business.

Meanwhile, the old curling rink is starting to show effects of its over 30 years of service as the rink is starting to 'heave' — bulge at the end where expansion and contraction of ice and water has caused ripples.

"We just want to get through one more year," Clemmer said.

Bout 'good learning experience'

Shelby Harden captured one of only three medals the Alberta boxing team won at the national tournament in Hamilton Nov. 9-12.

Harden won a bronze medal in the heavyweight category which consisted of five boxers from across Canada.

"It was a good learning experience just to go there and be a participant," Harden said.

By gaining a bye in the first fight Harden went into the semi-finals where he was defeated in a second-round TKO.

Harden said he felt the ref "shouldn't have stopped it, I wasn't hurt."

Going into the fight he had 13 fights while the other four boxers in his category averaged around 25 bouts.

Not only was Harden the most inexperienced boxer in his class but by going into his bout at 183 pounds he was the lightest. The heavyweights averaged about 195 pounds.

Harden said he is considering moving into the light-heavyweight division.

The nationals provided Harden with his 14th amateur fight and gave him the opportunity to watch the best boxers in Canada. Over 100 fighters participated in the national tournament.

Harden said he will continue to train with the local Derrick Boxing Club and plans to work on "slipping punches" which he sees as a weak spot in his technique.

His next fight will likely be in the new year.

The DV Martial Arts Club won its second team trophy.

Club claims trophies

The Drayton Valley Martial Arts Club captured its second team trophy of the year Nov. 18 at a tournament in Calgary.

Thus far, the martial arts club has been to two competitions this year and coach Dan Lyver is impressed with the performance of his team.

"I'm not afraid to put them up against anybody. We've got one of the best clubs around," Lyver said.

The local martial arts team won a first place team trophy in the blue to brown-belt category.

In total, the team won five trophies: Norm Tucker placed first in 35-and-over category; Richard Hutchinson took second in the 35-and-over category; Howard Holden won the orange to green-belt category; and Cheryl Tucker was second in the white to yellow belt class.

Novice coach makes hockey fun

In appreciation: Coach Jerry Wilkes

By Paul Cudla

Jerry Wilkes tries to accent the positive as coach of the novice Warden Well hockey team.

"I always try to be really supportive — don't bring up the negative all the time.

"I think the players will respond when you're showing them a positive attitude," Wilkes said.

Wilkes has been a minor hockey coach for a total of five years, the last two as the head coach of the Warden Well novice team (seven, eight, and nine-year-olds).

By highlighting the positive, Wilkes makes hockey fun.

"I enjoy the game and I would just like to give something back to the kids," Wilkes said.

"Our team puts the emphasis on fun," Wilkes said.

At the novice level, Wilkes feels a responsibility in trying to teach the kids the basics of hockey.

"A lot of these guys are first-timers, so you're trying to teach the basic skills.

"One of the goals is to teach the kids how to skate correctly, how to shoot, and how to pass the puck," Wilkes said.

Wilkes said another aspect of hockey being introduced at the novice level is the "team concept."

As a minor league player growing up in Warburg, Wilkes remembers his coaches and the contributions they made to his life.

"I enjoy the game and I would just like to give something back to the kids," Wilkes said.

And how would Wilkes like to be remembered by the kids he coaches?

"As a positive person. As a friend of the kids.

"I feel a sense of enjoyment when I see guys I have coached doing well on other teams."

Wilkes maintains he purely "enjoys coaching" and wants to continue for a few more years, as his interest in hockey sustains and "I might as well be behind the bench."

Wilkes is assisted by three other volunteer parent-coaches on the Warden Well team who deserve recognition: Bill Miller, Rick Wickland and Wilford Schadek.

Hehn wants farmers to pocket crow

"The real costs of shipping grain will only be recognized when farmers are paid the Crow Benefit directly," claims the president of United Grain Growers.

Lorne Hehn says paying the transportation subsidy to farmers, rather than to the railways as is done now, would result in cheaper ways to handle and transport grain.

"By allowing the real costs of handling and transporting grain to be seen by farmers, the grain transportation and gathering system will be rationalized according to the desires of Western Canadian farmers, and not the railways, the government or the grain companies."

(The Crow Benefit is a $700-million federal government subsidy paid to railways to reduce the costs of shipping grain to port points.)

Hehn says, "Putting the Crow Benefit in the farmer's pocket would give the individual the opportunity to choose how and where he pockets his grain. It would stop discrimination against value-added food production and processing by making the value of Western grain the same whether grains are exported or fed or processed in Western Canada and moved out as value-added food products.

"It would keep value-added products competitive with raw commodities and it would keep Canadian plants competitive with offshore plants."

Wardin Well takes 'B' tournament

The Norette Oilers lost two games on the weekend.

Fortunately, only one of those counts in their league standings.

Playing at home on Sunday afternoon the Oilers dropped an 8-4 league decision to the Westlock Warriors. The win left Westlock with a 9-1 win-loss record while the Oilers dropped to 7 and 2.

Shane Mortenson had a pair for the Oilers with Sheldon Wilson and James Jelinski notching singles.

The Oilers are on the road this weekend, with games in Hinton and Edson.

In an exhibition game Saturday, the Oilers lost 5-3 to St. Albert. Greg Thompson had two of the Norette goals and Jelinski scored the other.

Wardin Well won the 'B' division at a novice tournament held last Saturday in Wabamun.

Jeff Miller scored four times and Eric Schadeck added one as Wardin Well downed Evansburg 5-3 in their opening game.

Cory Luckwell was the only Wardin Well sniper in a 3-1 loss to host Wabamun.

And in the 'B' final, Ryan Wilkes scored three times as Wardin Well defeated Evansburg 3-2.

In a novice game last Tuesday, Wardin Well and Mohawk played to a 2-2 tie. Kevin Hart and Schadeck had the goals for Wardin.

The game was delayed for 40 minutes due to a power outage at the Drayton Sports Centre.

Anderson Sand and Gravel travelled to Evansburg and beat the Evansburg pee wee team 3-2 Nov. 22.

Chris Sinclair and Nathan Blocklett both had seven points for Anderson.

Dances at high school may not be cancelled

It appears that dance privileges at Frank Maddock high school may not be cancelled after all.

The word that dances would be cancelled for the rest of the year began to circulate after four students were removed from a dance Friday, Oct. 13 for being drunk.

A school dance to be held Nov. 21 was cancelled because of the incident, but school principal Alan Day said that didn't mean there would be no more dances at school this year.

"If nobody will supervise, there can't be a dance"

"The rumors around the school have been saying they have been cancelled, but that is not true," said Day.

He said the next dance, which is scheduled for Dec. 21, has not been cancelled, and is only awaiting a staff decision to proceed.

Day explained that school dances are supervised by teachers, and it is up to them to decide if they want to.

"If nobody will supervise, there can't be a dance," said Day. He indicated he felt only about 30 of the approximately 400 dancers were creating problems at the last dance.

"It was Friday the 13th, and a full moon," said Day, explaining the problems at the last dance.

Teleconferencing tunes in Alberta students across the province

By Shaun Polzer
Technology is in the midst of changing the way people learn.

Computers and fax machines networked over the telephone lines can cut distances that would have been impossible to bridge in the past.

At the Pembina Educational Consortium, this technology means educational opportunities are opening up for people as they never have before.

Students can enrol in university credit courses from institutions such as the U of A, NAIT, SALT and the University of Calgary without ever having to leave Drayton Valley.

Through teleconferencing, students at the consortium can tune into a lecture being offered at NAIT in Edmonton, with other students from across the province.

The result is a classroom that is spread across hundreds of miles.

LeAnne Lyon, program assistant at the consortium, says the biggest advantage of taking courses this way is the convenience.

"It's just like coming to class" — LeAnne Lyon

"People can still work while they are learning," said Lyon, which increases dramatically the number of educational opportunities available to them.

Through distance learning, it is possible to take a complete first-year university program without having to attend classes in the cities.

Lyon says people taking their courses this way actually have an advantage in that they can pick and choose the best from course offerings in various institutions, rather than being confined to one in particular.

To enhance the quality of the programs, institutions such as the University of Calgary, have lent the consortium equipment to use in teaching the courses.

The U of C, for example, has lent the consortium a telewriter, which is basically a microcomputer hooked into a modem, to transfer written notes over the telephone lines.

This makes the courses more immediate, and gives the learning process more impact.

Lyon explained that because the completion rate for correspondence courses is usually pretty low, the distance learning is proving to be very successful.

"It's just like coming to class," she said, explaining the success of the programs.

The future of distance learning in the consortium has nowhere to go except up.

Lyon said enrolments were increasing; also the number of classes offered were increasing and becoming more elaborate and involved as well.

The consortium idea is one that is expanding too.

The Pembina consortium will soon have linked offices in Whitecourt, Rocky Mountain House and Fox Creek, which will offer the same services, and be linked to consortiums in other areas of the province.

Consortium gets rave reviews

By Frank Ryan
Pembina Education Consortium's new facility came in for some rave reviews last week.

"I'm very impressed with what I see," John Gogo, minister of advanced education said during the consortium's grand opening last Tuesday.

"I was just down the hall where I was learning to be a lawyer out of the University of Calgary," he told a small crowd after visiting a classroom in the consortium.

Gogo, flanked by former MLA Shirley Cripps and Tom Thurber, the current MLA, cut the ribbon to officially open the building, formerly occupied by the town staff.

Later, during a dinner at the Black Gold, Gogo praised the community, town and consortium executive director Joe MacLellan for the work they had done on the new building.

"You have to be excited about what you are doing," the minister stated.

The minister also had some words of praise for the town.

"I'm very impressed with your town hall. How you could take an ice arena and through design, produce such a fine facility. I'm very taken with what you've been able to do."

Dr. Mike Andrews, chairman of the board of directors for the Pembina consortium is very impressed with the new minister.

"Since taking over the portfolio, he seems well briefed and very sincere," Andrews said.

"I'm confident he will do some good things," MacLellan added.

During last week's dinner, appreciation plaques were presented to Bob Booth, Alan Day and Frank Ryan.

New year - food bang?

After months of paperwork, the new Low Income Food Bank Society is close to becoming a reality.

The only thing standing in the way now is lack of a building and $200 to pay for the paperwork.

"We need a place to open the doors and then we get the licence," said one of the organizers, Catherine Meredith.

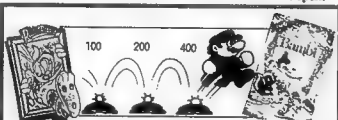

"We have a supporter. A church is willing to back us up and accept donations on behalf of the food bank."

Meredith said the minister did not want the church named until he goes before town council with Meredith in mid-December.

When she appears before council, Meredith said she will be taking a group with her. "I'm taking people who need the service. I want them (council) to meet some of the families that have been phoning me."

She would like to see the food bank start "with a bang" in the new year.

"That's my New Year's resolution — Get those doors open!"

Schools have closure policy

The Twin Rivers school district is preparing for the cold weather.

Regulations concerning its emergency school closure have been sent home with students.

When weather conditions constitute a hazard to the safety of students, the superintendent (Dr. Al Anderson), in consultation with the coordinator of transportation, are authorized to curtail school bus service to any school and to close that school.

Closures will be announced on radio stations CFCW, CHED, CHQT and CJCA with the first broadcast on the 6:30 a.m. news.

Factors that will be considered prior to any announcements include a wind chill of approximately 2,200 watts per square metre as determined by the weather office in Edmonton, visibility of less than one kilometre or reports from bus drivers and the country road foreman that many rural roads are, or soon will be, impassable.

However, during inclement weather, the final decision to send a child to the bus stop or to school, rests with the parents, even though buses and schools may be operational.

When buses are not running, schools will be closed and teachers/support staff will not be required to report.

Dances to continue

At the risk of being "out of pocket" for expenses, two local women are trying to organize monthly dances for teenagers.

Berni Abendroth and Jo-Anne Schultz held one dance recently at the Scout Hall, and although only 55 teens showed up, they intend to try again.

"One of the reasons that we didn't get that many kids was that they weren't used to it," said Abendroth. "The ones that were there definitely did have fun."

"I think if we persevere and they become accustomed to it being there, they'll take advantage of it."

If enough teens participate in the future dances, Abendroth would like to see a club formed and have the teens do the decision-making and if there are problems she would like to see them deal with the discipline as well, with adult advisors.

She doesn't believe that if there are problems the dances should be given up. "Every adult dance that you go to, there are problems. I don't see why they (the teens) shouldn't get more than one chance."

Many problems at dances are attributable to alcohol and Abendroth said teens are not allowed liquor or cigarettes at the dances.

The next dance will be held Dec. 8 from 8 p.m. until 12 a.m. at the Scout Hall.

Recitalist Stevie Lee Newberry, 9.

Guitar recitalists perform well despite cases of stagefright

About 100 people attended a guitar recital at St. Anthony's Catholic parish recently to see students from various levels perform pieces from memory.

The first time on stage for many of the students, stagefright was very evident, with many shaking too much to play their pieces without the occasional error.

This did not do anything to spoil the show, though. The audience was extremely understanding, and the students performed well considering their nervousness.

"That's what this is for," explained Ben Tobias, the instructor from Leduc. "For the students to get stage experience."

The recital was the fall show for students of The Music Shoppe in Drayton Valley and BV's Tune-up and Music Shoppe in Leduc.

Electric poppers safer for young chefs

By Samia Vallemand
Consumers' Association
Around our house, the advent of cold, snowy evenings encourages the desire for hot and fresh popcorn.

If you crave popcorn too, and own a microwave oven, the information from the CAC test labs might just be what you are looking for. CAC tested 33 brands. You will pay a lot for convenience, however, and may be buying more fat, sodium and additives than you bargained for.

If you are concerned about your fat and sodium intake, you could consider microwaving whole cobs of dry corn. Popping an entire cob is a novel idea, but it isn't particularly convenient. As well, salt and butter may need to be added to make the snack palatable.

All of the brands were equally easy to prepare, but letting younger children make their own microwave popcorn without adult supervision is not recommended. Better for young chefs are electric hot air poppers. They are safer to use than the microwavable bags because hot oil is not used and the corn is blown out of the heating chamber as soon as it is popped.

As well, if popcorn is a cornerstone of your family's fun food diet, you might consider buying a special popper for your microwave. They are designed to pop ordinary loose popcorn kernels without oil.

Phone CAC Alberta for the complete story on this snack as well as information and ratings on hot air poppers.

The product information office is open between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. weekdays. Your collect calls will be accepted as well, at 420-0747.

Safe Driving week Dec. 1-7

Transportation and Utilities Minister Al 'Boomer' Adair challenges Alberta drivers to make an extra effort to drive courteously during National Safe Driving Week Dec. 1-7.

Last year in Alberta, traffic collisions accounted for 464 deaths and 18,777 casualties. Driver error was cited in 54.3 per cent of the casualty collisions.

"Very often collisions are preventable if courtesy and responsibility are integral parts of driving habits," Adair says.

Support letters wanted

MLA Tom Thurber has expressed his concern over the absence of a mental health therapist in Drayton Valley. Thurber says some concerns in the community have been expressed to him.

"I sent a memo to the minister of health and plan to follow that up," he said last Thursday.

The MLA would also appreciate some letters of support from concerned groups and individuals.

The position has been vacant for several months following the departure of Kelly Frederickson to Edmonton.

Gary Unterschultz, deputy superintendent with the Twin Rivers school district says there's a definite need for a therapist. The lack of one has put additional pressure on the school counsellors.

Leadership workshops offered

Those wishing to develop their leadership potential may be interested in a series of workshops offered jointly by Rural Education and Development Association (REDA) and the faculty of extension of the University of Alberta.

The 15th annual introductory leadership skills (level 1) workshop is being held Jan. 22 to 26.

Level 1 participants develop skills in communicating, public speaking and effective meeting management. Consensus seeking, leadership dynamics and other leadership areas are examined.

Participants' past experiences and workshop experiences are used to develop understanding and skills which can be used in organizations at all levels. The format includes lectures, group discussions and individual and group exercises.

Goldeye Centre, near Nordegg, is the location for the program.

Brochure and applications for the program are available from REDA at 451-5959.

Algae researcher seeking support

Battle River Tourist Association (BRTA) members have decided to address the algae or green scum problem which is evident in many Alberta lakes.

Phyllis Evans of Half Moon Lake Resort, located just east of Edmonton in the county of Strathcona, told members Half Moon Lake was a pilot project for the control of algae in 1988 and 1989 and that the results were spectacular.

Evans went on to say, "the algae treatment program could come to a halt in Alberta as Dr. Ellie Prepas, a researcher with the Alberta Environmental Centre to develop the program is experiencing difficulty in gaining approval and funding for the future expansion of the project."

Since 1985 Prepas has been involved with developing a low-cost, non-toxic approach to reduce algae and improve water quality in lakes using calcium or lime additions. To date, two recreational lakes, Figure Eight Lake and Half Moon Lake have received the lime treatment, and in both cases the results were spectacular and included dramatic reduction in algae biomass.

Dr. Prepas will attend the Dec. 14 meeting of the BRTA to talk about the program, address questions about algae treatment and to seek support for the continuation of the program.

Pre-registration for the Dec. 14 meeting is necessary by calling 672-8555 or 882-3263.

THE WESTERN Review

Yes, deer?

Dan Blackmore was delighted when a young deer befriended him at Moore's game farm.

Plan your Christmas decorating

Christmas celebrations often centre on a festively-decorated tree. To make sure this once-a-year addition to your home doesn't introduce fire or electrical hazards, proper planning and care are essential.

Your first decision might concern whether to have a natural or an artificial tree. In this ecologically-conscious age, some consumers may hesitate to cut down or buy a natural tree for a 10- to 12-day period.

According to Forestry Canada, however, you don't need to worry that buying a natural tree fosters the depletion of our natural resources. Trees you cut on tree farms or buy on woodlots are bred especially to use as Christmas trees, and are usually grown on land too poor for other crops or marketable lumber.

Think fresh

Remember, a dry tree is a fire hazard. You can test a natural tree for freshness by tapping the base of the tree on the ground. If needles fall off or can be easily pulled off, the tree is too dry.

Drip dry

Once you get your tree home, let it drip a while to allow ice and snow to melt from it.

Although freshness is important, excess moisture could be a shock hazard if a tree is decorated with electric Christmas lights.

On the other hand, don't let your prize evergreen languish in a corner. Keep it outside with the butt end in the snow, preferably in the shade, until you're ready to put it up.

Before you put it up, recut the butt diagonally (so it can absorb water) and mount the tree securely in a large reservoir stand with widespread legs so it won't tip over. Check the water level daily and add more as required.

If you have young children or pets, it's a good idea to use guy wires connect to the wall to steady the tree. If possible, put the tree up in an area you can close off to children.

Avoid fire hazards

Set up all types of trees, whether artificial or natural, away from sources of heat. Unplug your tree lights when no one is in the room.

Decorate with care

Avoid combining angel hair (glass wool) with spray-on snowflakes: the combination is highly combustible.

With metallic trees, remember never to use electric lights. Instead, shine a spot or floodlight for a colorful effect.

Breton Christmas elves get $2,000 helping hand

Breton Christmas Elves will receive $2,000 in financial aid from the Municipal District Brazeau through FCSS (Family and Community Support Service) to aid them with this year's Christmas hampers.

"I think it's a very worthwhile program. It helps many families who don't have anything for Christmas," said Reeve Henry Rondeau.

"The $2,000 is probably one of the best spent monies at this time of year."

The program is also supported by the village of Breton and by donations.

According to Charlene Frieson at the village office, approximately 14 hampers will be distributed to needy families this year, with gifts for children and a turkey dinner with all the trimmings.

Let's join in harmony and celebrate in happiness
the season that is Christmas.

Computers transform learning

By Shaun Polczer

The computer revolution is taking hold all around the world and in Drayton Valley, it is revolutionizing the way children learn.

The Alberta government has recognized that our society is steadily moving into an information age, and has made computer education a priority in the schools.

At Evergreen school in Drayton Valley, this means a computer in every classroom, and one for every eight students.

It is one of the most computerized schools in the entire province, and as students and staff are discovering, their computers have some very practical applications in the learning environment.

Roger Smeland, a teacher who informally organizes the computer system at Evergreen, says the potential is very exciting.

"It gives the students a very powerful tool that helps them form ideas by working with information," he said.

"And they enjoy using it." The school follows a suggested program by the department of education called the "Strategic Plan for Microcomputers in Schools."

The thrust of the strategy is that in an information based society, knowledge is power, and strength lies in being able to manipulate information.

In the classroom, this can be used to practice drill work, such as multiplication tables in math for example, or help to create larger, more involved projects such as stories in language arts and English.

They make great tutors as well.

In order to do this however, the students must feel comfortable with using the machines.

The first instruction is keyboarding/wordprocessing which is basically high school typing.

This is what the strategy calls the "operational phase."

After they get comfortable with the operation of the machines, students move to the applicational phase, where they begin to apply the computers for specific purposes.

Any number of a multitude of programs exist to use in teaching different subjects ranging from math and English as previously mentioned, to music and art.

The Twin Rivers school board has no unified computer education program in place, although all schools in the division have been involved with computers for quite some time.

Smeland says that while an official program is in the works, an unofficial, informal association between the schools has determined roughly what should be taught for each grade, and this is what they have been going by.

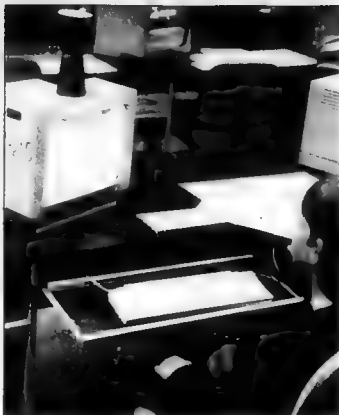

Computers "hard fun"

The overall effect of the computers on the students will be difficult to determine, but Smeland feels students will be better equipped to handle potential job opportunities in the future.

"Only a few will probably go on to actually program computers, but a large number will have to use them," he said, "and they will certainly have a strong advantage over others without the same exposure."

"I think they will be more at home in the business world."

Smeland has a term to describe the work being done in the schools with computers: "hard fun."

'Santa's watching' creates little 'sweeties'

Believing in Santa Claus is a wonderful thing — especially if you are a mother.

Santa is everything good and has tremendous power. I have no qualms about using that to its fullest extent. After all, I am a mother.

'Santa is watching' you can be a very persuasive incentive to be good. So good, in fact, that for the months of November and December my children turn into the golden little sweeties I've known all along they were.

They become almost mirror images of the children you only read about or see on TV as part of the 'perfect' family. Polite, truthful in every

Coffee With Chris

By Chris Krieser

situation, cooperative, smiling all the time.

In essence, nothing like they are the rest of the year: boisterous, grumpy, mischievous; getting on my nerves one day, delighting me the next.

In other words — normal. With Santa watching, such words as 'please' and 'thank you' and 'excuse me' become part of their everyday language. Chores are miraculously done long before reminders are even thought of. Helping hands are present every time you turn around. Even extra chores are done!

For instance, Derek attempted to organize my Tupperware cupboard. This boy has to be given credit for having enough nerve just to open the door...

I'm taken aback and thrilled now every time I open it and can find the lid I'm looking for.

Rachael, without prompting, decided to tidy my bathroom for me.

At first I didn't notice her clever rearranging job. I was taken by surprise when I turned and automatically reached to the left for the pump to get some hand lotion, only to get a squirt of Scope instead. It too, I discovered too late, has a pump of its own.

I admit to moving it back to its original place on the shelf for fear that if I didn't, Fred would be gargling with a mouthful of Vaseline Intensive Care.

It seems weeks before Christmas the kids are everywhere, washing, dusting, cleaning, organizing. I am not fooled by what motivates them.

There is no doubt they are just racking up the points with Santa Claus...but I'm loving every minute of it.

Enthusiastic audience not banking on unexpected guest appearance

By Susan Mosciak

With a song in his step, Gary Guthman sauntered on stage, brought a polished trumpet to his lips and took his audience on a trip down Memory Lane.

Behind Guthman, the Man With The Horn, was the Tribute Orchestra (15 piece) and a piano player to complement the superb music of his trumpet.

Unexpectedly and much to the delight of the crowd the piano player, for the special show brought to town by Drayton Valley Presents last week, was Edmontonian Tommy Banks.

Together, they wooed the audience with the "big band sound" in a tribute to Harry James (trumpet balladeer in the '40s).

Guthman won the hearts of the people with his music and his casual, friendly personality.

He walked off the stage and down into the crowd to talk with the audience and danced briefly with a woman before returning to the stage.

Music to fall in love by...and with Romance was rampant and with each piece the orchestra played, one could picture the hero and heroine in the "happily ever after" part of an old black-and-white movie.

"The music takes me back before my time," said Guthman. "It always makes people feel good. It's good, fun, happy."

"That should be the mandate of music is to make them happy and make them feel good."

He said he has never danced with anyone during a performance before. "I never do that," he said. "It just seemed like the thing to do."

His dance partner, Isabelle Cawthorne, was ecstatic after the show. "It was absolutely fantastic. I love the big band sound."

Cawthorne was also thrilled about getting Tommy Banks's autograph.

Banks said he played in Drayton Valley a few times in the late '50s. "It's a very different place. That's one of the reasons I was interested in coming here. It's an amazing change — the streets are paved," he laughed.

To his credit he has a television show, he recorded the equivalent of about eight albums for the Calgary Olympics, does feature films, televisions concerts, studio work and recording.

More recently he acted in a television movie called Small Sacrifices. "I was in it for a blink," he said.

Banks and Guthman work together often. "We've been all over the world together."

The pair were in the first jazz band to appear in China since the 1949 revolution.

He said the music business provides variety. "That's one of the nicest things. You don't have to have blinkers on — it's always different."

And music with a difference was what he and the orchestra provided to the many fortunate listeners.

Banks, Guthman and the Tribute Orchestra: music to fall in love by...and with.

Gary Guthman — The Man With The Horn

Tommy Banks was an unexpected surprise.

Refining natural gas to liquid sulfur

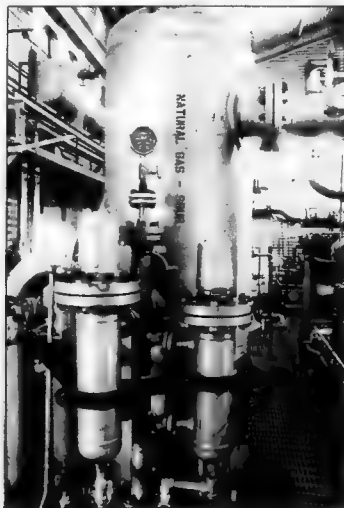

The process of turning sour and sweet gases into valuable liquid sulfur is the main goal of a natural gas refinery.

A tour of Amoco's West Pembina natural gas plant and the Brazeau natural gas plant proved to be a tremendous educational experience.

From the wellhead, to the truck where the liquid sulfur is poured and transported, natural gases go through a maze of pipeline and refining processes.

The extraction of sulfur from natural gases and the transformation of sulfur into a yellow liquid is the purpose of a natural gas plant.

The natural gas cycle eventually ends at the home where heat consumers take full advantage of the natural gas process.

A tank where sour gas and liquid are separated.

Amoco's West Pembina plant: expansion is planned which will double the size of the plant.

Northern forest development: new boom or bust?

A column on environmental and global issues of local concerns here in the Drayton Valley-MD of Brasseau area. Prepared by members of the Pembina Institute for Appropriate Development.

By Donna Haukedal

The Alberta government in the past two years has decided to hand over more than one-half of our northern forests to the multinational forest fibre industry in forest management area (FMA).

FMA are large tracts of public forest land locked up in priority use for fibre extraction. No public input has been allowed in any of the decisions to grant this public land to the companies involved.

Wilderness and wildlife concerns ignored

Many critics complain the province lacks a comprehensive forest management policy to guide forest harvesting, reforestation or silviculture practices in a way that will assure sustainable use of the forest. The development planning process for the north has ignored concerns about wildlife management and other uses of the wilderness such as recreation. The harvesting will be exclusively for pulp production.

Most of the companies are foreign owned, and the pulp will be exported to countries such as Japan for the production of the finished product. Thus most of the jobs that go with using up our forest resources are also being exported to other countries where all of the processing and finishing will occur.

The Alberta Pacific Industries (ALPAC) mill (a subsidiary of Mitsubishi Hanushu Co. of Japan) will harvest 100,000 square kilometres in the Athabasca area alone. It will be a kraft mill, the kind creating excessive amounts of toxic chemicals such as dioxins and furans. This type of mill is considered outdated in most other industrialized parts of the world, and many countries will not allow them. Regardless of this Alberta intends to go ahead with the world's largest kraft mill.

The government has begun public hearings on ALPAC. However, environmental impact assessments (done by ALPAC) are only required on the mill site itself, and do not include examining the impact on the harvesting area. Clear cutting is the most destructive form of timber harvesting. Aspen grows much faster and matures much earlier than spruce, and will not be ready for harvesting at the same time. Reforestation the two species More forest development pg 5

Environment important issue

Environmental issues are taking on a growing public importance as people begin to understand the serious impact various environmental problems will have on their health, quality of life, jobs and economic future.

The Pembina Institute is a Drayton Valley-based organization which has been working on research and education in environmental and global issues for the past four years. Institute members hope to provide Western Review readers with ideas about how some of these issues affect us.

And of equal importance, we will provide some thoughts on what people who are concerned about the environmental health of our community, and our planet, can do as individuals to make a difference.

Real solutions have to take into account the views and needs of everyone affected in environmental questions. The institute welcomes inquiries for more information. Give us a call at 542-6272.

Some of the information and ideas will be widely accepted, while others may be more controversial. This week's topic is probably of the latter category.

We hope readers who disagree will say so, and reply in the letters to the editor, or to us directly.

HATS OFF TO OUR HEROES

A "sense of responsibility" moved Ben Grenier to join the local fire department one month ago.

Grenier spent 13 years as a volunteer EMT with an ambulance service in Saskatchewan, and also had some previous industrial firefighting experience.

Joining this department has given him "a chance to meet a different bunch of boys and learn new techniques."

"You get the sense of wanting to help," Grenier says. "You don't do it because you like it, it's because somebody else needs you. When somebody needs help — you do it."

For Grenier, much satisfaction comes when somebody he has helped remembers him and thanks him for a job well done.

Most fire deaths in home

Of the 40 fire deaths which occurred in Alberta in 1988, 88 per cent of these were in homes. These are among statistics outlined in the 1988 Fire Commissioner's Statistical Report.

In releasing these figures, Labor Minister Elaine McCoy expressed concern: "These statistics indicate Albertans need to take greater fire safety precautions around their homes, and especially to educate their children about the hazards of fire."

One-third of all home fire deaths were attributed to either children playing with fire or misuses of smokers' material. "It is also somewhat alarming that 54 per cent of these homes where these fires occurred had no smoke alarms," adds McCoy. "And of the homes that did have smoke alarms, the alarms did not activate in 36 per cent of the incidents."

Causes for the alarms not activating were no power source (either the batteries were dead or there were no batteries in the alarm or the electricity was turned off) or the amount of smoke was inadequate to set off the alarm.

Boom or bust cont'd

Part of the proposed remedy is to poison competitor species with herbicides. These aerial-sprayed poisons are not only a threat to the health of humans and wildlife, but may also cause the young spruce to become susceptible to disease.

By committing such large segments of our public lands to foreign-owned industry using it for a short-term source of raw pulp fibre, will the well-being of our forests, wildlife and the residents of Alberta be looked after? And what is the big rush? The value of the forest is only going to increase as more and more of it is destroyed around the world.

Northern forest development has some major economic implications for all of us taxpayers too. At a time when the pulp and paper industry is reporting slumping profits and overcapacity, the Alberta government is providing it with the sum of one billion dollars in publicly-funded debentures and guarantees, plus promises of hundreds of millions more.

They have also been permitted some of the lowest stumpage rates in the developed world, so we are virtually giving away the forests.

How often can Alberta taxpayers afford to bank roll huge corporations in unprofitable enterprises, especially when we are left with the mess and the environmental destruction while most of the benefits leave the province?

Next: The Alberta Pacific (AL-PAC) Environmental Impact Assessment and public hearings. Would you get involved?

Museum encourages public input

Reynolds-Alberta Museum representative Jane Fullerton of Wetaakiwin told Battle River Tourist Association (BRTA) members the museum is seeking input on what the public may expect to see in the new museum; what they may want to view and what kinds of exhibits, programs, or activities one might expect to see at the new Reynolds-Alberta Museum.

Fullerton circulated a one-page questionnaire to members attending the Nov. 16 meeting in Sherwood Park. Association manager Sylvia Clemens encourages the public to get involved in the planning process. "The museum is the single largest tourism facility to ever be developed in Battle River Country and it's neat that the museum people have come to the public for input into the exhibit program development," said Clemens.

According to Lori Stewart, marketing manager for the museum, often museums are developed, opened to the public and people are disappointed; they don't see what they expected.

"We don't want that to happen; we want to find out what people want and expect," said Stewart.

Anyone wanting to complete the questionnaire may obtain a form by contacting Lori Stewart, Reynolds-Alberta Museum in Wetaakiwin (262-1351).

Alberta canola prices expected to improve

Starting in December, Alberta canola prices should begin to improve with both higher futures prices and narrower basis levels forecasts an Alberta Agriculture market analyst.

Charlie Pearson predicts Alberta canola prices to be in the $275- to $285-per-tonne range over the winter. "This improvement reflects a much tighter supply-demand balance from this year's smaller canola crop," he says in a quarterly oilseed situation and outlook.

Statistics Canada currently estimates Canadian canola production at 3.2 million tonnes, 27 per cent lower than the 4.3 million tonnes produced in 1988. Fewer seeded acres and average yields eight per cent lower than in 1988 account for the decreased production.

Canola exports are forecast to be two million tonnes, similar to the 1988-89 export total. Declines in exports to Japan and Mexico are expected to be offset by increasing exports to the United States.

Internationally, Pearson says, there is more potential for vegetable oil prices to improve than meal prices. "Given canola has a higher oil content than soybeans, canola prices are expected to increase more than soybeans."

Flaxseed prices will also be high through the winter he says. Assuming improved conditions in Saskatchewan and Manitoba, flaxseed prices are then expected to decline during the spring.

Home of the Week

The affordable home is "not a thing of the past."

This beautiful 1,200-square-foot bungalow is completely finished with a bath up and down. Classic charm and style are evident throughout. The double detached garage is really going to be appreciated this winter.

The floor plan of this exciting home features three bedrooms upstairs while the basement boasts two more bedrooms and a three-piece bath. The family room, also located downstairs, projects quiet evenings with family and friends quietly visiting around the fireplace.

Several appliances are included to add value and economy for the potential purchaser. Priced at $92,500, and with all the added fixtures, this home won't last long. For more information and your private showing, please call Ventures Realty, Royal LePage Associate member at 542-4800 and ask for the salesperson of your choice.

Seniors' whist games going well

Catholic Church closes

Due to more older priests retiring and fewer young priests leaving the seminaries the Catholic Church has re-defined its boundaries.

This has led to the Buck Lake Catholic Church closing its doors for the last time Oct. 25.

Servicing will be held at the churches in Drayton Valley and Winfield. Anyone needing the immediate assistance of a priest is asked to call St. Margaret's Church in Rimbey.

New owners

Bill, Yvonne, Scott, Mark and Gina Chubey are the new owners of the Buck Lake Store, as of Nov. 1.

Buck Lake

By Joan Elmont

Kate Welsh and Dan Weber visited their mother, Muriel Weber, Nov. 5 to wish her a happy 65th birthday. She visited with Pearl Schenk and a few friends for a birthday supper.

Robert Dale, a professional storyteller, used his gift to spell-bind Buck Lake school students Nov. 10.

Seniors news

Whist games are going well at the Buck Lake Drop-In Centre. Last week, Bill Richmond won the men's high and Alex Danyluk won the men's low. The ladies' high went to Mae Perkinson with the ladies' low going to Doris Larson.

Seniors — please mark your calendars.

The Buck Lake seniors' pot-luck Christmas supper will be held Sunday, Dec. 3 at 6 p.m. at the Buck Lake hall.

Alder Flats News

Janice Elder was the lucky winner of a draw for $100 worth of groceries from the Lucky Dollar.

Several local ladies held an open house Nov. 9 for a pre-Christmas gift buying day. Winners of the door prizes included Helen Tomkins, Lorraine Moore, Ivy Kellgren, Joyce Hayduk, Brenda Miller and Dennice Melin.

'In Jesus all things hold together'

Cookies, tarts, cakes, whispered secrets, antipasto, arts and crafts, the hustle, bustle and lively chatter of Christmas bazaars all herald the festive season of Christmas.

Advent is here, God's alarm sounds the note, we are a visited planet. God has walked on spaceship earth.

From a crude manger in Bethlehem the Angelic Choir announced the birth of God's own Son. Now, that is good news and the Apostle Paul says, "In Jesus all things hold together." (Colossians 1:17)

In these days of fractured families, disintegrating relationships, when everything seems to be coming apart it is good to hear that Jesus is the adhesive that holds all things together.

In every life there comes times when our world falls apart, often with a loud noise and much disruption and trauma. A divorce, loss of a job, the death of someone near and dear, an accident... major disruptions that pull us apart.

In Jesus, God gathers us together from our isolation, hurts and brokenness. In Jesus, God reaches out to heal our hurts and hold us together.

Planned famine fundraiser for underprivileged countries

As many as 25 youths will be participating in a planned famine at the Calvary Baptist Church Dec. 1 and 2 to raise funds for World Vision.

The youths and adult sponsors will commit themselves to go without food for up to 30 hours. Water and clear fluids will be available for the participants.

Funds pledged for this famine will go towards hunger relief and fresh water wells in underprivileged countries.

Last year this program raised nearly $1,300 that went towards irrigation and fresh water well projects in north central Africa.

Youth pastor Tim Lees is asking people to give generously to this worthy program.

He said one of the best things about World Vision is that it is attempting to help the less fortunate countries to become self-sufficient.

A jubilant Lawrence Duperron displays his Citizen of the Year award.

Citizen of the Year Duperron 'speechless'

By Susan Mosicki

A surprised and extremely proud Lawrence Duperron stepped forward to claim the Citizen of the Year award to honor his outstanding contribution to the town and youth of Drayton Valley.

"It's really rewarding. I'm speechless. I'll cherish this for a long time."

Duperron, who has 17 brothers and sisters, said he learned to box at the dinner table.

He has been the boxing coach in Drayton Valley for 31 years, and was recently distinguished as an Alberta Coach of the Year.

"Sometimes you want to give up — when you lose a good boy — when he moves or something," Duperron said. "But you keep going."

Through Sports Alberta he has hosted a training camp in Drayton Valley for the past two years that has been attended by boys from all over Alberta.

In 1961, he took the Canadian boxing team to Miami for the North American Games. He worked with Sugar Ray Leonard who was at that time still an amateur, and trained in Mohammed Ali's gym.

Duperron has also coached baseball, been the president of the gymkana club for two years, and judged 4-H and other horse shows.

He has been married for 38 years and has six children and 11 grandchildren.

George Bengquist won the chamber's Citizen of the Year award last year.

The award was presented last Wednesday during the chamber's annual meeting.

No injuries in explosion

Less than six months after an explosion at the Pembina Educational Consortium, Dial Oilfield Services shop experienced a similar, although less devastating blast last Friday.

At least three people were in the shop at the time but miraculously no one was injured when the Dial tank truck hatch blew, ripping a large gash in the truck and shop roof.

Fire Chief Sheldon Fuson said the tank truck had been steamed, but gas fumes ignited when "they were working at the rear of the truck welding and grinding on the frame."

Alberta Occupational Health and Safety has been notified and the Drayton Valley Fire Department will be investigating. Cost estimate of damage has not yet been determined.

Pembina dam project raises environmental concerns

By Paul Cudla

Alberta Environment is currently conducting a 'flood plain management study' for the Pembina River which will examine the feasibility of building a dam on the river.

The proposed dam, and the manner in which the study has been handled publicly, has local environmentalist Rob MacIntosh agitated and concerned.

"I think the basic issue is it looks like sneaking through the pipeline is another dam project," MacIntosh said.

MacIntosh, who heads the Pembina Institute out of Drayton Valley, has made appeals to Minister of Public Works, Supply, and Services Ken Kowalski but has received no logical information on the flood plain study.

"In a recent letter from Mr. Kowalski he confirmed the engineering and economic studies of the Entwistle dam site are being updated and seriously considered, but failed to provide any of the technical information we requested," MacIntosh said.

The original Pembina Dam study was conducted in 1969 and targets a dam site of one mile upstream of Entwistle.

Kowalski estimated the dam would cost $160 million and would have a reservoir of 11,500 acres in a speech made at his home constituency of Barrhead on January 30, 1987.

"I'm prepared to do some fighting about water management," Kowalski 1979.

In that same speech, Kowalski addressed a dam lobby group consisting of 175 people and vowed his support for a flood-control dam.

"What I'm about to say here today will cause me a lot of pain, grief, and frustration over the next few years," Kowalski said prophetically during the 1987 meeting, "but I'm prepared to do some fighting about water management."

Kowalski, former environment minister, rallied the Barrhead dam lobby group by saying, "I'm delighted the association has been re-activated — I encourage the association to get out there and beat the bushes and increase its membership from 120 to hundreds."

Kowalski's support for the Pembina dam in 1987 was buoyed by the apparent success of the Paddle River Dam which runs about two miles south of Barrhead into the Pembina River.

MacIntosh feels Kowalski's support for the dam is biased.

"Kowalski is unlikely to make an unbiased and economically sensible decision on this one, as he has already made public his support for the dam in response to the small but vocal lobby from within his own constituency."

"Too many other dams have been built in this province without a proper assessment

Four people from Amoco's production services group in Tulsa, Oklahoma visited the Drayton Valley office recently.

They were in town to review a pilot project on a hand-held computer designed by engineer Robin Gill. Gill, who now works in Amoco's Calgary office, designed the computer before the merger. He sold the idea to the company who developed it from that point.

Mayor Tom McGee says the town plans to pave the parking lot behind the curling rink as part of their downtown revitalization.

The team will be playing again Saturday in Westlock.

Farm family earns well-deserved recognition

By Susan Mosciak
A Violet Grove family was the recipient of the Farm Family of the Year award presented at the chamber of commerce annual meeting last week.

Cliff and Audrey Whitelock were flabbergasted when announced as the lucky couple. "It was a complete surprise," said Cliff. "They told me I was coming to make a speech."

Both Cliff and Audrey were raised on farms. Cliff's family moved to Alaska in 1939, taking two weeks to trail their herd of 200 sheep from the Hardisty district.

After the couple married they lived in the Buck Creek area and then Cynthia until 1963.

Cliff caught wild horses, enabling the couple to buy a farm in Violet Grove where they still farm. They have a very successful mixed farming operation and have one of the best commercial beef herds in the area.

Like many farmers, Cliff worked off the farm as a battery operator for several years. He would haul a horse around in the back of his truck to get into the leases.

The Whitelocks have practiced sound farming procedures. Their habit of keeping detailed records was of great benefit to provincial agriculture after the Ledgepole blow-out in 1982.

Through their practice and production records they were able to demonstrate the short- and long-term effects of H₂S (sour gas) and sulfur dioxide on agriculture production in the affected area.

They were instrumental in forming and leading the Pembina Agriculture Protection Association and worked hard to make the organization a valuable component in the agriculture/oil and gas industry.

They have also been active in community organizations such as Rural Crime Watch and the Drayton Valley Agricultural Society.

The community, their friends and neighbors felt recognition of their contributions, efforts and dedication to the farming industry is well-deserved.

of the real costs and benefits and we trust that Mr. Kowalski will not do this one any differently," MacIntosh said.

Included in proper assessment is the need for public hearings and consultation on the proposed dam according to MacIntosh.

"It's unfortunate it seems to be Mr. Kowalski in charge of this project. My personal feeling is that Environment Minister Klein is committed to proper consultation and environmental assessment, however Mr. Kowalski has a long history of ignoring environmental concerns and for mistaking public relations for public consultation."

MacIntosh said the Pembina Institute's next step in fighting the proposed dam will be to "appeal to Klein to persuade his colleague that before building this dam, he better initiate a proper public consultation and environmental impact assessment."

MacIntosh stressed both an environmental and an economic concern relating to the Pembina dam.

"A dam on the Pembina river would have significant impact on residents in the Evansburg and Drayton Valley area, many who use the river in its present wild state."

"Of equal importance is that in times of rising government deficits Albertans cannot afford a $160 million pet-project for Mr. Kowalski."

A&W wins business award

The A&W restaurant was awarded the prestigious Small Business of the Year award at last week's chamber of commerce annual meeting.

They were nominated because of the support they have given many local groups and projects, including Alberta highway clean-ups, Girl Guides, new car give-away, schools, figure skating and swim teams, and more.

Accepting the award were owners Oscar and June Swec. Oscar was overwhelmed and said only, "You all know what this means, thank-you."

The A&W was selected from several nominations by a panel of four judges.

Normal December temps

It will start off unseasonably warm this week and then temperatures will settle into a more reasonable December chill as winter gears up for four more months of ice and snow.

Tuesday: cloudy with showers in the morning changin to flurries in the afternoon; High: 20, Low: -5C.

Wednesday: mainly sunny; High: -4C, Low: -12C.

Thursday: mostly cloudy with a 40 per cent chance of flurries; High: -3C, Low: -12C.

Friday: mostly cloudy; High: -3C, Low: -12C.

Chamber president chosen

More than 100 people attended the Drayton Valley and District Chamber of Commerce annual general meeting last week to cast their ballots.

Eighty-two ballots were cast and Linda Bennett of Woodland Chrysler Jeep edged out her opponent John Mulligan of Mulligan Insurance.

Mulligan will take the bridesmaid's seat as first vice-president.

Much to the amusement of the crowd, the returning officers collected the ballots in Budweiser beer cases.

Lawrence Duperron was presented with the Citizen of the Year award for his outstanding contribution to Drayton Valley and its youth; Cliff and Audrey Whitelock were presented with the Farm Family of the Year Award and A&W restaurant (Oscar and June Swec) went home with the Small Business of the Year award.

Bennett was excited about her election victory. "Thank you very much for your support," she told chamber members. "I'm speechless. I'm not very often speechless, you know."

She is taking over from Grant Monsour, past-president, who held the position for the last two years.

Before the election, Bennett told the crowd, "I'm confident that I can make a strong contribution to the chamber because I have the will and the spirit — the determination and the enthusiasm to lend to the position of president."

"Please give me your support," Bennett added. "Because I love Drayton Valley."

Linda Bennett playfully accepts congratulations from past-president Grant Monsour.

Pembina consortium to expand soon

The Pembina Educational Consortium may be expanding.

Dr. Mike Andrews, chairman of the board of directors for the consortium says they have received requests from Fox Creek, Westlock and Wetaskiwin.

However, programs in Fox Creek and Westlock will be limited due to a lack of funds.

Concerning Wetaskiwin, Andrews says it hasn't been decided who will serve their needs.

Andrews is keeping his fingers crossed the provincial government will free up at least $80,000 to provide some sort of programs in Fox Creek and Westlock.

Pembina's board of directors is working on a proposal whereby it would be in a position to hire another executive person. They would work out of Whitecourt and handle programs in that community along with Fox Creek and Westlock.

Joe MacLellan, the executive director, looks after Drayton Valley and Rocky Mountain House and oversees the entire operation.

No money for 50 Street

By Frank Ryan

Town council would like to see 50 St. widened.

Mayor Tom McGee and council discussed that possibility with Transportation Minister Al Adair during last week's Alberta Urban Municipalities Association (AUMA) convention in Edmonton.

Council would like to see 50 St., just past Woodland Chrysler, widened south all the way to the main highway. Concern has also been expressed about a blind spot on the road.

"Strictly for safety reasons," the mayor says.

However, the town will have to come up with a proposal first.

And, they will also have to get some support for their proposal.

McGee hopes to discuss the widening with the municipal district. "I'm not sure if it's a priority with them or not," he says.

Town council went into their meeting with Adair to see if there was any provincial funding available for the project.

"They don't have any money," the mayor says.

Apparently when 50 St. was originally widened, funds came from a resources road grant. Unfortunately, that grant doesn't exist any more.

During their 15-minute meeting with Adair, council also discussed some work on the entrances to town at both ends of 50 St.

During the AUMA convention council also met with Fred McDougall, Alberta general manager for Weyerhaeuser.

The mayor expects Weyerhaeuser to make some announcements in the next couple of months on plans for their Pelican Mills operation in Drayton Valley.

They also spoke with Bill Casey from Alberta Parks and Recreation about their five-year recreation plan and possible funding for the curling rink.

Bylaw receives first reading

First reading of a bylaw to reclassify the quarter section at the corner of Highway 22 and 50 St., across from Greenwood Mobile Home Park was given at a town council meeting last week.

The quarter will be changed from commercial-vehicle oriented to commercial-mixed light industry.

Opinions

December busy time for most people

This is a busy time of the year.

With Christmas parties, shopping, putting up the lights and for some, arranging travel plans. There's also a lot of good community projects that surface this month.

Santas Anonymous, now in its 12th year, swings into gear in an effort to help the less fortunate.

Linda Thompson, supported by a cast of volunteers, collects new toys and money to purchase food for hampers.

Later this month they will put out a call to volunteers. They are needed to fill the hampers and in some cases, deliver toys for the children and ample food for a Christmas meal.

Ninety-seven families received help via Santas Anonymous last Christmas.

Both residential and commercial outlets get into the spirit by decorating their yards and window fronts.

They are rewarded with gifts from the chamber for the best in several categories.

A Snowman Lane was created on the lawns of more than a dozen homes along 43rd Street last year. It resulted in steady streams of onlookers throughout the entire festive season.

The increased number of Christmas lights is most appreciated by our seniors, who for the past three years have participated in a bus tour around town.

This is arranged annually by Danny Thompson.

So you can see, most everyone will be busy this month.

Armchair quarterback prefers TV to real thing

I've always enjoyed my TV sports.

But, I must admit, I do get the odd desire to take in the real thing.

Recently, I had the opportunity to purchase a couple of Otter/Chicago Black Hawk tickets. So, it was off to Northlands Coliseum.

It wasn't long before I realized why I like being an armchair quarterback.

Despite being a Sunday evening game, there was plenty of traffic. Vehicles cutting in and out, with no place to go.

Then, there was the hassle of getting into the right lane to turn into the Coliseum and pay $4 to park my van. Fortunately we got one of the last spots.

Next was the push to get into the Coliseum.

Frankly Speaking

By Frank Ryan

The best method for walking around the Coliseum is to put your hands in your pockets and stick out your elbows. It's the best defence against getting bowled over.

If you plan on getting something to eat before the game, try Champs, instead of the concession stands. It will be well worth the extra cost.

Our seats for the Chicago game were great.

We only had to contend with two guys next to us, who smelled like a brewery and a guy behind us, who described each and every play to his female companion.

At least that was better than another group from Drayton Valley, who were subjected to some kid behind them throwing up several times during the contest.

Despite all these little things, we're pretty fortunate to be within a 100 miles of an NHL franchise.

Stop nit-picking Joe!

Dear Editor,

Earlier this month, Yellowhead MP Joe Clark stated the Senate election process in Alberta was only possible because of the Meech Lake Accord.

As is so often the case, Mr. Clark's view is not the Alberta view or the view of the vast majority of Albertans who participated in the Alberta Senate election.

Senate reform, and the concept of electing senators rather than having them appointed by the prime minister, was under discussion in Alberta long before Meech Lake.

Groups like the Canada West Foundation and Triple E Senate Committee recommended Senate elections be held under provincial rather than federal laws, long before Meech Lake.

The right of Albertans (and other Canadians) to choose who represents them in the Upper House of the Canadian parliament is rooted not in the Meech Lake Accord but in the unwritten portions of our constitution which affirm the democratic right of Canadians to choose their own representatives in parliament.

All over the world (surely Mr. Clark knows this), people are asserting their right to democratize undemocratic institutions. They are doing so with or without constitutional accords approved by the executive level of government.

While the Meech Lake Accord did influence the shape and nature of the Alberta Senate Selection Act,

I am convinced that sooner or later Alberta would have held a Senate election in any event.

Mr. Clark should stop nit-picking and get on with the business of fairly and accurately representing Alberta's constitutional interests in parliament.

He should make his continued support of Meech Lake conditional upon meaningful Senate reform, and should be urging the prime minister to respect the democratic wishes of Albertans by appointing Stan Waters to the Senate immediately.

E. Preston Manning, Leader
Reform Party of Canada

Reader claims Klein buckled to pressure

Dear Editor,

In your article on the front page of last week's Western Review, Environment Minister Ralph Klein claims it was the government of Alberta that created the environmental review board that is hearing testimony concerning ALPAC's proposal for a pulp and paper mill to be constructed on the Athabasca River.

It should be noted the government only agreed to the environmental review after intense and constant pressure from environmental groups and the federal environment department. Up until Mr. Klein gave in to the pressure, the mill was scheduled to go ahead without any environmental studies being conducted and without any public input into the process.

Fortunately, Mr. Klein recognized the anxiousness Albertans felt about this project, and agreed to let concerned citizens and groups have a say.

Now the Minister of Forestry, Lands and Wildlife, LeRoy Fjordbotten needs to get a dose of Mr. Klein's openness, and release details of the recently signed forestry management agreements. He should guarantee full public involvement in the development of plans for forest harvesting operations.

As people in Drayton Valley know, the energy industry is required to have every aspect of their projects open to public scrutiny. Why are the rules different for the forest industry?

Andrew Bachelder

Shop local or lose

Dear Editor,

Here is it, that time of the year when we are doing our best to promote local shopping.

We even have someone in our chamber of commerce who wanted to do something to help with this type of promotion...Christmas cheques.

Interest-free shopping at home. What a wonderful idea.

Now I realize that not every business is going to benefit by this. However, local businessmen and employees alike, should be the ones to set the best examples.

It is rather unfortunate the people who are the most dependant on the local economy are the first ones to have that "I can buy it cheaper somewhere else" attitude.

I lived in a small town for a short while where this type of attitude was predominant. Within one year I saw four small businesses close their doors permanently.

So what happens to the employees of these businesses? Is the economic base large enough for these people to find jobs locally?

We all want sefection, service and availability. Without local support, we lose what we want most.

Give the best this Christmas — a gift of your time

Christmas is almost here — that glorious time of loving, sharing, giving, and togetherness.

It is also a time of high stress for those who don't have the money to provide the kind of Christmas they would like for their family. Every year, people spend well over their family budget getting that perfect gift for everyone on their Christmas list.

Many rely on charge cards to provide the "right" kind of Christmas. For some, this leads to heavy financial problems in the new year. But, the reasons for the high-spending are right.

There is Aunt Sally, who has done so much for you, and Grandma, who you maybe don't see very often but want her to know how much she is loved. And Dad...you can still remember climbing on his knee to hear that bed-time story for the hundredth time.

How can you not give them the very best?

How can you "cheap-out" on those you love so much? But, does Aunt Sally really use that expensive perfume, does Grandma eat those imported chocolates, or does Dad need another watch?

Comment

By Susan Mosciak

This year, if you really can't afford expensive presents, and even if you can, try giving something they'll all want — a gift of your time.

Imported chocolates are nice, but Grandma would probably get more of a thrill out of spending a day with you in the country, walking, or just a visit to her home, a chance to talk with the one she loves.

Aunt Sally probably appreciates and likes the perfume, but maybe she's been really housebound lately and would like a little break, out of the house and away from the children, with Uncle Bill. Maybe you could give her a card saying you will babysit for an evening to give her that opportunity.

And so what if you don't play golf? Challenge Dad to a game next season. Give him a chance to teach you and spend some time alone with you.

Young or old, the list is endless for what you can give to the one you love.

Maybe you still want to give that costly gift, but if not, or if you can't, try giving a gift of time;

It's a priceless alternative.

Rural post office place where neighbors catch-up on news

Mr. Lloyd Milton
Canada Post Corporation
Dear Lloyd,

I was quite surprised by your recent letter to the editor of The Western Review attempting to justify the Canada Post decision to no longer allow the Review to ask questions of local residents inside the (Drayton Valley) post office.

Having occasionally met you, I know you to be a reasonable individual. One or two complaints would hardly justify banning the local paper from Canada Post property. Getting opinions from people on various subjects is hardly a subversive or disruptive activity.

Being a former resident of Drayton Valley, I know that local input on important issues, whether they be international, national, or local, is important. It allows readers of the paper to get an idea of how issues are seen in their communities.

The post office in rural towns and villages is where people meet friends and neighbors and chat and catch up on news. I myself have been asked to be on camera for my opinion and although I denied the request, I felt good about being asked. And when denied, the reporters were very cooperative, and didn't pursue the matter with me.

You know that here in Edmonton the media goes into shopping malls and other premises with hardly an eyebrow raised. Canada Post has enough public relations problems, particularly with the closings of many rural post offices. Now this decision will only further alienate Canada Post from this community. You may also want to remember it is all of us who own Canada Post, and your decision certainly does not reflect that fact.

I respectfully urge you to reconsider this decision and work to become more a part of the community you serve.

Drug screening hits town

By Paul Cudla
Flint Engineering and Construction and Flint Rig Ltd. has established a drug-screening program which proposes to make Flint a safer place of employment.

The drug-screening program becomes effective Jan. 1, and consists of random bi-annual screening of all Flint employees. Flint has a total of 64 employees in their rig and construction departments in Drayton Valley.

Ron Klammer, manager of Flint Rig, sees drug-screening as a positive step in battling any drug-abuse that may occur within the well-service company.

"We feel that the employee has a right to work in a safe atmosphere and environment. This is one way to ensure that safe environment," Klammer said.

Klammer added well-service work "notoriously has a higher rate of accidents."

"It's a very simple thing, if you have employees out there working in dangerous situations, they need to have their wits about them."

Flint is one of the few well-service businesses which are conducting drug-screening.

The purpose for the drug-screening as stated in a letter from Flint president R.H. Shannon is, "to identify the person who abuses drugs to the extent that the abuse will have a detrimental effect on the performance of his or her job."

Shannon's letter also cites "persons using cannabis on a regular basis often create problems that cannot be tolerated by even the most lenient management or co-workers. Exhaustive studies prove that those who abuse drugs have up to seven times the number of personal injury accidents and eight times the number of vehicle accidents that non-abusers do."

Klammer said he expected a two-prong response to the drug-screening process, the first being that "the employees who are not using drugs are going to be positive."

The second response being "those employees who are using will look at it as an invasion of privacy."

Thus far though, Klammer has received only "positive feedback" from employees within Flint Rig.

Santas Anonymous now underway

This year's Santas Anonymous program is now underway and organizer Linda Thompson said there will be more needy families than last year to provide hampers and gifts for this Christmas.

Thompson has been involved in the program for more than 14 years and said she keeps doing it "for the kids."

Looking at her grandchildren and seeing how lucky they are, she wants to "give a little bit back" to those less fortunate.

She said Santas Anonymous will need help again this year sorting gifts into age groups, sorting groceries and filling gift boxes. It will all be done at the Legion hall Dec. 21, 22, and 23.

"If you've got some time, come to the Legion on these three days," she encouraged.

She also said that anyone who knows anybody in need of a Christmas hamper could contact her at 542-4509.

This year, gifts can be dropped off at the Legion lounge, Brendan New and Used, Venture Realty, IGA, Poplar Ridge store, Royal Bank, Treasury Branch, Toronto-Dominion Bank, Westwind Motor Inn, Black Gold Inn, Town & Country Tire, the Beehive, and the White Bull Steak House.

Chamber light-up contest set to go again this year

Seeing all the local homemakers, couch potatoes, business people, blue collar workers, armchair athletes, and others on their roofs with strings of Christmas lights in their hands will be a familiar sight in the next week or so.

They'll all be getting into the Christmas spirit and hoping to win the annual chamber of commerce Christmas light-up contest.

Director Neil Harskamp said judging will be Dec. 12 and 13 and will be done in three categories: businesses, in-town residences and rural residences.

Harskamp and chamber president Linda Bennett will be doing the judging.

The home decorating will be judged on the nicest make-up or lay-out and "who put the most into it," said Harskamp. There will be a first and second prize in each category.

Harskamp stressed that businesses and rural residences must call the chamber office before Dec. 8 if wishing to participate.

The Frank Maddock peer support group. The first of its kind at the local school.

FMHS establishes support group

Frank Maddock high school has established its first peer support group in an effort to help students cope with the ever-increasing pressures teens will face in the '90s.

A group of 13 students have been selected from interviews, and applications who reflect a cross-section of the school's different social groups.

"It provides a group of students with communication and listening skills while building their self-esteem, and hopefully from that nucleus, spread it across the school," Joy Harrison, one of the three teachers involved in establishing the group, said.

Along with Joy Harrison, teachers Rita Daley and Vern Harrison helped set up the peer support group which is co-sponsored by AADAC and the students' union.

"I think the students need someone to talk to. They need a sympathetic ear — positive reinforcement," Joy Harrison added.

About 100 northern Alberta schools have similar peer support groups and Daley said, "from talking to other schools that have it, it has been very successful."

Janelle Riske, a student peer support group member said, "If other students have problems they come to us — like drugs, alcohol, or boyfriends and girlfriends."

The 13-student group will begin training Dec. 3 and the school hopes to have the program fully in place by February.

The three objectives of the peer support program are:

1. to have team members demonstrate a commitment to positive lifestyle with concern for their own well-being and the well-being of others.
2. to have team members demonstrate a capacity for self-directed learning and development.
3. to have team members enhance their capacity for successfully managing their own lives by actively developing a broad range of competencies.

Oil Caps capture third win

By Paul Cudla

The Drayton Valley Oil Capitals stormed out to a 4-0 lead against visiting Olds Friday night and then held on for a 5-3 win.

In beating the second-place Olds Diplomats, the Oil Caps proved they will be challengers for the Heritage Junior 'B' League title this season. The win gives the Oil Caps a three-win six-loss record.

"I guess our performance is improving every week, especially defensively...it's going in the right direction," Grant MacDonald, Oil Caps coach, said.

Drayton Valley jumped out to an early first-period lead as Dylan Putzenburger scored at 14:18 to make it 1-0. There was no other scoring in the first period as the teams played tight-checking hockey.

The Oil Caps dominated the second period as they scored three goals and outshot Olds 15-9.

Jason Trentchuk, Sheldon Sullivan, and Dylan Putzenburger, all scored in the second period. Sullivan's goal came via a nice deke, as he stickhandled around the Olds goalie and put the puck into the top corner of the net.

The Caps led 4-0 going into the third period.

Oil Caps goalie Norm Mallo wasn't proud of Diplomats player Pride Bensen who spoiled Mallo's potential shutout with a goal at 5:28 into the third period.

Darren Fedorus reclaimed the Oil Caps four-goal lead with a marker three minutes later that made it 5-1.

The game was stopped for 15 minutes at 11:21 of the third period when Olds goalie Kim Burk was hit squarely in the facemask by a Roland Polsfut slapshot.

Polsfut let go a blast from outside the blueline which caught Burk on the helmet. Burk was replaced by Miles Peters.

Drayton Valley seemed to let-up slightly after that as Olds scored two goals five minutes apart to make it 5-3.

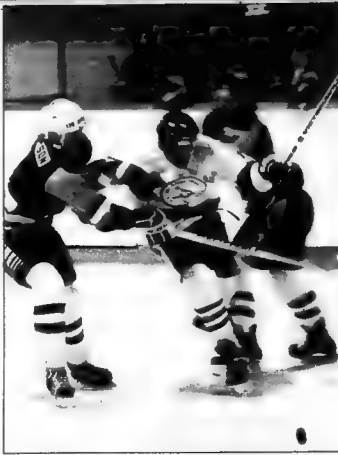

"For three minutes we sat back and watched and put them back in the game," MacDonald said.

The Caps tightened up though, and rode out the last five minutes to capture their third victory.

After the game MacDonald singled out the entire defence for their solid play.

"All our defence moved the puck well. They played the man and the forwards were coming back," MacDonald said.

The Oil Caps were forced to shorten to four defencemen — Kelly Armstrong, Darren Fedorus, Len Johnson and Darcy Heaven — when Keith Sandstrom was given a match penalty in the second period.

The Oil Caps broke through the Olds defence a few times in a 5-3 win.

Lariettes make 'B' final in tournament

By Paul Cudla

The spirit of equal opportunity was alive and well this weekend at a ladies hockey tournament held at the Drayton arena.

A total of eight female teams took to the ice in a playdown tournament which was eventually won by the Barhead Bandits.

The Bandits stole the tournament with a 5-2 win over the Brooks Brookettes in the 'A' side playoff.

The Drayton Valley Lariettes made it to the 'B' final but lost a 5-0 decision to the Hinton Lady Hawks.

Lariettes coach Leonard Cartwright was nonetheless impressed with the play of his team.

"I was happy with the way the kids played. They had a good work ethic and they had fun," Cartwright said.

The Lariettes made it to the 'B' final on the strength of goals for and against after a 4-1 win over Mayerthorpe and a narrow 6-5 defeat at the hands of Alder Flats. The loss to the Alder Flats Alley Cats was decided in an overtime shootout.

"It's good to see a tournament like this and it's good to see the interest it generates," Cartwright said, adding "the tournament in general went pretty smooth, everybody had a fairly good time."

The running of the

The DV Lariettes faced-off against Hinton in the final.

tournament was bolstered by the help of parents who volunteered services and time.

The Lariettes may have been slightly over-matched in the playoff, due to the fact the team is comprised of 12 girls aged 13-18 while most teams, like Hinton, have women of ages 20-plus in the lineup.

"We'd like to see more female players out. There's probably ladies out there that would like to play and we can use some more," Cartwright said.

Individual game MVPs for the Lariettes were: Alana

Jorgensen in the Hinton game; Shauna Hines against Alder Flats; and Kerri Baumann in the Mayerthorpe game.

In the 'C' final, the Thorhild Angels beat Alder Flats 8-1, while in the 'D' game the Edmonton Selects beat Mayerthorpe 5-0.

New level for coach DV Meter takes atom tournament

In appreciation

Volunteer coach
Lorne Woyanowich

By Paul Cudla

After six years of coaching mighty mite and novice league hockey Lorne Woyanowich is throwing himself head first into a completely new level of coaching.

Woyanowich has taken the position of assistant coach with the Drayton Valley junior 'B' Oil Caps.

"It's very challenging and completely different than I expected," Woyanowich said.

The major difference Woyanowich points out is the varying maturity levels encountered at the junior 'B' hockey level.

"When you get into the 18- to 19-year-olds, you get some players who are extremely dedicated and some that don't have that individual responsibility.

"Of course, you're dealing with adults who should be completely responsible for their own actions on the ice," Woyanowich said.

By taking the assistant coaching position with the Oil Caps, Woyanowich is encountering his first experience with a young-adult brand of hockey. He previously coached mighty-mite hockey for four years, and novice hockey for two years.

"All the players (at the junior level) have different styles and personalities. You have to treat them all individually.

Woyanowich got a late start on the assistant coaching position as he began with the team in late October which he said "was a difficult situation to come into."

The late start meant Woyanowich had to work hard at familiarizing himself with the players and their individual styles, strengths and weaknesses.

While the Oil Caps struggled at the start of the hockey season, Woyanowich sees the team showing signs of a turn-around.

"We're starting to see some of the players using the skills we teach them in practices.

"The team has the potential for a good nucleus for a very good team."

The Oil Caps currently have a three-win six-loss record and are coming off an impressive 5-3 win over Olds.

Woyanowich played hockey all through his youth, and began skating when he was three years old.

"I enjoy the game, it's fast and exciting. It's something to do in winter."

Assistant coach Woyanowich is encouraged by the way in which junior 'B' hockey has been revitalized in Drayton Valley by the Oil Caps management.

"I have to admire the organization for taking the initiative to want to develop a team and get players. There's been a lot of work done by management."

"Their philosophy is dedication and working hard."

The philosophy of hard work is one which Woyanowich hopes to see carried out by the players.

"I think we'll be able to turn it around with some hard work from the players."

Rick's Sporting Goods novice team beat Block's 7-2 in a game played Nov. 27.

Austin Krueger made his debut in goal and was impressive in backstopping Rick's to the win.

John Babiuk, Jeffrey Briscoe and Shaun Dunne all had two goals apiece for Rick's, while Michael Wollen scored once.

Austin Labranche and Sean Brosinski replied for Block's.

Travis Brigley was hot for the Elks' bantam 'B' team as he scored all of the team's goals in their weekend contests.

Brigley had five goals in a 6-5 loss to Westlock on Saturday in Evansburg.

Elks' took on Paul-Band on Sunday and were downed 7-1. Travis Brigley got the lone goal for the Elks' team.

The Mohawk novice team beat Evansburg 6-2 on Dec. 2.

Mohawk recovered from "jet-lag" to bounce back from a 2-0 deficit and score six unanswered goals.

Phillip Lesser scored four goals for Mohawk, and Terry Lachance and Kevin Hart also had goals.

The Mohawk team was on the losing end of an earlier game with J and A Trucking as they dropped an 8-6 game Nov. 28.

Scoring for Mohawk were: Dallas Kuzek (two goals), Terry Lachance, Kevin Hart, Phillip Lesser, and Weston Dyck.

Goal scorers for J&A were: Tyler Fox, two goals; Travis Shallock, two goals; David Zeller, Derek Guy, Nathan Turner and Steven Yurchak.

The DV Meter atom hockey team won a weekend tournament in Grande Cache over the weekend.

The tournament included six teams: Hinton, Grande Cache, Tumbler Ridge, B.C.; Drayton Valley, Grande Prairie and Sexsmith.

DV Meter finished with one win, one tie and one loss after round-robin play and ended up in fourth place. But DV Meter responded in the first semi-final game by beating first-place Tumbler Ridge 7-3.

DV Meter advanced to the final to face Grande Prairie and won the game 4-2 to take the tournament victory.

Coaches were proud of DV Meter's positional and team play.

DV Meter will play in Westlock Saturday.

Ski-patrol dedicated to safety

A group of local volunteer ski-patrollers are dedicated to making your ski-trip safe, and trouble-free.

Dave Harrison has been president of the Drayton Valley ski patrol association since 1970 providing patrol hopefuls with first-aid training and on-hill orientation.

Harrison provides a 30-hour basic rescue level first aid class which includes CPR and a three-hour on-hill instruction session that outlines safety techniques on the slopes.

While the ski-patrollers are strictly volunteers, Harrison said the motivation for those taking the course "comes from people who want to help other people, and want to maintain safe skiing on the hill."

"Their mandate is for safe skiing and search and rescue."

The local Drayton Valley ski patrol zone is a faction of the Canadian Ski Patrol System which was founded in 1940.

This year the local ski patrol is expanding to 26 from the previous 18 in order to accommodate the Nancy Green Ski League and nordic cross-country.

"We have a really good nucleus of people who have been around for a long time," Harrison said.

The six new ski-patrollers have been through 10 sessions of first-aid since November, and if the group passes the first part of the course, they will be moved on to the rigors of an on-hill 'toboggan handling' class.

Graduates of the ski-patrol program are eligible to patrol anywhere in the 'mountain zone' which encompasses all of Alberta and parts of B.C.

H.W. Pickup takes titles

H.W. Pickup took both the senior girls' and senior boys' titles at a Twin Rivers volleyball tournament held Nov. 30.

The girls' portion of the tournament was played at St. Anthony and H.W. Pickup beat second place St. Anthony in the senior class. Breton took third place in senior girls.

The St. Anthony team took top honors in the junior girls' playdowns with H.W. Pickup finishing second.

The senior boys' tournament, played at H.W. Pickup, was won by the H.W. Pickup team as they beat Breton for the title. Lindale placed third.

There was no junior boys' playdown.

Local tae kwon do club excels

Nel's Tae Kwon Do Club of Drayton Valley won a total of nine medals at an international competition held in Spruce Grove Nov. 11.

"On the whole everyone did great. Out of the small number of participants we had, everyone came back with something to show," Deryk Hamilton, Nel's club instructor, said.

The local tae kwon do club took a total of 10 competitors to the meet in Spruce Grove which featured 80 members from all over Alberta. International clubs participating were teams from California and Mexico.

"I was impressed with the effort everyone put into forms and sparring," Hamilton said.

Hamilton added the competition gave newer members a taste of what to expect and gave experienced members a chance to rate themselves at their belt level.

Medal winners from Drayton Valley were: Curtia

McGinnis, Kris Watrich (silver in yellow-belt patterns), Kris Rhine (bronze in white-belt sparring), Deryk Hamilton, (silver in welterweight black-belt sparring and bronze in patterns), Vant

Keomanivong (gold in yellow-belt sparring), Terry Regenwetter (bronze in red-belt sparring and bronze in patterns), Brad Pyrch (silver in yellow-belt sparring), and Mike Lingard (gold in lightweight black-belt sparring).

Stoll takes prestigious baseball award

George Stoll, of Wabasca-Desmarais, who has worked tirelessly to bring minor baseball to the isolated native communities of northern Alberta, is the 1989 recipient of the Carling O'Keefe Award of Merit.

He becomes the 19th winner of the top individual award in amateur baseball in Alberta.

Stoll has spent more than 40 years in baseball as a player, coach and organizer.

Due to the isolated nature of his area, Stoll has to take his teams 100 to 200 miles for regular competition.

One year, he brought six of his players to a three-hour camp by Team Alberta in Peace River. That meant a 400-mile round trip so six native youngsters could improve their baseball knowledge and skills.

Reffing peeves Janzen

Garry Janzen was mad.

Mad at the type of officiating his players had to cope with during a weekend game in Hinton.

Things got so bad, Janzen called all his players to the bench in the second period, which resulted in a stoppage of play.

"I talked to the referee and voiced my concerns. Five of our players had already been injured.

"I don't mind playing hard and losing. But that was ridiculous," he said.

Upon his return home Sunday night, Janzen was on the phone to the league director to file an official complaint.

"I've never seen officiating that bad," he added. On the ice, the bantam Oilers dropped both weekend road games.

On Saturday night they dropped a 5-3 decision to host Hinton and then Sunday afternoon came out on the short end of a 7-5 score with host Edson.

The weekend defeats leave the Oilers with a 7 and 4 record.

This Saturday Janzen takes his Oilers to Stony Plain.

No freedom for Ng

Charles Chitai Ng will not be released from prison prior to his extradition appeal being dealt with regardless whether or not his Canadian sentence has ended, Wendy Saitman, director of operations at the Department of Justice (Ottawa) said last week.

Ng, accused sex torturer/slayer, will be facing 12 charges of murder, one count of attempted murder, two counts of conspiracy to murder, one burglary charge, and three counts of kidnapping if and when extradited to the United States.

Although his sentence in Canada ends in "May or June of 1990, we can hold him here until the appeal is dealt with," Saitman said.

There is, as well, a second warrant signed pending the outcome of the appeal, she added.

Light tour a tradition

The seniors' Christmas light tour is a local event which is rapidly becoming a Drayton Valley tradition.

For the fifth year in a row, seniors from the Shangri-La Lodge, Leisure Lea Apartments and the Wishing Well, will be picked up in buses and given a tour of the Christmas lights in town.

This will be followed by coffee and cake at the Westwinds Motor Inn.

Danny Thompson, who organized the event five years ago, says the purpose of the tour was just to get the seniors out for a day.

"It gets the seniors out and gives them something to do.

Don Regenwetter, organizer of a 7,000-name petition requesting Ng be extradited to the U.S., questioned whether Ng will be able to be kept in prison after his sentence has ended and thought Ng might "walk."

"It was my understanding Mr. Ng was sentenced to a four-and-a-half year term for attempted robbery in Calgary in July of 1985. This would leave me to understand by simple calculation that he would be free in January of 1990.

Wendy Saitman states he will finish his conviction term in May or June but further to the charge is a second warrant signed pending the outcome of his appeal hearings to end "God only knows when," Regenwetter said.

"I feel at times the criminal has more rights than the law-abiding citizen."

It also gives them a chance to see the lights and check them out."

Over the last four years, response has been enthusiastic.

"They love it," says Thompson, who adds everyone always has a good time.

The bus and gas are donated by Joan Anderson, and the coffee and cake afterwards is donated as well, so there is no cost to the seniors.

Thompson says the seniors like to judge the lights on their own in addition to the chamber which sponsors a light-up contest every year.

Expensive Kenworth truck stolen

A 1988 Kenworth truck valued at approximately $150,000 was stolen from where it was parked in a fairly isolated area near Cynthia last week.

RCMP Const. Al Kaufmann referred to the theft as 'major. It appears there are some very active criminals in the oil patch."

The truck is orange in color, has a chrome front bumper and a large square hydraulic tank behind the sleeper.

Crime Stoppers will pay a cash award for information leading to the arrest of the thief or thieves.

Anyone with information regarding this vehicle is urged to contact Drayton Valley RCMP or, if wishing to remain anonymous, contact Crime Stoppers.

Medical help 'in a rapid way'

By Susan Moseicki

Five years ago, people in this area realized a need for a 24-hour line of communication with seniors and handicapped people who may be in need of emergency medical treatment.

Several volunteers got together and formed the Life Support Society of Drayton Valley and District.

"These people in their pursuits of their work realized there was a need to provide help to people in their homes," said treasurer Bill Johansson. "A method to seek help in a rapid way."

The society now has 40 remote-control units that can be worn as a brooch, bracelet or around the neck and in the case of an emergency, the person wearing it just touches the unit. An electrical impulse is transferred to the Drayton Valley Health Complex through the telephone system.

The alarm comes through on a screen at the hospital, along with the number of the unit.

A telephone call is then made to the person wearing the unit. If there is no answer, a neighborhood "sponsor" (volunteer) will be immediately sent over to check and see if the person requires a doctor or ambulance.

Johansson said this helps diminish anxiety for people living alone and helps them to live a more normal lifestyle.

"They maintain some independence."

Some would otherwise have to go into nursing homes and for some, he said, "that just demeolizes them completely."

The society was set up with the idea that cost would not be a deterrent for use.

Johansson said a $10 per month charge covers the unit, regular test calls every month, removal and replacing of batteries, and stand-by units in case of failure.

The approximate cost, to the society, of one unit is $700. All units are bought with 50 per cent grants and donations.

Sponsors are all volunteer, and all live within a very short distance of the person requiring assistance. There are several sponsors in each unit area.

Volunteers stick with the society because "the interest is still there and because the work is worthwhile," said Johansson.

Larsen facing 7 charges

Robert Larsen, 20, of Carnwood, will appear in Court of Queen's Bench Wetaskiwin Feb. 5, facing seven charges.

They arise from incidents in Drayton Valley May 6 leading up to a fatal accident near Lindale early in the morning May 7.

Charges include impaired operation of a motor vehicle, dangerous operation of a motor vehicle, impaired operation of a motor vehicle causing death, three counts of impaired operation of a motor vehicle causing bodily harm, and driving with a blood alcohol level over .08.

Beth Holmgren, 52, was killed as a result of injuries sustained in the two-vehicle collision on a gravel road two kilometres west of Lindale.

Driver Cecil Ellis, 62, was also injured when struck by the vehicle driven by Larsen.

Larsen did not sustain injuries in the collision, but two passengers in the vehicle he was driving were treated in hospital and later released.

Breton RCMP say two other charges: taking a motor vehicle without the owner's consent and driving while suspended, have been adjourned to an undetermined date.
